Survey shows fuel shortages easing in most areas of U.S.

By United Press International

There are increasing signs this week that the gasoline shortage is easing in the United States.

Production of gasoline is up. The increase in consumption this year is not as great as had been forecast.

Some stations are staying open longer hours for the first time in weeks. Allotments to stations have been increased by some suppliers.

But a UPI survey of conditions around the country also showed that supplies still are short in some areas— particularly the Northwest. In Ohio, officials are talking about the possibility of government-imposed rationing.

On the optimistic side, there have been these developments:

—The Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) said it had expected demand to be 6 or 7 per cent higher this year than last. As of late June, the demand was running around 5 per cent higher.

—The National Petroleum Refiners Association (NPRA) said American refineries have raised their production to 94 per cent of capacity and have announced plans to expand their capacity by some 2 million barrels a day within three years' time.

—Arco, Texaco, Gulf, Exxon and Shell have announced they can make more gasoline available to dealers this summer than originally had been expected. Arco had planned to hold its dealers to 96 per cent of the gasoline they received last year. Now its Eastern dealers will get 104 per cent.

—The Georgia Motor Club surveyed stations and found some have increased hours of operation for the first time in weeks. In Texas, an American Automobile Association (AAA) survey determined "the gasoline crunch has taken a turn for the better." The survey showed only half the stations that had held customers to a purchase limit were still limiting sales this week. Thirty-three per cent were limiting their hours, compared to 40 per cent the previous week.

—A Texaco station on the outskirts of Washington, D.C., put up a sign a souple of weeks ago saying, "Sorry, Gas Shortage, Now Closing Sunday." The sign came down during the past week. A new AAA survey said 58 per cent of stations in the Washington area were closing Sundays, compared to 77 per cent two weeks ago.

However, continued problems were reported in the Pacific Northwest. Oregon State Police said many motorists got stranded for the night during the past weekend when they ran out of gas short of the only major station open between Portland and Albany.

Washington State had a similar situation between Olympia and Vancouver. Part of the problem in Washington was traced to a "gas war" last year. Brand name stations asked for shorter supplies in 1972 because of bargains offered by independents. This year, many of the independents were out of business, and the big oil company stations were getting only 90 per cent of last year's shortened supplies, far short of demand.

In Ohio, Sen. William Saxbe said he believed widespread rationing was probably on tap next year.

The federal agencies closest to that situation say it is not so. A ration ticket was printed up as a sample in a contingency plan the now-defunct Office of Emergency Preparedness had circulated recently, an official said, but supplies of rationing tickets have not been printed.

CANCER FATAL

Betty Grable, the blonde whose legs made her the favorite pin-up girl of GIs in World War II, died late Monday night of lung cancer at the age of 56. This 1940 pinup picture of the late actress was the most popular among servicemen.

Cancer claims life of Betty Grable at 56

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Betty Grable, the blonde whose legs made her the favorite pinup girl of GIs in World War II, died Monday. She was 56.

St. John's hospital said she died Monday evening of lung cancer. She had been hospitalized since April.

Miss Grable, the queen of lavish technicolor movies and the highest paid woman in the United States in the late 1940s was for years voted among the top 10 stars in box office appeal.

Walnut cyclist dies of injuries

POMONA — A Walnut youth, injured last Wednesday when his motorcycle collided with a truck, died Monday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Darryl Gene Young, 18, of 20305 Temple Ave., had been admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit with head and leg injuries. His condition was termed critical.

Young was going north on Brea Canyon Road when his cycle collided with a truck which was crossing north on Cold Springs Road, highway patrolmen said.

Guidelines adopted

Peace aura pervades Helsinki conference

HELSINKI (UPI)—Thirty - five nations of East and West opened the European Security Conference today and immediately endorsed a series of guidelines aimed at turning the dying cold war into an era of lasting peace.

It was the largest post-war European conference and possibly the biggest since the 1815 Congress of Vienna, when almost every European nation met in the Austrian capital to repair the ravages of the Napoleonic era.

The guidelines—on trade, on hedges against surprise attack and on more "human contacts" between East and West—had been worked out in seven months of laborious preparatory talks here.

But it took the 35 foreign ministers barely 10 seconds to approve the guidelines, which will go now to committees of experts for refining into concrete proposals to be adopted later.

The approval caught most delegates by surprise. Finnish Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen, presiding over the 32-minute opening session of the conference, asked if there were any objections to the guidelines. There were none, and Karjalainen pronounced them approved.

The guidelines include an exchange of observers at military maneuvers, a better deal for Western business and newsmen in Eastern Europe, broader exchanges of information, easier East-West marriages—even guarantees of sovereignty that the West interprets as a renunciation of the "Brezhnev Doctrine", which Russia used to justify its invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

S.D. man is counterfeiting ring suspect

LOS ANGELES — A San Dimas man was among four suspects arrested Monday in a federal investigation of what an FBI spokesman termed "the largest and most sophisticated counterfeiting operation in the country."

Jerome Sachs, 37, of 301 N. San Dimas Ave., was booked on charges of conspiracy and conterfeiting. Others arrested were Stanley Halprin, 47, Los Angeles; Daniel Migdol, 43, Hawthorne and Howard Gallowitz, who refused to give his age or address.

Robert E. Powiss, special agent in charge of the U.S. Treasury Department's Secret Service unit here, said the four men probably would be arraigned today before a U.S. magistrate in federal court.

The arrests were the result of a joint investigation by the Secret Service and the FBI. Agents seized $100,000 in counterfeit $100 bills and $100,000 worth of bogus travelers' checks drawn on the Bank of America. Powiss stressed that none of the $100 bills had been passed.

The suspects were arrested when they attempted to pass the counterfeits at a branch of the Bank of America, agents said.

The FI spokesman said the counterfeiting headquarters was in a printing plant in El Segundo.

Lawman rescues five young hostages, disarms convicts

NEW WASHINGTON, Ohio (UPI) — A state police captain Monday smuggled five children out of their home through an upstairs window and then went back in to disarm a heavily armed pair of prison escapers who had held them and their mother hostage.

Ann Neidermier's husband had left for work, and she was at home alone with the children when the escaped prisoners burst in, looking for a place to hide and rest.

A neighbor saw the pair and telephoned police. Ohio Highway Patrol Capt. John J. Fullenkamp brought 20 officers and surrounded the house, but he hesitated to attack for fear of the safety of the family.

Fullenkamp said the gunmen had placed the five children in one upstairs bedroom and held the woman in another upstairs room.

"A TV tower was next to the bedroom, so I decided to go up it to get the children out," he said. The tower was 25 feet tall.

"I told the oldest boy to caution his little brothers and sisters not to yell out. They didn't say a word. They were real heroes. I took them down the tower without the two gunmen knowing about it."

Then Fullenkamp, still undetected by the gunmen, decided the only way to get Mrs. Neidermier out was to rush the gunmen—but alone, so he could sneak in and ambush them.

"I climbed through another window, into a hallway and saw one of them with a rifle," said Fullenkamp, who was armed with a shotgun. "I jumped him and knocked the rifle out of his hands and he pulled a pistol.

"I got it away from him and overpowered him. By this time more officers were coming in the house and the other guy gave up.

"Every day of my 25 years with the patrol has been interesting. This was just something I had to do today," said Fullenkamp, 46, the father of nine children.

Police identified the escaped prisoners as Richard Osborn, 29, of Newark, Ohio, and Robert Herschberger, 31, of Akron, Ohio, who walked away frim the prison dairy farm in Marion, Ohio. Officers said they broke into a house near Marion and stole half a dozen weapons, including rifles, pistols and shotguns.

The two then stole a car and led police on a chase into this Crawford County community of 1,251. In the pursuit, Deputy William Bender, 48, was killed when his squad car struck a truck west of Marion.

The convicts abandoned their stolen car in a wooded area near here and ran to the Neidermier home.

Palm Springs inferno still 'out of control'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — "The One Horse Fire," the worst blaze in California this year, burned unchecked into a fourth day today, flaming through mountain timber country and into a scenic state park.

With more than 10,000 charred acres of forest and brush land behind it, the fire moved ahead on a four mile wide front in the fringes of Mount San Jacinto State Park, six miles northwest of this popular Southern California resort city.

The state division of forestry and U.S. Forest Service fielded an army of 1,500 men—and the six women of the "Morningstar Blue's" from Fresno, Calif., an all female squad that is a rarity in the virtually all male world of forest fire fighting teams.

Because of the rough mountain terrain into which the fire burned—steep slopes, peaks reaching 6,500 feet and more, —the firefighters were chasing the blaze in a fleet of 12 helicopters.

They used ropes to clamber down cliff faces to get at the spearheads of flame.

The fire started in dry brush land Saturday near One Horse Springs, from which it took its name. Authorities said the blaze, which began in the Morongo Indian Reservation, was started by fireworks. Three boys were questioned by sheriff's deputies and released.

Forest Service officials estimated the fire had consumed more than one million board feet of timber since it got into the pine forests at higher elevations, and done $359,000 damage to timber, watershed and equipment.

Report Army, Corps to drop POW charges

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Army is preparing to drop charges of collaborating with the enemy against five enlisted men who were prisoners of the North Vietnamese, the Chicago Tribune reported today.

The Marine Corp., the Tribune said, is also connsidering dropping similar charges against two of its enlisted men.

Nixon will huddle with Chinese envoy

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon will meet at the Western White House with Ambassador Huang Chen, China's top envoy in Washington, on Friday, governent sources said today.

The meeting, which will include presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, was set up apparently to enlist the Chinese government's assistance in settling the Cambodian war.

Government sources said that a visit to the United States in October by Chinese Premier Chou En Lai was possible.

Heat's on for picnics, parades

'Hot' July 4th predicted

By JEANNE BRYANT
P-B Staff Writer

A Fourth of July filled with the traditional fireworks, flag-waving, parades and picnics will also bring sizzling temperatures and the chance of fires and accidents on Wednesday.

And celebrants will have to contend with an extra dose of smog.

Warnings against the illegal use of fireworks have been issued by law engorcement officials, and traffic officers will be extra alert for violators of laws on the roads.

"Safe and sane" fireworks are legal only in the citties in which they are sold; other types of fireworks are illegal. Local cities allowing "safe and sane" fireworks include La Verne, Walnut and Chino.

Portions of the San Bernardino Mountains have been closed to the public and fireworks of all types are strictly prohibited in all national forests.

Holiday weather will be sunny and hot with a high of 103 degrees.

Forecaster Bill Hackel of the National Weather Service office in Riverside said the high temperature in Pomona today will be 102 degrees.

The weather observation station at Cal Poly reported that Pomona had a high temperature Monday of 96 degrees and a low this morning of 65 degrees. Temperatures are expected to decrease a few degrees Thursday and Friday.

There will be smoggy skies today and the San Bernardino County Air Pollution Control District has called a heavy smog alert for all areas of the county.

The APCD has requested that all unnecessary driving be curtailed. The peak reading in San Bernardino County Monday was .54 parts per million in Fontana.

Moderate to heavy smog is forecast today for Pomona, where the peak reading on Monday was .21 ppm.

County, state, federal and municipal offices and most businesses will be closed Wednesday because of the holiday. Refuse will not be collected and trash service will be a day later the remainder of the week in Pomona, San Dimas, La Verne Claremont, Walnut, Ontario, Montclair and Chino. Refuse will be picked up on the holiday in Upland.

State's dairymen ask 2-cent raise to avoid shortage

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California dairymen have called for milk prices to be increased by at least two cents a quart so they can keep up with their rapidly rising production costs.

A large number of producers testified Monday before a state Department of Food and Agriculture hearing into dairy industry requests to increase the retail cost of milk to cover the rising cost of producing it.

Most of the producers testifying requested a two-cent boost per quart but several said a larger boost was necessary to permit the industry to "survive" financially.

Gale Hopson, a dairyman from Anderson, urged dairymen to stop producing milk unless they received assurance of a "decent price increase" from the department panel which conducted the hearing.

Some of the producers warned the rising cost of feed, labor, buildings and equipment were driving many of them out of business and could result in a milk shortage. They said feed costs have increased about 20 per cent this year.

Food industry fears collapse in 60-day freeze

By United Press International

Food industry spokesmen contend much of the nation's food distribution system will collapse if the current price freeze is allowed to continue its full 60 days.

The warning came in Washington Monday at a hearing by the administration's Food Industry Advisory Committee into plans for the Phase IV economic program that will follow the freeze President Nixon imposed in mid-June.

While the committee was in session in Washington, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz was at Kenansville, N.C., where he told a meeting of Young Republicans that price freezes and controls are "self-defeating in the long run." He said cattlemen and other food producers were being forced to curtail production because consumers were demanding that food be sold near the current cost of production or below.

"Their alternative is to produce at no profit or a loss," Butz said. "That's the self-defeating part."

A number of food producers have complained the freeze is forcing them to sell their goods below the cost of production.

Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of food chains, said he understood that a freeze "is supposed to hurt." But he said it was pointless "to make the pain so intense that it causes the collapse of large portions of the nation's food distribution system."

Adamy warned this will happen if the freeze lasts the maximum 60 days.

R. Hal Dean, chairman of Ralston Purina Co., agreed the situation was critical.

"The food industry is facing a crisis of unprecedented proportions that threatens the American people's confidence in private industries' ability to provide adequate food supplies," Dean said.

Dean said the administration should move to Phase IV immediately.

Government stabilization officials already have indicated they expect Phase IV to be started before Aug. 13—the outside deadline Nixon has set for the end of the freeze.

Last week, the administration placed an embargo on soybean and cottonseed exports, hoping to bolster domestic livestock feed supplies and hold down food prices. On Monday, government officials converted the embargo into a licensing program designed to restrict exports and drop domestic soybean meal prices. Soybeans and soybean meal have more than tripled in price during the past year.

President William J. Kuhfuss of the American Farm Bureau Federation told the Food Industry Advisory Committee earlier Monday the embargo was "regrettable." He said it was "another move toward more government interference in markets which is not in the best interest of American agriculture or the American economy."

In other developments:

—In Denver, John Trotman, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, predicted a meat shortage in October lasting through December if present trends continue. He said it will last longer if the freeze is not rolled back.

—In Syracuse, N.Y., Eugene R. Vadebord, first vice president of the Dairylea Milk Cooperative, Inc., wired President Nixon that millions of consumers — especially around New York—face a shortage of milk to drink and dairy products because of poor weather and inadequate milk prices.

—The Agriculture Department predicted U.S. beef imports will reach a record 1,450 billion pounds in the third quarter of this year.

—The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said in Rome that the worldwide supply of meat is expected to increase, thereby giving some relief to sharply rising world prices.

Ayala proposes prisoner department for county

SAN BERNARDINO — Countp Supervisor Ruben S. Ayala has proposed a new department of corrections be formed to handle the custody of county prisoners.

This could include the Glen Helen Rehabilitation Center, San Bernardino County jail and other facilities where prisoners are held, he said.

At present, these jails are under the jurisdiction of the sheriff's office.

"Most sheriff's deputies are hired and taught law enforcement, surveillance, arrests, confrontation with mobs and search and rescue operations," Ayala explained.

"We now have people trained to arrest the prisoners and keep them in custody.

Ayala said correction and rehabilitation are fields by themselves.

"The maximum time a person can spend in a county jail is one year," he added. This doesn't give us much time for rehabilitaion. But they can be helped during the one year with counselling or being taught a trade."

Should such a department be formed, this would relieve many deputies now assigned to jail duties for patrol work, said Ayala.

Other county supervisors supported Ayala's proposal that the county administartor's office be given 9 0days to do research on the feasibility of the new department.

"If this doesn't prove practical or will not save taxpayers any money, then we may not go ahead."

Ayala said one possibility would be to have the new department of corrections come under the probation department.

"This is not to take away from the sheriff. He is wearing two hats — as chief law enforcement officer of the county and as the warden. I don't believe these two jobs are the same."

Ayala said the new program couldn't go into operation this fiscal year. "But we can be prepared for the next fiscal year."

San Dimas man falls in canyon hike; rescued

SAN DIMAS — A San Dimas man was in fair condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital after falling while hiking in Lodi Canyon about a mile west of San Dimas Canyon Road.

Ronald Waterman, 26, of 621 Pearlanna St., suffered a broken left arm, leg and rib injuries when he fell about 40 feet Tuesday afternoon.

Fourteen members of the San Dimas Mountain Rescue Team went into the canyon and carried Waterman to San Dimas Canyon Road in a litter stretcher. He was picked up there and taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said the terrain where Waterman fell is so rugged they could not send a helicopter there to fly him out.

Ontario mayor hired by Pomona paper company

POMONA — Howard J. Snider, mayor of Ontario, has been hired by Garden State Paper Co., Inc., here as director of governmental affairs.

He will work with city, county, state and government officials in seeking ways of recycling used newspapers.

"I am very pleased to be associated with this firm which is involved in answering the urgent need of recycling reusable materials, thereby conserving our natural resources."

His appointment was announced by Richard B. Scudder, chairman of Garden State's board of trustees. The firm also has newspaper recycling mills in Garfield, N. J., and Alspi, Ill.

The company's current production of new newsprint from used newspapers at the three operations is about 350,000 tons per year.

Snider had previously served as a stockbroker in the Pomona and Ontario area for the past 12 years. The office of mayor is a part-time position.

Nixon rules out going before Ervin committee

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon intends to tell his version of the Watergate story to "an appropriate forum" —but not to the Ervin Committee and not until the committee's hearings end, which may be months away.

The Western White House Monday flatly ruled out any appearance by the President before the Ervin committee, the federal grand jury investigating Watergate crimes, or before newsmen while the Senate probe continues.

"The President will speak to this matter in what he considers an appropriate forum," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters Monday.

"Because of the President's strong feelings of the separation of powers and the prerogative of the executive branch, he will not testify before the Ervin Committee," Ziegler said.

"It would be constitutionally inappropriate."

Herbert G. Klein, former White House director of communications, told interviewers Nixon was "deeply hurt" at being "let down" by his former aides in the scandal.

Ziegler made it clear that Nixon would hold no news conferences while witnesses are appearing before the Ervin Committee.

The Watergate phase of the hearings is expeited to continue at least until mid August. The committee plans to call at least nine more witnesses, including former Attorney General John Mitchell and key White House aides John Erhlichman and H. R. Haldeman. Their testimony—like that of John Dean, which lasted a week—is expected to be lengthy.

Ziegler told reporters it would not be correct to say that Nixon plans to "respond" to Dean's charges implicating the President in the Watergate cover-up.

Rather, Ziegler said the President "will address this matter when this stage of the hearings is over."

He said that Nixon and his top advisers were involved in skull sessions on what would be a proper forum for the chief executive to discuss his side of the Watergate story.

In Washington, Attorney General Elliot Richardson said several forums were being considered, among them a news conference where Nixon would deliver a written statement and then answer questions; a meeting with a limited number of reporters or a session with Congressional leadership.

Nixon has not personally discussed Watergate since April 30 when he delivered a televised address and reported on the ouster of Dean, and resignations of Haldeman and Erlichman.

Ziegler said, however, that Nixon still stands on his May 22 written statement that he had no prior knowledge of the Watergate bugging, or the cover-up nor did he offer executive clemency to the defendants.

The word from "La Casa Pacifica" is that Nixon is beginning to take the crisis more in stride now and "is more relaxed."

golden haired film star decorated thousands of foxholes and barracks during World War II and GIs voted her their all time favorite pinup.

She married her co-star "College Swing," Jackie Coogan, "The Kid" of silent film fame, on Nov. 21, 1937. She divorced him Oct. 11, 1939, complaining he had a quarrelsome disposition and was not considerate of her welfare.

In 1939 she went to Broadway for a supporting role in the musical "Dubarry Was a Lady" and ended up stealing the show from its star, Ethel Merman.

This brought Miss Grable an offer to star in "Down Argentine Way" when the film's original star, Alice Faye, became ill. This technicolor musical became the format for a dozen other Grable films such as "Pin-Up Girl," "Moon over Miami" and "Mother Wore Tights."

When Darryl Zanuck said he would make her a great actress in the role of a drunk in the drama "The Razor's Edge," Miss Grable turned him down.

"People would expect me to end up as a mermaid and rise with seaweed in my hair," she said.

After her divorce from Coogan and a romance with George Raft, Miss Grable married band leader Harry James on July 5, 1943, in Las Vegas, Nev. The couple had two daughters, Victoria, 29, and Jessica, 27.

She and James were horse racing fans, and owned several horses. When her career faded in the 1950s, they moved to Las Vegas where she occasionally substituted for other performers at hotel casinos.

Miss Grable divorced James in 1965 after 22 years of marriage, charging him with extreme cruelty.

After her divorce, she starred for several months in the musical "Hello Dolly," in Las Vegas and made television commercials.

Despite her success, the actress was always modest and frank about her talents. She was the first to admit that she was far from the world's best singer or dancer, and she didn't think the famous Grable "gams" were all that great either. She often said she thought Marlene Dietrich's legs were better.

have planned extensive festivities.

In Pomona, one of the largest pyrotechnic displays in the southland will be discharged at the Pomona Firemen's Association's fifth annual fireworks show at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. Gates will open at 5 p.m. and music will begin at 5:30, followed by a 6:30 program. KWOW disc jocksy Bob Bosche and Bill Williams will be the masters of ceremonies for the show which will feature famous recording artists, television personalities, local talent, the Pomona Concert Band and a demonstration of fire-fighting equipment. Fireworks at dusk will include aerial displays and set pieces.

A "free-for-all" celebration has been planned in La Verne to give residents an old-fashioned Fourth. Events will begin with a breakfast from 7 to 10 a.m. served at Third and D streets. This is the only community event of the day which will require payment.

La Verne activities will continue throughout the day with a parade, followed by a watermelon feed at Kuns Park for all participants; free swimming from 2 to 4 p.m. at the city swimming pool and a program and fireworks display at Bonita High School in the evening. The program will begin with the Miss La Verne Beauty Contest.

Claremont will sponsor a talent "share-in" as part of its Fourth of July celebration at 10 a.m. on Memorial Park's stage. Other events at the park during the day will be a chalk art contest at 9 a.m. for youngsters and a program by Chet Jaeger and his Dixieland Band at 3:45 p.m. The city's annual parade at 4:30 p.m. will start at Indian Hill Boulevard and 10th Street and proceed south on Indian Hill Boulevard, east on Fourth Street, north on Harvard Avenue and west on 10th Street. Grand marshal will be Col. John E. Stavast.

Fates to Pomona College Alumni Field will open at 6 p.m. for the 9:15 p.m. fireworks show in Claremont. The program will begin at 7 p.m.

The San Dimas Jaycees will sponsor their sixth annual Fourth of July parade at 10 a.m. The parade will begin its route down Bonita Avenue at San Dimas Canyon Road.

Jaycee Wives will stage a pancake breakfast at the Canyon Shopping Center prior to the parade at 8 a.m.

Picnic tables will line Euclid Avenue in Ontario for the 57th annual All-States Picnic. State queens will visit their state tables at 11 a.m. and will be crowned at noon.

State queens will also be featured in the annual All-States Parade at 2 p.m. The first parade was held in 1939. Beginning at Fifth and Euclid avenues, the parade will proceed south on Euclid to B Street.

In the evening, Ontario residents will be offered the annual fireworks display at the Chaffey High School stadium sponsored by the Ontario Parkway Kiwanis Club. An 8 p.m. program will precede the 8:45 pyrotechnic display.

Gates will open at 6 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College stadium for the annual West Covina Chamber of Commerce fireworks show. A program featuring Billy Barty, comedian Joe Bingo, marching bands, clowns and an aerial fireworks display will begin at 7:30 p.m.

"Stay sober and keep slow vehicles out of fast freeway lanes" is the advice offered to those traveling during the holiday.

Capt. W. C. Jones, commander of the California Highway Patrol office in Claremont, stated that extra officers will be assigned to the field during the day and evening shifts on the Fourth of July. Jones said special emphasis has been placed on drunken drivers and slow drivers in fast freeway lanes.

Jones has cancelled days off for some officers and reassigned others normally assigned to the vehicle inspection program. He will assign 11 officers to the field during the day shift and 21 in the afternoon shift when the traffic volume is expected to increase.

"By having the holiday in the middle of the week, we don't expect the heavy volume that would have occurred if it had fallen on a weekend," Jones noted.

Flights to Mars if willing to spend

HONOLULU (UPI) — Astronauts will reach the planet Mars "within our lifetime" if Americans are willing to spend the money, says the commander of America's last manned moon flight.

Navy Capt. Eugene Cernan was in Hawaii Monday with the two other astronauts who flew Apollo 17 to the moon earlier this year, Capt. Ronald Evans and Dr. Harrison Schmitt, a geologist.

"It all depends on how much the American people are willing to spend on the space program," Cernan said. "We could have astronauts walking on the surface of Mars within our lifetime if there is enough money."

Schmitt said America could put a permanent base on the moon within five years, but he predicted that Mars will capture the interest of scientists and that Americans may not return to the moon within 10 years.

Douglas-Home 70; diplomats visit

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home celebrated his 70th birthday Monday and ministers from all over the world heading for Helsinki to attend the European Security conference made special stopovers to pay their respects to the "grand old man" of British diplomacy.

Probe 'drunk' case involving senator

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Maricipa County Attorney Moise Berger announced Monday that the grand jury would investigate complaints of criminal activity in the dismissal of drunken driving charges against Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz.

Fannin was arrested last November by a policeman who said the senator was driving erratically. The charges were dismissed after three doctors said Fannin had been taking a prescribed drug that could have affected an adverse breathalyzer reading.

Resignation of Anderson accepted

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif (UPI) — President Nixon has accepted the resignation of Robert B. Anderson as special U.S. representative in the Panama Canal Treaty negotiations.

A spokesman at the western White House said Monday the resignation was accepted with "deep regret." Anderson, former Treasury Secretary in the Eisenhower administration, has been involved for the past nine years in negotiating with Panama, who wants the canal back.

6-month sentence for Sirhan brother

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sharif B. Sirhan, brother of convicted assassin Sirhan B. Sirhan, has himself been sentenced to jail—for threatening the life of Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Sirhan, 40, was found guilty Monday of mailing a letter to Secretary of State William P. Rogers threatening Mrs. Meir during her visit to the United States earlier this year. He was sentenced to six months in jail but allowed to go free on $10,000 bail pending appeal.

Nixon women visit sick kin in L.A.

They drove to Los Angeles to see Mrs. Nixon's stepbrother, Matt Bender, who is sick. They also did some shopping.

CIA to watch its step, Nixon nominee promises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William E. Colby, President Nixon's nominee to head the Central Intelligence Agency, Monday said he would resign rather than let the White House use the CIA for domestic intelligence in violation of its charter.

However, Colby also told a Senate confrimation hearing Monday—with only one Senator present—that CIA would still have numerous functions to perform within the United States, including the collection of intelligence information on foreign governments from U.S. citizens and the surveillance of foreigners in the United State.

He also said he could "envision a situation where the CIA might help a White House employe meet someone" under a false identity, but added, "I think we are going to be very careful with some of our unique equipment and we are not going to let it out without our control."

It has recently been disclosed that CIA provided E. Howard Hunt, who later pleaded guilty in the Watergate case, with a wig, false identification and various electronic equipment allegedly later used in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Colby acknowledged that providing spy equipment to Hunt was "a mistake" but said it would not be made again.

L.V. seeks help in fighting mobile park

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — The City of La Verne is soliciting help from Pomona and Claremont to defeat a recommendation by the Regional Planning Commission for a large mobile home park in county territory surrounded by the three cities.

A proposal for the construction of a 40-acre development with approximately 400 spaces north of Foothill Boulevard between Williams and Bradford avenues was recently passed by the county commission and is scheduled to go before the Board of Supervisors July 26.

La Verne is not only miffed because the city was not consulted about a development in its area of influence; it contends that the mobile home park would be in conflict with the general plan which has just been completed, and which calls for higher quality homes in the area.

The matter was brought before the City Council by Councilman Harrison Sanborn Monday night. He said he was at a loss to understand why the county's planning commission had "failed to exercise the courtesy it usually extends to the cities which are affected by such a development."

At his suggestion, the council passed a motion asking support from neighboring Claremont and Pomona when La Verne goes before the supervisors to oppose the development.

Planning Director Charles Le Gros said the land, adjacent to the eastern boundary of the city, is earmarked in the general plan mostly for quality single residential developments with a density of one unit per 10,000 square feet.

In another zoning development, the council granted the request of the owners of a parcel of land on the northwest corner of Wheeler and Base Line avenues for a change from commercial and multiple residential to single residential — R1-10,000 — zone.

The parcel has been a point of controversy for several months. It is where Alpha Beta Markets wanted to build a shopping center, and where developer Clyde Warren wanted to develop a planned residential subdivision. Both were opposed by residents in the area.

James Hummel, attorney for the owners, told the council Monday that his clients preferred to rezone their property to residential so they would not have to pay taxes on the more highly valued commercial property.

In other matters, the council:

— Continued a freeze for four months on all construction other than single residences, on property north of the proposed Foothill Freeway. The action was taken to allow public hearings to proceed on the general plan.

— Authorized the extension of a mutual aid agreement for the fire department between La Verne and West Covina, Azusa, Covina and Monrovia in the event of a disaster.

— Postponed awarding of bids for the construction of a three-million gallon reservoir because the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has not yet completed a check of the plans.

Pettis to note 2 national Independence Days in Chino

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rpe. Jerry Pettis will observe two national "Independence Days" Wedensday.

On the day of the customary American celebration of freedom, the congressman and his wife, Shirley, will visit caves in the Shensi Province of the People's Republic of China—an area that is honored by Chinese as the cradle of another "freedom."

The caves are historically significant because Mao Tse Tung and his fledgling Communist party once hid there to evade the approaching Japanese army.

Philosophically the two hard-fought freedoms are as many miles apart as are Washington and Peking. But in the cold, calculating world of reality, says Pettis, the two capitals can no longer afford to avoid mutual recognition.

"They've seen our top officials," said Pettis. "Now it's time for them to see and learn how our government really works from the guys who shoulder a good part of the load — the working stiffs on Capitol Hill.

"Myself, I want to see how decisions are made in their government. I know Chou En-Lai (heir apparent to Mao Tse Tung) pretty much runs the country. But he can't make all the daily decisions about routine matters. That must be done by members of their Central Committee, or whoever, and I think it is important that we gain an insight into their governmental structure."

Pettis, with his commerce-oriented background, was chosen for the mission to present and evaluate possible trade prospects between the United States and China.

"I'm not expecting any major trade breakthroughs," said Pettis. "They have been shut off from the world for too long."

The congressman said there are areas of cooperation readily available to develop, once the proper dialogue has been established.

"We want to talk about possible exploration of energy resources," he said. "I believe they are anxious to do this because they need our technology. They don't have near the technological know how we do.

"But they do have tremendous potential in untapped resources. An agreement along those lines could be mutually advantageous for both sides."

Pettis said he also hopes to discuss possible aviation development with China. He said United Airlines has been talking with the Chinese about setting up a "kind of training system for airlines."

The congressman indicated this is another area of vital interest to the Chinese, because a country that large cannot afford to limp along with a one-horse airline.

The State Department itinerary had the congressmen leaving Washington Saturday. For two weeks they will tour China; from Shanghai, to Peking to Central China, to Eastern China and back to Shanghai. The party will return to the U.S July 16.

Minimal courtesies were advised to be followed—one or two long dresses for the women (not too formal); no bright red attire, it "could have political connotations;" sleeveless okay, but no low necklines.

One Chinese custom which might come as a relief for congressmen is no tipping, and no giving gifts that might be construed as tipping.

Pettis said he is "excited" about this opportunity to visit China. And despite some minor criticism that he should decline the invitation to a Communist state, the congressman said it is foolish to believe Americans can prolong the pretense that China does not exist.

The best proof for that, according to Pettis, is to look at the millions of dollars U.S. markets have been denied because of a closed-door China policy.

LA VERNE — Twelve candidates will be vying to become Miss La Verne 1973 Wednesday at the annual community queen contest set for Independence day.

The contest will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Bonita High School Bowl, just before the annual community fireworks start.

Phil Carrol will be master of ceremonies. Judges will be Mrs. James Sink, Mrs. Ray Gribbin, Mrs. Gerry Peck, Jack Baker and Charles Le Gros.

Trophies will be given to the new queen and to two of her runners-up. The judging will include a demonstration of talent.

Chino crash injures two

CHINO — Two persons were injured Monday night in a two-car collision at Riverside Drive and Oaks Avenue.

Millard Allen Nine, 40, of 13251 19th St., Chino, one of the two drivers involved in the 9:11 p.m. accident was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Chino General Hospital recovering from multiple injuries. The other driver, Donald William Fleisher, 19, of 1334 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland, was given emergency first aid treatment at the hospital for minor injuries and later released.

John Dumont of $120 Orchard St. was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital's intensive care unit. He is listed in fair condition.

He was going east on the freeway about 60 miles an hour and speeded up to pass traffic when his cycle began to wobble, highway patrolmen said. Dumont lost control and the cycle overturned.

60-acre brush fire blamed on cigarette

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — A discarded cigarette is believed to be the cause of a brush fire that burned 60 acres of vacant land south of the Pomona Freeway Monday afternoon.

Traffic on the eastbound lanes of the Pomona Freeway was backed up for a time during the rush hour as the fire burned adjacent to the freeway. One lane of the freeway was closed to give access to fire fighting equipment.

A total of 12 engine companies, six camp crews, two helicopters manned by 150 firemen from the county fought the blaze which started at 5:45 p.m. and was contained about 9 p.m. Crews stayed at the scene throughout the night to mop up hot spots.

Ontario murder trial delayed by illness

ONTARIO — The murder trial for William Latimer Wheeler, 27, of Fontana, accused of killing a 10-month-old Ontario child March 9 has been delayed until Thursday due to the illness of the defendant.

Trial for Wheeler began last week in West Valley Superior Court before a seven-woman, five-man jury and Judge James Cunningham. Wheeler is accused of murder in connection with the death of Virginia Ann Dekker of 1119 E. Emporia St., Ontario.

The prosecution led by Deputy Dist. Atty. Bill Parker contends that Wheeler on March 9 in the Emporia Street apartment picked up the baby and dashed her head against the wall causing a fatal skull fracture.

Parker said Monday that Wheeler, who is out on bail, was suffering from the flu and was unable to appear Monday. Parker indicated he expects the rest the prosecution's case Thursday. Defense testimony then will begin led by Pasadena attorney John Whyte.

Dr. Irving Root, San Bernardino County pathologist, has testified that two severe fractures found on the baby's head could not have been caused by a fall or by a severe shaking against a wall. Dr. Root said it would have taken extreme force to cause the injuries.

Tells of telephone call

Burt changes his testimony

SAN BERNARDINO — Benton Douglas Burt, 30, on trial with his wife, Andrea Hom man Burt, 19 in the bloody Oct. 6 ambush-escape of prison inmate Ronald Wayne Beaty testified Monday that Beaty called him at his apartment in Hayward that evening.

The Burts are charged with murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and rescuing a prisoner in connection with Beaty's escape. Beaty has testified that the Burts helped plan and execute his escape and participated in the killing of prison Guard Jesus Sanchez.

Burt on the stand in San Bernardino County Superior Court Monday said the evening of Oct. 6 he was at his home in Hayward when he received a call from Beaty. He said it was the first time he had heard that Beaty had escaped. Burt said Beaty's call made him angry because it would cause the police, searching for Beaty and his rescuers, to regard him as a suspect.

Burt admitted in cross-examination by Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph Canty that he testified differently at a bail motion in Ontario Municipal Court last October. At that time he said he learned of Beaty's escape Oct. 7, making no mention of a phone call from Beaty the previous evening.

In direct examination last week Burt denied knowledge of Beaty's escape.

Beaty has testified that on the evening of Oct. 6 he was with the Burts in Gilroy. He said at that time that another member of the ambush group, Mrs. Jean Hobson, placed a long distance telephone call from a pay phone in an attempt to learn what happened to another member of the ambush party that became separated from the rest of the group near Los Angeles. Mrs. Hobson has been charged with the same offenses as the Burts but will be tried separately.

According to telephone company records introduced into evidence by the prosecution, calls were made from a pay telephone in Gilroy the evening of Oct. 6, 1972, to the Burts' Hayward apartment and to the Los Altos residence of Mrs. Sylvia Stead, where Beaty said he later spent the night.

Mrs. Stead was subpoenaed to testify for the prosecution, but cited the Fifth Amendment in a hearing outside the presence of the jury and refused to testify.

New judge for Chino

CHINO — Philip Schaefer, 40, took the bench today as new judge of the Chino Justice Court.

He succeeds Benjamin Burrell, who resigned to become a county traffic referee.

County Supervisor Ruben S. Ayala appointed Schaefer to the post Monday at the Board of Supervisors morning session. Schaefer was then sworn into office before the supervisors.

His court docket today included small claims cases and court trials.

Schaefer, a graduate of Loyola University, has lived in the Chino area for the past two years. He had previously worked for the district attorney's office in San Bernardino County and was associated with a Pomona law firm.

When appointed as judge, Schaefer was a member of the law firm of Maroney, Demchuk, Brandt and Schaefer.

CHINO HAY FIRE — Bundles of burning hay topple towards Chino firemen battling this blaze Monday afternoon at 5438 Philadelphia Ave. The fire destroyed 50 tons of hay valued at $2,250. It was caused by children playing with "safe and sane" fireworks, according to Chino Fire Inspector Forrest Alderman. The children are being sought for counseling. Chino firemen urged residents to use extreme caution in the use of so-called "safe and sane" fireworks on the Fourth of July due to the high fire danger in the Chino area.

Montclair to explore extending it

Zone of influence dilemma

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — City Councilman Ernest Rowley opened the lid on potential controversy Monday night by suggesting that the city explore the possibilities of extending Montclair's southerly zone of influence to the Pomona Freeway.

"The freeway is the logical natural boundary for the city," said Rowley in suggesting that the city staff look into the matter. "It doesn't look like Chino is doing anything in that area."

Councilman Leonard Soper disagreed with Rowley's contention that the freeway would be a "natural" boundary for Montclair, noting instead that talk of extending the zone of influence might create a lot of problems.

"It won't serve any useful purpose," said Soper. "This isn't something we should put off on the city staff to study. It should be a policy decision by us."

"I don't want to antagonize or cause hard feelings with the city of Chino," emphasized Rowley. He held firm to his suggestion that the matter be studied, however, and was joined in that position by Councilman Paul Jones.

Mayor Harold Hayes pointed out that the long-standing zone of influence boundary between Montclair and Chino has been Phillips Street.

"Phillips has been the line we've looked at for a ling time," said Hayes. "We had Chino's cooperation when the zones of influence were set up. This could be considered a breach of understanding." No official action was taken by the council.

The area in question was once the subject of a bitter controversy between the cities of Montclair, Chino and Ontario.

In 1965 when San Bernardino County approved a master plan for the West End, Ontario relinquished its claim on the area while Montclair and Chino established the Phillips Street boundary for future planning purposes.

Presently, Chino's northern boundary generally runs along the Pomona Freeway, while Montclair's southern city limit generally runs along State Street.

In other matters, the council;

—Authorized the city to advertise for bids for landscaping of the water retention basin north of San Bernardino Street and south of the San Bernardino Freeway. The basin will be the first of four to be converted into a natural canyon area to be called Montclair Parkway.

—Set July 16 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed amendment to the City's R3 (multiple family dwelling) ordinance. The amendment covers densities, setbacks and requirements for conditional use permits.

—Gave first reading to an ordinance which will raise the cost of licensing a bicycle in the city by 40 cents. The present cost is $1 with the increase necessary to cover the city's cost in supporting the proposed state-wide stolen bicycle program under the Department of Justice.

—Directed the city staff to look into the possibility of using state funds for a permananent mini-bus operation in the city. According to Asst. City Administrator Tom Mauk, the city would have to amend its application to the Southern California Association of Governments for SB325 funds as a first step in setting up a mini-bus operation.

—Was informed by City Administrator Lauren Wasserman that the proposed Chino Hills Airport would be under discussion at a joint meeting of the City Council and Planning Commission next Monday at 5 p.m. in the council chambers. Proponents of the airport are scheduled to speak at the meeting.

Garliepp re-elected Chaffey school board president; principal pay hiked

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — The Chaffey school board Monday night re-elected James F. Garliepp Jr. as its president, approved a 4.7 per cent increase in the principal's salary position and learned that the new Valley View High School would be completed in time for classes in September.

Garliepp, an Ontario businessman, was the unanimous choice of his fellow board members to serve as chairman for a thrid term. He expressed his thanks, and said he would continue to work hard in his efforts for the school board.

Elected along with Garliepp were board members G.A. Chalfant as vice president, and John Schnepp as clerk. Chalfant, who won re-election to the board in April, served as clerk during the 1972-73 term.

The board was also unanimous in its approval of the maximum principal's salary position increase. The hike established the position at $25,366 for the 1973-74 school year. It was determined by a survey of other union high school district principal's salaries for 1972-73 which revealed an amount of $24,227 as the median of the maximums.

Currently principals at two schools Chaffey and Alta Loma are in the top salary category.

The progress report on construction of Valley View brought smiles to the faces of the board members. Facilities director James W. Clark said the construction was "going so well that it's almost unbelievable."

Clark said the building, which will accommodate 400 students, will be completed Sept. 1.

A detailed summer school enrollment report for the five district high schools as of June 20 showed the student load at 4,100. The figure is 144 less than at the same time last year, and equals 37.4 per cent of the average of the 1972-73 regular school enrollment.

Montclair high was the only school to show an increased summer enrollment over last year. It's attendance is up 111 from 714 students. Ontario high reflected the biggest drop — 84 students or a 16.8 per cent decrease.

Board members were at a loss for any specific reasons for the drop in enrollment, which, according to Supt. Allan G. Smith, has been gradually decreasing the last six or seven years.

"Maybe there are more opportunities for employment, vacation or travel," Smith speculated.

In other actions, the board:

—Confirmed the appointments of Mrs. Lorraine Banson as secretary to the board; newly-elected board member Martha Chapman as representativeto the annual trustees association meetings; and Chalfant as an alternate to the trustees meetings.

—Accepted resignations from teachers Mark C. Boen, Montclair; Mrs. Jonnie Jean Jones, Upland; Mrs. Martha B. Voelkel, Montclair; and Conrad J. Willett, Chaffey. They were effective June 30.

JAMES GARLIEPP

—Approved leave of absence requests for Mrs. Claudia Tow, Upland, and Sharon E. Kridler, Upland.

—Accepted the appointment of Robert Godinez as a counselor at Chaffey.

—Delayed action for nominations from sub-region 16-B for delegates to the California School Boards Association.

State system of licensing Won't hike bike fees---yet

LA VERNE — Even though the state is soon going to charge cities for the cost of operating a statewide licensing system, La Verne's 515 bicycle owners will not have to pay more. Not yet.

City Manager George Caswell told the City Council Monday night that the state's automated stolen bicycle system will go into operation next month, and to offset the cost, the state is going to charge each participating city 20 cents per bicycle.

"This is all they're asking this time," he explained. "If the computerized system costs more, they'll be back for more. We think it eventually will lead to a takeover of the bicycle licensing by the Department of Motor Vehicles."

He told the council that right now the city's bike owners pay $1 every two years for the licenses, and that it cost about $140 a year to run the program. The state charge would raise that by about $100 a year.

"Oh, I think the city can take care of this additional expenses free to the community," Councilman Frank Johnson declared. "I see no need to raise the bicycle license fees at this time."

The rest of the council agreed with him, even though some other area cities have raised fees. But they also agreed that if the state asked for more money, the council will have to re-examine its position.

Jury choice under way in CIM stabbing

ONTARIO — Jury selection in a trial for three California Institution for Men inmates accused of stabbing two brothers in the Southern Reception Guidance Center has begun in West Valley Superior Court before Judge Richard C. Garner.

The three inmates: Robert Augustine Elias, 26; Joseph Henry Ortiz 25, and Frank Joseph Ruiz, 32, are accused of stabbing Santos Arrenda, 21, and his brother Ernest, 22 last December.

Elias several weeks ago was stabbed while awaiting a West Valley Superior Court appearance in the San Bernardino County Jail. Since then Elias has recovered from his wounds and has refused to talk to authorities about the stabbing in the jail.

Sheriff's detectives said they dismissed charges against two other inmates of CIM who were accused of stabbing Elias.

According to prison authorities and sheriff's deputies the rash of stabbings at the prison is the result of attempts between the Neuvo Familia (New Family) and the Mexican Mafia to gain control of prison rackets.

New L.A. city atty. sworn in; names aides

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — City Attorney Burt Pines was publicly sworn into office Monday and sounded a new policy of minority participation by appointing a black and an Asian-American as two of his three deputies.

Pines, who unseated 20-year incumbent Roger Arnebergh in the June runoff election, took the oath from City Clerk Rex E. Layton in City Hall.

Pines' appointments for deputy city attorney were Welch Cockrell, a black, Stanley Uyehara, both graduates of Southwestern Law School, and Andrew Schepard, now clerk to U.S. Circuit Court Judge James Oakes in Vermont.

The city attorney said the men represent "the highest caliber of lawyers," who will join the existing staff of more than 100 lawyers.

Also at the swearing-in ceremonies were Mayor Tom Bradley, District Attorney Joseph P. Busch, Police Chief Edward M. Davis, and other federal, state, county and city officials.

Bradley called for a new era of cooperation between the two offices.

"I look on you not only as a city attorney but as a friend and patriot," Bradley said.

Busch who said the city attorney's office requires courage, innovation and respect for the law, added that it is "abundantly clear that Burt Pines recognizes the burden of public trust ... succeeding a most distinguished public lawyer in this critical office."

Bomb threat at Vegas airport

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Several hundred passengers were evacuated Monday from the rotunda area of McCarran International Airport when an anonymous caller telephoned security officers and said a bomb was set to go off in the area.

During the search, arriving passengers were kept aboard the aircraft and departing travelers remained on the ground level near the ticket counters.

Gen. Dynamics acquitted in F111 parts fraud case

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — A jury in a town whose economy would be hurt if General Dynamics laid off a large number of workers acquitted the company Monday of charges it conspired to defraud the government with faulty parts for the controversial F111 airplane.

The seven-man, five-woman jury, told by U.S. District Judge Leo Brewster it could consider the company's claim a guilty verdict could have closed the plant, deliberated for a little more than a hour before arriving at its verdict.

The federal government had charged General Dynamics with conspiracy to defraud the government of $114,000 in faulty metal plates for the plane and with presenting fraudulent documents to the government.

A spokesman for the company said the documents might have contained some mistakes but these were human errors with no conspiracy involved.

"Our case was based on human error," the spokesman said. "We contended that the documents were perhaps incorrectly prepared but that it was entirely human error.

"And to conspire, you have to have intent," he said. "There was no intent involved."

The Pentagon last month ordered an end to the production of the F111, the swing-wing fighter-bomber. But a House Armed Services Committee overturned that decision and ordered General Dynamics to continue production for at least another year.

The battle over the F111 has been going on for a decade, ever since the Defense Department announced signing the contract with General Dynamics in 1963.

On its first attempt at supersonic flight on Jan. 19, 1965 the F111 had to land because a small door on the plane fell off. And since that maiden flight, the fighterbombers, costing $15 million each, have been grounded a half dozen times because of crashes and defective parts.

Three of the first four F111s sent to Vietnam crashed within weeks of their arrival. Thirty-one have crashed since that maiden flight in 1965.

8 years' work record stained by sauerkraut

DAVIS (UPI) -- Charges that problems with mayonnaise and sauerkraut stained the previously unblemished work record of a middle-aged widow have cost the woman her job.

The University of California fired the woman, a food services employe for nearly eight years, on the grounds she spread mayonnaise incorrectly and took too long to put the sauerkraut on hot dogs, Loren McMaster, her attorney, said Monday.

He said he is appealing the dismissal of the woman, who is currently unemployed, to UC President Charles Hitch. McMaster contends the charges are not serious enough to justify the firing.

McMaster declined to release the Sacramento woman's name without her permission. He said she was a widow in her 50s with several children. Her work record was previously unmarred, he declared.

University officials refused to comment on the case.

McMaster, a lawyer for the California State Employes Association, said the charges against the veteran employe included the following:

—She "failed to spread mayonnaise correctly. It was not spread all the way to the not spread all the way to the edge of the sandwich bread.

—One day she took an average of 1.3 minutes each to put sauerkraut on 50 hot dogs and wrap them. University officials said the task took 65 minutes when it should have taken only 15 to 25 minutes, according to McMaster. But he said they could not verify her time.

—She made a five-cent error in labeling the prices of five ham and cheese sandwiches.

—She made such a large batch of egg salad sandwich mix that part of it had to be thrown out. McMaster said that at a hearing it was brought out she made the regular two-day batch of the mix. He said all the mix was not used because the campus was closed the second day to mourn the death of President Johnson.

—She forgot, for three days in a row, to make two submarine sandwiches for workers at the Primate Center on the campus.

McMaster said the woman's problems began when she was transferred to a different section of the food services department last fall.

He stated she offended "some big cheeses" when their breakfast was not provided fast enough.

She was then shuttled to the sandwich department to "build a case against her," he said. She was fired Feb. 9.

McMaster said Chancellor James Meyer of the UC campus has already turned down one appeal.

GOP solon may become a Democrat

FRESNO (UPI) — Two-term Republican Assemblyman Kenneth L. Maddy of Fresno has confirmed he is considering a switch from the GOP to the Democratic Party.

Maddy, who often votes with liberal Democrats, said Monday he had experienced "frustration" as a member of a minority party in the Assembly while trying to represent the 32nd District, which has a two-to-one Democratic voter registration edge over the GOP.

Maddy won the post in 1970 when former Assemblyman George Zenovich, D-Fresno, moved to the state Senate. Maddy is reportedly being encouraged to change parties by Democratic businessmen and party leaders.

Maddy noted Democrats would continue to pour money and efforts into the Fresno district in an effort to regain the post and said that as a result he was spending most of his time "running for re-election."

The Fresno attorney said he would make up his mind before November, in order to meet the requirement that a candidate must be a member of his party one year before an election.

Upland council acts to cut growth on N. Euclid Ave.

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND —The City Council Monday night approved a plan to maintain low population densities on some 1,600 acres adjacent to North Euclid Avenue.

In approving a general plan amendment on five different areas north of Foothill Boulevard, the council adopted a new low density residential classification which calls for no more than two families per net acre on land fronting Euclid Avenue from 16th to 24th streets, and reduced densities from four-to-six families per net acre down to a maximum of four families per acre in two areas extending south from the proposed Foothill Freeway route to just above Foothill Boulevard.

In most cases, the council followed recommendations of the planning commission in making decisions among the various alternative density plans proposed for each area.

The areas and their new density patterns include:

— Area 1: 317 acres east of Euclid between the proposed freeway and 24th Street in the north, bounded on the east by Campus Avenue. The area, on a 3-2 vote, was designated low density residential with the maximum of two families per acre. Largely agricultural at present, when fully developed the area will contain 513 units and 1,847 persons. A 20-acre parcel, currently being developed at a zero-to-four density level, was exempted from the change.

In discussion on the area Councilman A. M. Hawkins Jr. favored allowing densities of up to four families in the eastern half of the area since he did not want the entire upper part of the city developed in that fashion.

Other councilmen, including Harold Bailin, disagreed with Hawkins and his motion for the twin density pattern died for lack of a second.

Bailin commented that a proposed flood control channel in that area might necessitate future density changes that would be difficult to make at a later date.

— Area 2: 330 acres west of Euclid between the proposed freeway and 24th street in the north, bounded on the west by San Antonio Avenue. In this area, the council favored a divided density idea proposed by the planning commission. As approved, the area is designated zero-to-two familes per acre in its eastern half and and zero-to-three families in its western half.

A number of landowners, residents and other interested parties also favored the split density approach in their comments during the public hearing.

However, resident Rod Shaner called the changes a promotion of urban sprawl. In his statement, he called on the council to set an absolute population limit in the city, preserve green belts, develop and present to voters a detailed plan for future growth and call a moratorium on all construction, development and zone changes until the plan could be put into effect. There was no comment on Shaver's proposal.

The council, with little discussion, approved the split density designation which will limit the area to a maximum of 560 units and 2,015 persons.

— Area 3: 115 acres west of Euclid between the proposed freeway and 16th Street on the south, bounded on the west by a line midway between Euclid and San Antonio avenues. With little discussion by either the council or audience members this area was reduced from the current zero-to-three density to the zero-to-two family density. The area may contain a maximum of 195 units and 702 persons.

— Area 4: 306 acres east of Euclid between Eugene Street and the proposed freeway, bounded on the east by Campus Avenue. Above 16th Street, however, the western boundary is Second Avenue. With no discussion, this area was reduced in density from the current four-to-six families down to zero-to-four families per acre. The area will be limited to a maximum of 813 units and 2,926 persons.

— Area 5: 528 acres west of Euclid from a line between Foothill Boulevard and 13th Street on the south to 16th Street on the north, bounded on the west by a line 700 feet east of Mountain Avenue. Again with no discussion, this area's density was lowered in the same fashion as Area 4. It may contain a maximum of 1,488 units and 5,357 persons.

In a presentation prior to consideration of the density changes, Norman Day, president of the Upland Homeowners Association, said his organization favored the zero to two family density in all five areas and also wanted the acreage under consideration to be extended further west to Mountain Avenue. In a later appearance before the council, Day presented a statement replete with numerous newspaper articles and letters to the editor which called upon the council to halt farther high density developments.

"We certainly feel," Day said in his statement, "That the handwriting is on the wall. The residents taxpayers, voters and homeowners do not want any more apartments, condominiums, Planned Residential or Unit Development in Upland. We feel that our goals and the city's goals should coincide, as we're both trying to improve the community."

HIS MUSIC LIVES ON — Laurens Hammond, the man who invented the electric organ, died at his home July 1 following a short illness. He was 78. The holder of 110 U.S. patents, Hammond is shown testing the Solovox he invented in a July, 1940, photo. While well-known through the product which provides pleasure in countless homes, churches, and institutions, Hammond earned fame in the sports world as well—he invented the synchronous electric clock that made possible precise timing of sports events.

1 vote picks Claremont school board president

CLAREMONT — William A. Anderson, re-elected to a four-year term in April, edged out school fellow board member Mary Ellen Kilsby for the seat of president Monday night.

Trustee Robert Stafford had nominated Mrs. Kilsby, and Arthur Steffen had nominated Anderson for the one-year post.

With Steffen temporarily sitting in the board president's chair, newly-sworn-in Beverly Shacklett, Steffen, and Anderson voted for Anderson for the one-vote margin. Mrs. Kilsby missed being the district's first woman board president since Mrs. Frances Drake served in 1965-67.

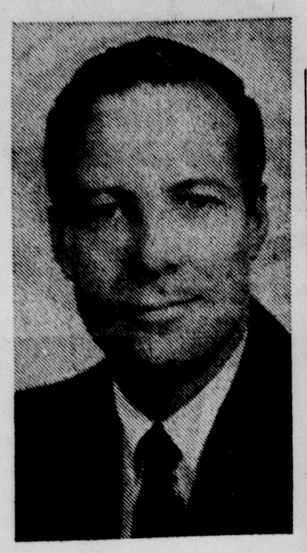
In last night's election for vice-president of the board, Mrs. Kilsby was nipped by a vote by Steffen.

The board started off the new fiscal year slowly by reconvening from closed personnel session to public session at 8:55, 25 minutes past the publicized time. Vice-president Anderson apologized for the lateness of the hour.

To new board member Mrs. Shacklett falls the job as board representative for electing members to the county committee on school district organization. Stafford explained that it was traditional that Mrs. Shacklett as newest board member serve.



WILLIAM A. ANDERSON

Anderson told the board that he would like to withdraw as the district's representative to the Mt. Baldy Regional Occupational Program. The matter will be discussed at the next board meeting.

The board approved the hiring of John L. Bobo as principal of Sycamore Elementary School, effective July 30. Bobo will replace Dean Hatch, who resigned to go back into classroom teaching.

Bobo presently is assistant principal in the Charter Oak School District, has done administrative work at Cal State Los Angeles, and has been a Claremont resident six years.

The board accepted the resignations of Robert G. Reid, psychologist, to accept another position; Mrs. Martha Mattson, high school teacher, to attend graduate school; and Mrs. Judy Rawles, teacher on leave, because of family responsibilities.

Burglar-bugging seen in Hawaii police probe

HONOLULU (UPI) — Police sought Monday to determine whether their intelligence officers bugged and burglarized the Waikiki apartment of three Southern California businessmen.

Assistant Police Chief Eugene B. Fletcher said that, if his officers were involved, "they will be dealt with according to law."

The case came to light Saturday when Phillip Bertman, Hollywood, called police and reported three men broke into his penthouse apartment at the Ilima Hotel and stole a briefcase containing business papers.

When police arrived, Bertman showed them a door which connected his apartment with another one which had been forced open.

Police entered the second apartment and found three men inside. Bertman said the investigating officers recognized at least one of the three men as a member of the Police Criminal Intelligence Unit.

The briefcase was recovered and taken as evidence after one of the three men flung it out the 16th-story window of the hotel.

Later, a search of Bertman s apartment turned up an electronic bugging device atop a kitchen cabinet, and Bertman reported that a man had been watching his apartment from a hotel room across the street.

Police confiscated the device, and Fletcher said officers were checking to find out where it came from and, hopefully, who purchased it.

Fletcher would not comment when asked if any of the three men in the apartment adjoining Bertman's were police officers. He said the police investigation would delve into that question.

Bertman told officers he and his two associates were officers of Regal Resources, Inc., Oklahoma City. He said the three arrived here Thursday to close a deal to open a $500,000 car rental business in Honolulu.

His two associates were Wilbur F. Piercy, Whittier, and Dave Gorwitz, Burbank.

Bertman said the briefcase which was stolen contained business papers and letters showing that his firm had collateral of $100 million to back their proposed business dealings in Hawaii.

Richard Vind heads Walnut school board

Vind, elected to a four-year trustee term in April, 1971, succeeds Frank Morales. Trustee T. James Hannan was selected vice-president and Dr. Richard A. Falloon was named clerk. Hannan, Falloon and T. James Nettell were recently re-elected to four-year terms that officially began Sunday.

Morales was appointed to serve as the district's voting delegate for electing members to the County Committee on School District Organization.

Vind, a Diamond Bar resident, is sales manager for Douglas Oil Co. of California. "I see a couple of questionable areas we'll have to deal with in the near future; long-range planning and student housing," Vind said in accepting the new position.

Before his election to the board Vind served as president of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, was a board member of the United Way and the Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA and is past president of the Diamond Bar Community Council.

Firm ordered to halt sale of Pertussin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration Monday ordered the recall of Pertussin Nighttime Medicated Vaporizer Spray, which has been linked to 18 deaths in five years.

The maker of the product, Cheseborough-Ponds Inc. of Greenwich, Conn., told the FDA it would comply with the order. It said it already had stopped sales.

A non-prescription remedy, the spray is labeled for temporary relief of nasal congestion.

In a statement, the FDA said it believed the "hazard potential" in the Pertussin aerosol was an ingredient called 1,1,1-trichloroethane, which was used to help dissolve the medicinal ingredients into spray form.

The company said the 18 deaths reported since 1968 were caused by "either gross misuse or abuse of the vaporizer product." Cheseborough-Ponds said it had sold 30 million units of the product in 14 years.

Seventeen of the deaths were "clearly" caused by misuse, the FDA said, but the 18th— that of a five-year-old girl in Cleveland April 18—was not under conditions that could be considered abusive.

The agency said it recommended that consumers discard or return tt the place of purchase all available cans of the spray. It said the recall did not apply to any other nonprescription cold remedies in the Pertussin line.

Banks hike prime interest rates

NEW YORK (UPI) A one-quarter of a per cent increase to 8 per cent in the interest rate banks charge preferred business customers was touched off Monday by a similar boost in the price the Federal Reserve charges the banks to use its money.

Among those increasing the rate for prime business loans to 8 per cent was the Bank of America, the nation's largest. Some money experts predicted the rate would move up again and go even higher than the 8 ½ per cent charged in 1969 and 1970.

The Federal Reserve last week raised its discount rate— the charge to the commercial banks on money borrowed from the Federal Reserve—from 6 ½ to 7 per cent.

Girard Trust Co. of Philadelphia announced the jump to 8 per cent in the prime rate during the weekend.

Among other big banks going to 8 per cent Monday were First National City Bank, Chase Manhattan, Chemical Irving Trust, Manufacturers Hanover, Bankers Trust, U.S. Trust and Marine Midland Trust, all of New York.

Also, First National Bank of Boston; Philadelphia National, First Pennsylvania and Central Penn National of Philadelphia; Mellon Bank and Pittsburgh National at Pittsburgh; Cleveland Trust of Cleveland; Northern Trust, Harris Trust and Continental National in Chicago; City National, Bank of the Commonwealth, National Bank of Detroit, Detroit Bank & Trust and Manufacturers National, all of Detroit; Mercantile Trust and First Naitonal of St. Louis; Commerce Bank, First National and United Missouri Bank of Kansas City; Security Pacific National and United California Bank of Los Angeles, and Crocker Bank, Wells Fargo, Union Bank of California and Bank of California, all of San Francisco.

We can do more for you than any other bank.

(even if you can't find the scissors)

You see, we have more services than other banks. Not that you'll use them all. You won't. But it's nice to know every banking need imaginable is covered. And under one roof.
More likely, you'll be into things that make day-to-day living simpler.
Like the services we describe below.
Of course, of greatest importance is how we view the banking relationship. It colors everything we do.

Courteous personal service:

We feel banking is a person-to-person matter. So we value the human touch. With us, your needs are as individual as you are. That's why personal service has always been important at Bank of America.

Personal Choice Checking and Savings:

We have four checking plans to choose from. Beautiful scenic checks, too. And we offer many different savings plans. For example, our regular savings account gives you in-and-out flexibility. And our three Investors Passbooks earn you 5¾% annually for two years, 5½% for one year, 5% annual interest for 90 days. $500 minimum deposit.

Simplified monthly statement:

This statement simplifies balancing your checking account. We call it the Timesaver® Statement. It can even include a summary of your savings accounts and other information if you wish. You can tell at a glance where you stand.

Three ways to finance your car:

Only Bank of America gives you three different ways to finance your car. Ask your auto dealer about our Auto-Magic Financing, the rock-bottom monthly payment plan. Or about leasing.

Then there's our regular auto loan. We've made more of them than any other bank in California. See your dealer or local Bank of America.

Of course, we make loans for just about anything else you can think of, too.

Red Carpet Service:

Our own special system to serve you promptly, save you time. And nobody peers over your shoulder when you transact your business. Most of our offices have it.

Automatic Transfer Service:

Makes regular savings deposits or loan payments for you automatically, from your Bank of America checking account. Saves time, simplifies things. Especially helpful when you're ill or out of town.

More offices up and down the state:

No other bank can say that. Wherever you live or shop or work, you'll always find us close by. So you can cash a check whenever you want. Also, we can transfer your checking and savings accounts wherever you move in the state—save you time and red tape.

BankAmericard:®

For everyday shopping convenience, special occasions or emergencies. Good throughout California, the United States and around the world. One monthly bill helps you keep track of expenses.

Entertainers, fireworks on program at fairgrounds

POMONA — Top recording artists Vessie Simmons and the Fabulous Shirelles and Larry Vincent, the "Seymour" of television fame, will head the list of entertainers at the annual Independence Day fireworks show Wednesday at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

Gates will open at 5 p.m. The entertainment portion will begin at 5:30 with music by the Pomona Concert Band.

Seymour, the host of television horror movies, will perform at 6:45, and the Shirelles at 7:30 p.m. Fireworks displays will start at dusk.

Other performers will include Donnie Brooks and the Shamrocks, actor and Disneyland entertainer John Wheeler, singer Ray Farr and his band, The Clockwork, the folk group, Kids of the Country, and the singing group, Girls Unlimited.

Wheeler will sing the national anthem.

Also appearing will be Miss Pomona Valley Pam Lambine, a Marine Corps color guard from Pico Rivera, a Playboy bunny, and the costumed characters Mickey and Minnie Mouse, the Three Bears, a clown, Frankenstein, the Mummy, the Werewolf and the Skull Man.

Again this year, there will be a firefighting contest held between two Pomona Fire Department engine companies. Wednesday's match will be between engine company 1A, last year's winner, and engine company 2.

Wednesday's will be the fifth July 4 show sponsored by the Pomona Fireman's Association, which uses the proceeds to aid charities and community activities.

The Shirelles have recorded such hits as "Dedicated to the One I Love," "Will You Love Me Tomorrow?," "Tonight's the Night," "Mama Said," and "Soldier Boy."

Brooks' records, "Mission Bell" and "Doll House," sold more than a million copies each.

Tickets are $2 each for adults, $1 for children 14 and under with children two years and younger admitted free.

SPIRIT OF '76

Speeding cyclist eludes police, is caught later

POMONA — A 19-year-old man was arrested on a reckless driving charge late Monday morning by police who said he lost them earlier on a motorcycle.

Rian Joel Rowe, 1856 Richard St., was arrested near Palomares Park a few minutes after the pursuit which reached 70 to 75 miles an hour. He was spotted near the park by officers who had been alerted during the chase.

The pursuit began on Lincoln Avenue near Sheridan Avenue. Police said Rowe passed their car there at high speed. They said they chased him through an alley paralleling Indian Hill Boulevard to San Bernardino Avenue and then westbound on San Bernardino. At that point the motorcyclist reached 70 to 75 miles an hour, they said. Pursuing officers lost sight of the motorcyclist near the San Bernardino Freeway.

A few minutes later Rowe was seen by other officers near the park. They quoted him as saying he tried to avoid them because he didn't have the registratio papers for the motorcycle. Rowe was released later on his own recognizance and is scheduled for arraignment in Pomona Municipal Court July 13.

Slide program for Camera Club

POMONA — Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lamore will present a taped slide program with a musical background at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Camera Club Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Great Western Savings and Loan Association, 300 Pomona Mall West.

The program will be entitled "The Wonders of Spain, Portugal and Morocco."

It covers a 23-day tour of Costa Del Sol, Seville, Madrid, Malaga, Granada and Cordova in Spain, Tangier, Fex, Marrakech and Robat in Morocco and Lisbon and Guarda in Portugal.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lamore are members of the camera club. He is a retired pharmacist from Pacific State Hospital. She recently retired as secretary at Magnolia Junior High School in Chino.

Ethnic courses planned for Pomona teachers

POMONA — As mandated by the state Education Code, Pomona schools will offer — probably next fall — teacher inservice training in the history, culture and current problems of racial and ethnic minorities.

Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services, last week told the school board the program has one unique feature.

"At present, we are required to offer this training to teachers. However, they are not required to take it," he explained.

Under sections 13345 through 13349 of the code, such training must be provided personnel working in public schools with 25 per cent or more minority student population. This affects one-third of all California public schools.

"Twenty-two of our district's 30 schools qualify as participating schools for such inservice training,'," said Moses.

The statewide goal is completion of 60 to 90 hours of instruction by certificated staff of mixed and minority schools by the end of the 1975-76 school year.

"In our program design, we must establish goals for district inservice and recommend the curriculum that would accomplish the intergroup needs of participating schools," Moses continued.

He said he would be prepared in a month or six weeks to bring back to the board "a plan we recommend."

The state Department of Education must approve district programs.

Moses said that such inservice training, to be conducted either by school districts or colleges and universities, would offer information and learning expeiences regarding minority groups and majority-minority relations in order to improve the ability of staff "to provide relevant and effective instruction in schools with 25 to 100 per cent minority enrollment."

Goals, he explained, would include preparing teachers and other school staff members to understand and effectively relate to the history, culture and current problems of students of diverse ethnic backgrounds and their environment.

Film techniques are demonstrated

POMONA — Different films on the art and techniques of film-making are being shown each Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Pomona Public Library as part of a special summer program.

Showings are open to both adults and children free of charge

Toastmasters Club installs new president

POMONA — Alan Carlisle has been installed as the president of Pomona Toastmasters Club 12.

Carlisle, a resident of 1275 Colony Drive, Upland, is the claim department manager of the Kaiser Steel plant in Fontana.

Other officers installed at the meeting were Arthur Sutton as educational vice president, James Dale as administrative vice president, Donald Oberta as secretary, William Kirke as treasurer, and Richard Hermsen as the sergeant at arms.

Toastmaster for the installation meeting at Griswold's in Claremont was John Ball, with Thomas Samaras conducting table topics and Wilson Gillingswators serving as chief evaluator. Speakers were Louis Carscaden, Dale, Robert Haage and Sutton.

Haage was judged as top speaker, while Carlisle won the table topics and was judged as the best evaluator and winner of the spark plug.

Rowland plans summer events for teen-agers

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — A special recreation program for teen-agers that includes beach trips, dances and athletic events is being offered by the Rowland Recreation Department's evening program.

The teen program will be held at Alvarado Junior High School and Rincon Junior High School.

Alvarado will be open on Monday and Wednesday evenings and Rincon will be open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, both from 6 to 9:30. Both schools will be open on alternate Fridays for a dance.

The teen program includes beach trips, crafts, modern dance instruction, table tennis, weight lifting, swimming, dances, drama instruction, Los Angeles Angels ball games, games and tournaments, talent shows and tennis and golf.

Only junior high and high school age students will be allowed to participate in the program. For further information persons may contact the recreation department at (213) 965-2541.

Palomares post goes to Barker

POMONA — E. David Barker, 35, has been named assistant principal at Palomares Junior High School by the school board.

He will assume duties of that position Sept. 1. He will be paid an annual salary of $17,940 on a 10-month basis.

Barker, married and father of one child, has been employed as an assistant boys' vice principal in Los Angeles since 1971. From 1965 to 1971 he taught junior high school in Los Angeles, and in 1962-63 was a high school teacher in Syosset, N.Y.

He earned a B.A. degree in education at Arizona State University, and an M.A. in education at Cal State Los Angeles.

His credentials include a standard secondary, general secondary, standard supervision (principalship 7-12) and secondary school administration.

Boat and trailer stolen in Ontario

ONTARIO — Charles Sylvester of 935 Merced St., reported a $3,500, 18-foot inboard motorboat and a trailer were stolen from in front of his residence Sunday night, according to police reports.

Police said Sylvester described the boat as an 18-foot Tahiti with a 455 cubic inch Oldsmobile inboard engine, painted brown, with a beige top. The trailer is black with mag wheels.

Police said it appeared the boat and trailer were stolen between 9 and 11 Sunday night.

At Ganesha Park

Concert Band will begin new season

POMONA — The Pomona Concert Band will begin its 26th summer concert season with a program in the Ganesha Park bandshell at 8 p.m. Thursday under the direction if founding director, Stanton Selby.

Mayor Ray Lepire will be the guest of honor at the concert which will feature a variety of band selections including "Crown Imperial," "Overture 1812," "The Mosquito's Parade," highlights from "Finian's Rainbow," "El Relicario," and "The Gladiator."

A new fanfare, composed by Selby, will be used in the 10 summer programs.

Officers of the Friends if the Pomona Concert Band will be installed during Thursday's performance. They are Mrs. Harold Harts, president; Mrs. Carson Hawk, first vice president; Mrs. Walter Lawson, second vice president; Mrs. Elma T. Ries, secretary; and Mrs. Paul Schuergens, treasurer.

Commentator for the new season will be LeRoy Hughes, a member of the Friends of the Pomona Concert Band and a soloist for the band's winter concerts. Hughes has been associated with the Valley Community Theater and the Pomona Valley chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Selby, composer-arranger and conductor, is a professor of music at Mt. San Antonio College. He holds a B.A. degree from San Jose State College and a bachelor of music and a master of music degree from USC.

The Pomona Concert Band, sponsored by the City of Pomona and the Pomona Adult School, was organized in November 1947. Besides its summer concert program, the band also performs at major civic events, at concerts in neighboring cities and at state institutions.

Concerts this year have included programs at the Pomona Cemetery on Memorial Day, the Four Arts Festival on the Pomona Civic Center Mall, Ruth Hardy Park in Palm Springs and at the Louis Phillips Mansion during the Historical Society barbecue.

Future performances will be given at the Pomona Firemen's July 4 fireworks show at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, Pearson Park in Anaheim, Covina City Park, in July; Constitution Observance program at Ganesha Park, Ruth Hardy Park in Palm Springs and the Los Angeles County Fair in September.

Deputy retires after 20 years with sheriff

LA PUENTE — Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess has announced the retirement of Deputy Ernest B. Kritzman of La Puente after 20 years of service with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

Kritzman entered county service in 1952 and has held assignments in the patrol, jail and detective divisions. He was an investigator in the major crimes bureau, auto-theft detail, upon his retirement.

"The diligence and efficiency with which Deputy Kritzman has conducted himself during his service with the county reflects a commendable dedication to duty and a willingness to serve this department and the citizens of the community," Pitchess said.

Ellison elected to Phi Beta Kappa

POMONA — Gregg A. Ellison of 1105 N. San Antonio Ave., a student at USC, has been elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

Deputy district attorney Arthur Cabaniss retires

POMONA — Deputy Dist Atty. Arthur R. Cabaniss, 52, of the local office of the district attorney, is retiring after 24 years of county service as a deputy sheriff, court clerk and deputy DA.

Cabaniss joined the sheriff's department in February of 1949 and left five years later to become a Superior Court clerk. In 1965 he left that post to become a deputy district attorney. During those earlier years he attended USC and Southwestern University, where he obtained his law degree.

Cabaniss served with the U.S. Marine Corps from March of 1942 to March of 1946. He was recalled in 1950 and served another year.

He and his wife, Joanne Miller Cabaniss, have three children and live in Newport Beach.

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Despite pleadings by a spokesman for the 138-member Pomona Police Officers' Relief Association, the City Council Monday night declined to become directly involved in salary negotiations and showed no signs of budging from its earlier offer of a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase.

The association through its attorney, Stephen Silver, pressed for assurances that the council's chief representative at future negotiations would not stick to the council's "firm and unbending position."

Unless the council's chief negotiator, personnel officer Sidney Simms, is allowed to exercise his own judgment, said Silver, future negotiations would be a waste of time and "would result in a much more serious morale problem."

Mayor Ray J. Lepire responded time and time again that Simms was authorized to negotiate according to terms set by the council.

Silver raised the matter during the audience communications portion at the end of the council meeting. A number of police officers and members of their families attended.

Silver said that at two formal meetings and at a session with a state conciliator, "the city has taken only one position and has not departed from it."

At one point, Lepire interrrupted Silver to ask if the latter had evidence to support the attorney's remarks that the city was not interested in the needs and problems of police officers who, put it, is Silver "each day wake up in the morning and put their lives on the line."

Silver repeated his earlier contention that the city had not met and conferred in good faith, a point later challenged by Lepire and Councilman Charles W. Bader.

Some members of the audience had already walked out when former Fire Chief Harry Williamson began talking about paying city employes wages comparable to county employes.

Williamson said he was speaking as a citizen and taxpayer and said the city tax rate should have been raised so that sufficient funds were available for adequate salary increases.

Williamson said in the past the city had trained public safety personnel only to lose them later to county government because of the higher county salaries.

Williamson urged cities in the county to band together and tell the "Board of Supervisors where the hell to get off."

Some of the persons who had left the meeting returned.

Bader agreed police, firemen and other city employes were doing a good job but disagreed that the council was "not interested" in the city's employes.

Bader said total compensation paid a patrolman had increased more than 15 per cent in 1970, 5.5 per cent in 1971 and more than 17 per cent in 1972, or about 40 per cent in the last three years.

In the last year, Bader continued, retirement benefits cost about one half million dollars "and you know we caught hell doing it."

"When one of the ploys is to attack our negotiator personally, I don't think that fair either," said Bader.

Lepire said this fiscal year's budget was up some $1.5 million from the previous year with almost $1 million going to the police and fire departments.

Of that $1 million, Lepire continued, about 75 per cent was earmarked for wages and fringe benefits, "so I believe we have been concerned."

E. J. Gaulding, a planning commissioner, praised the council for being thorough and considerate during the budget sessions.

EDITORIAL

Sure enough, ill wind blows good

Good old American enterprise is being tested but has not yet been found wanting in the current energy crisis. Or to put it another way, in adversity there is always opportunity, public relations-wise.

For example, the Highway Users Federation, which is not dedicated to the disuse of the nation's streets and highways, reports that according to a study it conducted, buses and cars carrying two or more persons provide the most economic means of commuting.

When all economic costs were considered, including the capital costs for purchases of the vehicles, parking costs and all costs related to construction, maintenance and operation of highways and facilities for bus and rail transit, rail transit trips were found to be the most expensive of all means of commuting (except for an automobile carrying only a driver).

Thus the best answer to the problem of traffic congestion, as well as the gasoline pinch, may be to "pool it."

Another organization, the Recreational Vehicle Institute, has also put out a release.

Disturbed at reports that many people are reluctant to plan summer vacations and weekend trips out of concern for the energy shortage, or are delaying purchases of recreational vehicles for the same reason, it claims that a family on vacation with a recreational vehicle uses less than one-fourth the amount of energy consumed at home.

"A family of four living in an average-size home normally uses around four times more electricity and natural gas than the same family on vacation," says the Institute's president Robert L. Stewart.

And as far as gasoline is concerned, he points out that with 1973 pollution control equipment, there is little difference between a 1973 sedan and a medium motor home or a car towing an average-sized travel trailer.

Where this leaves the person with a large-sized motor home or both a 1973 sedan AND a trailer is not quite clear.

Maybe we had better think about pooling our vacations, too.

Try state's way

If the federal government wants to provide an even higher quality environmental protection, conserve scarce oil resources, and cut very substantially the inevitable cost to the consumer, it should revise its 1975 regulations on gasoline to conform with the California code.

That seems to be the consensus of many oil company executives.

The federal rules demand production by 1975 of lead-free gasoline for all automobiles. This can be done, certainly, but at a huge cost in new plant and equipment and the monitoring of all fuel for traces of lead — costs that would have to be absorbed by stockholders and consumers alike.

Additionally, it is estimated that the 1975 federal regulations will force refineries to use an unbelievable 1.5 million more gallons of crude oil daily than they would need to without the lead-free rule. In a time when we are facing a high dependency upon risky imports such an increase hardly seems to be sound economic policy.

In contrast, according to oil men, the California code — a tough one — would achieve even greater environemtal protection than the federal plan, and do it at lower cost. Because it does not require catalytic converters or unleaded fuel the state's code "would mean a savings of $5 billion a year for consumers," according to Wayne E. Glenn, president of Continental Oil Company, in an interview with Motor Magazine.

R. B. Phillips, executive vice president of Gulf Oil believes an "economically feasible solution to automotive emissions could be achieved without requiring removal of lead from gasoline. The 1975 California standards are believed to be more realistic than the federal, and severe enough to meet the requirements of the state with the worst automotive emission problem."

In view of the high cost in money and oil, federal environmental protection standards should indeed be carefully studied before enforcement. As one oil man put it, if California — the most affected state —can live with its new, less costly standards, why can't the nation?

13th Friday

This year offers us two of those days dedicated to superstitious fear and trembling; those Fridays the 13th when black cats are especially to be avoided, broken mirrors presage an especially virulent ill omen and bad luck is expected to rule the day.

But who cares?

Not, evidently, the gal fliers. They'll start their annual Poweder Puff Derby on July 13 this year to see who can get from Palomar Airport at Carlsbad to Chemung County Airport, Elmira, New York the fastest.

While keeping our fingers crossed that Friday we'll wish them happy takeoffs and especially happy landings.

Navy's 'Captain Marvel' to rescue

WASHINGTON — In a budget-cutting spree this year, the White House came within a few million dollars of crippling the nation's first line of defense, the nuclear submarine fleet.

The story is detailed in bright red-striped and blue-bordered Pentagon security folders. Secret testimony has been taken by Rep. John Murphy's coast guard subcommittee, which saved the subs.

The hero of the piece is a mysterious Navy officer who called himself "Captain Marvel" and phoned from pay booths to alert Congress to a threat to the subs' navigational systems.

At issue was a worldwide network of transmitters run by the Coast Guard. These vital transmitters, called Loran-A and Loran-C for "long-range navigation," give ships and planes a radio beam to "home" on so they can establish their locations. More importantly for national security, the missile-bearing Polaris and Poseidon subs use the beams not only to determine where they are, but to target their ballistic bombs in case of enemy attack.

Drop in bucket

The Coast Guard asked for $24 million to repair and expand Loran-C and to keep sections of Loran-A going until December 1974, when the subs convert to Loran-C and other systems. This is a drop in the bucket compared to the Pentagon's $85-billion a year budget.

The budget boys at the White House, without understanding what they were doing, killed the $24 million.

The news panicked the airlines, which counted up 150 Pacific flights that would have to be cancelled or rerouted. There were anguished howls, too, from the governors of Hawaii and Alaska, as well as the Canadian government.

But the deepest shock was felt inside the Pentagon. The Air Force, for example, has 600 planes, including B52s, which operate in South Pacific areas and depend heavily upon the Loran system for navigation. In the Mediterranean, the targeting of U.S. missiles at Russian sites would deteriorate seriously without the money.

Main target

The Joint Chiefs, without informing the White House, quietly dispatched the mysterious "Captain Marvel" and three other top emissaries in civilian clothes to spread the alarm in Congress. Their main target was Murphy's coast guard committee which handles Loran authorizations.

During open hearings, Murphy spotted the four "civilians," looking agitated, in the back of the room. Finally, a subcommittee staffer checked out the odd quartet. "Just call me Captain Marvel," said their leader, using the name of a comic strip character who accomplishes miracles with the magic word "SHAZAM." But when pressed, he finally produced his Joint Chiefs of Staff "ID" card.

Once in contact with Murphy, "Marvel's" story tumbled out. The White House cuts would not only destroy the two Lorans, but would cripple Polaris and Poseidon subs and other warships in vast stretches of the South Pacific, leaving them vulnerable to attack.

The cuts would also endanger them in waters off the West Coast. Without at least $2 million, Murphy was told, the subs would have to bunch from time to time in the Pacific at least until December 1974, making them sitting ducks for a strike.

Feared exposure

Although "Captain Marvel" was unwilling to lunch openly with Murphy for fear the White House would learn of his mission, he agreed to cooperate with Murphy. When Murphy's staff left a prearranged name with "Marvel," the officer went to a payphone which he hoped would be free of the Pentagon's internal tapping. From there, he called back, using his comic strip nickname.

In such cloak-and-dagger fashion, Murphy was tipped off what information to request from the Joint Chiefs' staff. In response, he received a classified letter from the Defense Department's general counsel, Fred Buzhardt, stressing the need for a navigational system. "Curtailment . . . will have an adverse operational impact on the military user forces," wrote Buzhardt. "Designated missions" would be hampered, he said.

Armed with Buzhardt's powerful four-page message, Murphy was able to bulldoze the administration into restoring the vital $2 million for Loran-A operations in the South Pacific. Then, he summoned the subcommittee into secret session to restore the remaining $22 million. "The Department of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff have made very strong representations to me," he confided to his subocmmittee members behind closed doors. "The OMB, against the request of. . .Defense, did cut those funds. . ., it fell under the red pencil."

The subcommittee restored the money, then Murphy sought new ammunition to make sure it got through the full House Merchant Marine Committee headed by Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., a dedicated scrutinizer of spending.

Nader doesn't have to be right

Ralph Nader filed one of those class-action lawsuits seeking to shut down 20 of our nation's nuclear power plants. Anybody can thus shut down vast segments of our nation's economy — and they don't have to be right.

Under the questionable legal umbrella of the so-called "class suit," individuals, capriciously or maliciously, may cripple our country — and they have nothing to lose. Without risking a dime, they may press for injunctions and other blockages.

For example, at this moment dozens of nuclear power plants have been halted in various stages of completion because of environmental lawsuits. The value of these projects exceeds a billion dollars. The annual loss, because of the tie-ups, runs into hundreds of millions of dollars.

And the tie-ups further curtail potential power for 15 states which already face acute shortages of power.

Now along comes Nader seeking to shut down existing nuclear power plants — in the name of "public safety" — though not one mishap has harmed even one "public" in more than 20 years of operation.

Some of the suers paralyzing progress in the name of ecology are also in the forefront of those protesting our 5 per cent unemployment. They can't have it both ways.

It is their opposition which halted the $69 million Tellico Dam in Tennessee at a loss of thousands of jobs.

When the $100 million Cross-Florida Barge Canal project was canceled, thousands of jobs were lost.

When the multimillion-dollar Gilham Dam in Arkansas was scuttled, more thousands were put out of work.

Additionally, hundreds of other carefully engineered projects and programs have been brought to a halt throughout the 50 states. Never before have so few conspired to deny jobs to so many.

And while there is much castigation and condemnation of "big industry" for ignoring the rights and needs of workers, how about the "professional consumers" who are building big businesses for themselves by tearing others down?

Publisher Charles Gould of the San Francisco Examiner urgently recommends that the individuals and organizations willing to stop the clock and diminish further our already critical supply of power at least should be bonded so that those unfairly harmed by them could recover damages.

As it is, anybody can, without risking one dollar of his own money, jeopardize millions — billions — of yours.

Church in politics

Your article of June 21st quotes the Methodist League in its 123rd annual conference at Redlands, calling for "political awareness."

Church ventures into politics have had some sad results, for example the crucifixion of Jesus. More recently they have demonstrated how destructive "non violence" could be. Many feel our increase in crime is the result of improper church leadership.

Watergate has bugged a lot of us. As Christians we should avail ourselves of Scripture. The passages "judge not less you be judged" and "let him who is guiltless cast the first stone" come to mind. Common sense should lead us to discount hearsay.

During a prior program our pastor, preaching on hate, said we should love our enemies, even communists, but that an exception might be made for "Birchers." Probably said in jest, it did reflect some church thinking at the time.

To question the "integrity" of either church or state leaders is unrealistic. Misguided they may be on occasion. When such occasions arise we should offer our constructive criticism. Witch hunts are not the answer. — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Gossip for today

Who says our legislators aren't concerned? Who can deny that they aren't courageously taking a definite stand in order to make certain that no more tax loopholes will creep into our State income tax rules and regulations? What better proof does one need of their noble efforts in this regard than the fact that Assembly Bill 870, which would have permitted dog and cat owners to deduct the medical expenses of their pets from their state income taxes, failed in committee by a vote of 5 to 3? After all this decision will undoubtedly cost those five assemblymen who voted NO a large share of the pet owners' vote come next election. — But how refreshing it is in these trying times to learn that, at the state level at least, there are some politicians who aren't about to let political leadership go to the dogs just for the sake of a few votes.

INSIDE REPORT

Justice ignores key FBI report

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Before the Watergate scandal broke open this spring, the Justice Department's investigation of Nixon campaign "dirty tricks" in the 1972 Florida presidential primary either ignored or suppressed a key FBI report—possibilities under study by forthcoming Senate and federal probes of Nixon administration prosecution, or lack of it, of illegal political espionage.

On March 5, 1973, U.S. Atty. John L. Briggs of Jacksonville, Fla., wrote Sen. Henry M. Jackson that an investigation of a scurrilous letter about him had been completed without success. Yet, according to high FBI officials, a Feb. 6, 1973, FBI report provided enough information to lead to indictments. Indeed, once the Watergate scandal cracked, Nixon political espionage chief Donald Segretti was indicted in Florida May 5.

The Feb. 6 FBI report is now in the hands of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. Moreover, Sen. Sam Ervin's Watergate committee plans autumn hearings into the Segretti operation. Inevitably, both inquiries will judge political slanting of law enforcement.

Two opponents falsely accused

The Florida case involves a spurious March 1972 letter on the campaign letterhead of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, falsely accusing two Florida primary opponents, Jackson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, of illicit sexual acts. A Florida Jackson supporter promptly supplied a copy to the U. S. Attorney's office.

But Briggs, an ardent Republican, did not request an FBI investigation until last October when a column by Jack anderson revealed Jackson's request. Even then, Briggs declared it "absurd" to connect the letter with Republicans or the Nixon administration (a judgment he now admits was based on no facts).

On Feb. 8, Jackson wrote Briggs jogging him about the investigation. Briggs's original reply was so insulting, according to Justice Department sources, that it was "cleaned up" in Washington before delivery to the Senator. The sanitized version, dated March 5, informed Jackson the investigation "has now been completed and we have been unable to establish the identities of" who wrote the letter.

An enclosed eight-paragraph investigative summary dealt mostly with Briggs's inability to pin the letter on a right-wing extremist. After disposing of this red herring in seven paragraphs, Briggs's eighth paragraph asserted that Patricia Griffin, a Muskie headquarters employe, was questioned and "denied any knowledge" of the letter.

But strangely, as Watergate unraveled, Briggs's office stepped up prosecution of the Florida case so successfully that on May 5 a grand jury indicted Segretti and another man. Two Nixon operatives directly involved, Miss Griffin and young Republican leader Robert Benz of Tampa, testified before the grand jury (Benz under immunity) and were not indicted.

Why so fruitful in May when the investigation was so barren in March? Biggs told us he received unspecified new information.

Report lacked evidence

In fact, high FBI officials have informed us their investigation, begun Oct. 21, 1972, was essentially completed in late January. The "final" report was dated Feb. 26, 1973, although there were later supplementary reports. According to these sources, the report by itself did not provide sufficient evidence for indictments but did give any self-respecting prosecuting attorney obvious paths to follow.

The FBI report contained much material about Benz and Miss Griffin. The implication, according to FBI sources, was that if these two young people were summoned before a grand jury, they probably would tell all. Indeed, most details of the case were reported in newspapers the previous October—duly noted in the FBI report. But nine of this was in Briggs's report to Jackson. Nor did Briggs reveal that Miss Griffin, on advice of counsel, refused to answer FBI agents' questions.

Justice Department sources told us they "believe" the FBI sent its report to Briggs. However, FBI sources told us the Bureau sent it to the Justice Department's criminal division, headed by Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen, but not to Briggs. A source close to Briggs denied that Briggs has seen the Feb. 6 report—or any "final" FBI report—to this very day.

This leaves two possibilities: Briggs saw the Feb. 6 report and ignored it until Watergate erupted; or he never saw it at all. In either event, the Justice Department, which deleted rough language from Briggs's March 5 letter, went along with his barren investigative summary, omitting vital information developed by the FBI.

This one aspect of the Justice Department's investigation of Segretti's nationwide operations suggests many things: blind partisanship, stunning incompetence, a possible cover-up. The story of how the Nixon administration enforced the law is still unfolding.

Walnut councilmen adopt record $721,087 budget

WALNUT — Councilmen have adopted a record $721,087 city budget here providing a 10 per cent salary hike for city employes, $85,000 for park development and maintenance and a continuation of last year's 87 cents per $100 of assessed valuation tax rate.

In Friday's final budget study session the council also cut funds for a full-time city planner, deciding to continue with the $15,240 a year county planning service.

The $85,000 budgeted for park development is in line with recent council action placing strict park development requirements on all Walnut subdivisions.

The city anticipates more than $50,000 of the $85,000 total to come from park dedication fees levied on all new subdivisions here. Builders are required to donate land or money for park development. With several large housing tracts now under construction and others in the planning stages the park development fund has swollen in recent months, officials said.

The park fund would cover park development, maintenance and equipment.

Councilmen have also provided funds under the planning portion of the budget for general plan studies for a Walnut Civic Center, City Manager Andy Lazzaretto said.

The full-time planner was on top of Mayor Richard Laughter's list of budget priorities. Councilmen said they could not warrant a full-time planner at this time, however.

Also cut from the budget was $6,000 for the city's first garbage collection franchise, another Laughter proposal. Councilmen recently adopted an ordinance permitting the issuance of a franchise but didn't award it to any contractor.

The salary hike for Walnut's eight employes was tagged on the budget just before Friday's fourth and final study session. "We have lagged in city employe salaries in the last couple of years," Lazzaretto said. The employes were also seeking increased medical benefits, but dropped that request because there are few group medical plans for small organizations.

SCHOOL SPIRITED RAIDERS

In Rowland District

5 teachers dubbed outstanding

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Five teachers in the Rowland Unified School District have been selected as outstanding elemntary school teachers of America for 1973 and have been nominated to compete for one of five national awards.

Selected by the outstanding educators association for talents in the classroom, contribution to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition were teachers Bonny Gardner, Anne Hogan, Robert Rice, Roy Pringle and Al Murguia.

Honored for their "exceptional service, achievements and leadership in the field of elementary education," the teachers are now eligible to receive the Outstanding Elementary Teacher of the Year trophy.

In addition to the national trophy, a $500 unrestricted grant will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five outstanding elementary teachers.

Miss Gardner said the "realization that students at the intermediate school level have unique social adjustments" has helped her relate to her students in a positive way. A nine-year teacher, Miss Gardner teaches language arts at Rincon Intermediate School.

Miss Hogan feels a teacher "should get each child involved in his own education rather than to simply talk at them." She has taught language arts for three years at Rincon.

Rice, who says he "enjoys the public service aspect of education," has been named principal at Silvey Ville Elementary School in the Dixon Unified School District in the Davis area. At La Seda School for five years, he has taught fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Pringle, in his fourth year at Alvarado Intermediate, has also been named Industrial Arts Educator of the Year by the Los Angeles County Industrial Education Association. A woodshop teacher, Pringle feels industrial arts classes permit students to "work with their hands."

Murguia is a team teaching leader in math at Alvarado Intermediate School. As a seventh and eighth grade teacher, he coordinates the learning program of eight other teachers at the school.

3 board members to take oaths in Rowland Heights

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Dean F. Anderson, John M. Blackburn and Mrs. Donna N. McGee will be sworn in as school board members by acting chairman Phil Anderson when the board meets tonight at 8.

Immediately following the oath-taking ceremony, a board president, vice president and clerk will be sleerted.

Agenda items for the meeting to follow include discussions on the sale of the Blackman school site and the paving of the district parking lot.

Board members will be asked by the administration to adopt a resolution opposing the concept of collective bargaining for public employes in California.

They will be asked to approve a field trip for approximately 60 educable mentally retarded pupils and their chaperones to the Queen Mary in Long Beach on July 11 at a cost of stme $75.

County fire station scheduled for R.H.

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Within the coming year a county fire station will be erected in this community.

County Fire Chief Richard Houts said preliminary plans have been drawn for an approximately $180,000 single-story station to be built on Nogales Street nearly 600 feet north of Colima Road.

Architects were appointed in May, Houts said, and as soon as plans are approved, the project will go to bid. The tentative timetable calls for construction to begin around Nov. 1, and for the station to be ready for occupancy the spring of 1974.

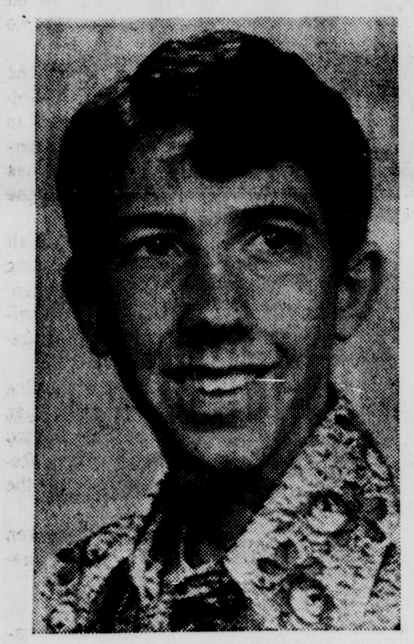
A 5,000-square-foot station is planned to house two pieces of fire-fighting equipment and 12 firemen per shift, Houts said.

This will be Station No. 145 in Los Angeles County.

It will be of architecture comparable to that of the surrounding area, probably of masonary construction.

The Board of Supervisors, at its meeting today was to consider hiring an appraiser to determine the value of the proposed site.

Presently Rowland Heights residents receive fire protection from county Station 43 at Valley Boulevard and Stimson Street and 61 at Valley Boulevard and Fairway Drive in Walnut.



PATRICK STALEY

Student visits family in France

DIAMOND BAR — Patrick Staley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Staley of 24123 Palomino Drive, is spending an American Field Service summer in France.

Staley, who will be a senior at Ganesha High School in Pomona next fall, spent two days in New York City with other U.S. AFS students for orientation meetings.

He left June 25 on a charter flight from New York City to Brussels, then flew to France, where he is living with the Yves Caffin family.

They have four children, Jean, 23, Anne, 18, Claire, 17, and Michel, 16.

The father is a society executive. The family has a home near Paris, a vacation home at the seaside in Britain and a country home in Aisne. Family members enjoy tennis, swimming and horseback riding.

They speak very little English, and Staley does not speak French.

Staley is due to return home in September.

Fireworks sale to benefit parks

WALNUT — Profits from the sale of fireworks will be used to purchase playground equipment for city parks here if the Walnut Junior Women's Club has its way.

The club is urging Walnut residents to purchase fireworks from the stand it is operating at the intersection of Pierre Road, Carrey Road and Valley Boulevard.

The stand will be open until Wednesday, according to President Ruth Cartwright. Special sale tickets may be purchased from any club member for added discount on the firework assortments from Freedom Fireworks.

50 professional artists preparing for weekend Diamond Bar exhibit

DIAMOND BAR — Art takes the spotlight at Vons Plaza in Diamond Bar with over 50 professional artists exhibiting their art works Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. until sunset.

Each exhibitor has been evaluated by festival coordinator Lynn Weber as among the most important artists in the West.

This festival represents a returning desire among artists to meet the public in person and to escape the commercialism of art galleries.

Foremost among these exhibitors is Bud Rickert, known to millions of moviegoers for his work with Walt Disney on such well-known films as "Pinocchio" and "Fantasia."

TO EXHIBIT ART WORKS

Etcher-engraver Bud Rickert, a native of San Bernardino, will display his art work at Vons Plaza in Diamond Bar Friday through Sunday. Formerly with Walt Disney Studios, Rickert is known for work in classics.

Rickert is a native of San Bernardino, and he is considered among the finest etchers and engravers alive today. Like Durer, Rickert's style runs the gamut from oil and watercolor to pen and ink, but his preference goes to the engraved line.

Rickert's engravings are known for great line control and he brings to Diamond Bar Fine Arts Festival not only his copperplate work, but a collection of new and recent watercolors gathered especially for this event.

Rickert's admiration for Western subjects is much in evidence in his work. He roamed the desert as a young man and rode as a cowboy on ranches from the great California desert to the ocean. His works display keen maturity and his thorough knowledge of the American West has made him one of the finest genre painters of the American tradition.

Rickert has had a long series of one-man shows throughout the West and he has most recently exhibited his works at the Edward Dean Museum.

Riley is a member of the National Society of Art Directors and has produced award-winning works for the Ambassador Coconut Grove and the Ice Capades.

Riley began to paint as a youngster and has done commissioned works for such collectors as TV producer Michael Grilikhes, actress Laraine Day, and Cliff Lewis of Paramount. Riley's work is considered a visible evidence of our American heritage.

Riley's oil paintings have been displayed nationally by the Paulson Galleries and the International Artists Galeries. Because of his flair and use of color, Riley has been called "California's Matisse." His paintings are displayed at Cory Galleries in New York, San Francisco, Honolulu and Paris.

Kruse-Russell vows repeated in church

Miss Karen Lee Russell and Raymond John Kruse Jr. were united in marriage in a Nuptial Mass at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Irwindale.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruby Russell of Covina. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kruse of Covina.

Miss Pamela Russell was maid of honor and Miss Kathleen Russell was bridesmaid.

Laren Manthy was best man. The usher was Bob Strattan.

A reception at the home of the bride's mother honored the couple. Mrs. Dale Lint handled the guest book and Mrs. Ernest Kruse assisted with the serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruse are making their home in Glendora.

Mr. Kruse also attended Northview High School. He is employed at Williams Waterproofing and Painting.

Emotions and obesity studied

Psychological factors no doubt bring about obesity in some individuals, says Henry A. Jordan, MD, assistant professor of psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania. However, in all studies done with obese individuals and in all batteries of tests performed, no characteristic personality or problem personality emerges that applies to fat people. In addition, the incidence of psychopathology is approximately the same in obese and normal weight individuals.

Writing in "Obesity and Bariatric Medicine", Dr. Jordan concludes that to date a clear cut relationship between the emotions and obesity has not been adequately demonstrated.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Pressure stifling

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: This past year, because of my husband's job, we had to move in the middle of the school semester. I think she may have missed something because of this disruption. I would like my 10-year-old daughter to repeat the fifth grade, but her father thinks this would simply slow her down needlessly. Her teachers feel she is an unusually creative child and we have great expectations for her. She is already taking dancing, violin and piano lessons in addition to her regular school work so she has plenty to keep her occupied. — R.G.

Dear R.G.? I don't quite understand why you feel your daughter should repeat a grade. If she is having trouble, it might be wiser to drop some of her extracurricular work for a while so she can use the extra time to catch up, if you feel she's missed out on something.

There's no doubt that moving from one school to another, particularly in mid-term, can be jarring, but I should think that holding her back might be even more disturbing. There are some indications that repeating grades for children does not serve the intended purpose.

A research team from the University of Virginia made a study of 85 repeaters and compared them with children who had been promoted despite inferior grades. They found that even though the repeaters started out with a higher average on the first-grade Metropolitan Readiness Test, their achievement and intelligence deteriorated steadily. By the fourth grade their men I.Q. was 7.7 points below the promoted group and by the sixth grade it was 11.2 points behind. Their research indicates that the long-term effects of holding children back can be very da-

If your child is creative this might have an even more damaging effect. The creative child is usually highly imaginative and highly sensitive to his environment. Being with younger children might give your daughter a feeling that she had suddenly failed in some way. These children might also not offer as much stimulation as she needs.

Studies conducted at the University of Chicago show that creative people are usually very flexible in their thinking, they are able to produce a large number of ideas in response to any problem, they are original thinkers, and able to concentrate in adverse circumstances. If your daughter is creative, she will undoubtedly catch up in a relatively short time if she has missed anything of importance.

Many parents are apt to pressure their children, especially if they show talent or any ususual aptitude. They may try to relive their own lives through their children. This prevents the children from developing at their own pace and in their own way Some children rebel, becoming school dropouts or highly reluctant learners.

Parents who really want to help their children develop potential allow them a certain freedom of choice, respect them as individuals separate from their parents and while interested in the child's learning they do not dictate the path.

Remember, every child has only one childhood. Don't overcrowd your daughter with too much discipline and too many assignments. The creative child, like any other child, needs time to enjoy and to observe the world around him.

MRS. GUY EISENBREY

Eisenbrey, Tuscher rites read

Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Montclair was the setting for the marriage of Miss Angela Christine Tuscher and Guy Edward Eisenbrey.

The Rev. Joseph C. Mackey and the Rev. Charles Sinatra concelebrated the Mass uniting the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Tuscher Jr. of Montclair and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Eisenbrey of Montclair.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of chiffon trimmed with venise lace and a pleated ruffle. A Juliet cap of matching lace held the bride's veil which was trimmed with daisies.

Daisies, baby roses and baby's breath were arranged in the bridal bouquet.

Miss Sue Tuscher was maid of honor for her sister. The junior bridesmaid was another siter, Marianne Tusher. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Irene Bower, Miss Nancy Eisenbrey, sister of the groom, Mrs. Patricia Betts and Miss Donna Anderson.

A brother and sister of the bride, Joanna Tuscher and Stephen Tuscher, were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Serving as best man was Chuck Bower and as ushers, Gary Godsil, David Eisenbrey, brother of the groom, Bert Karrer and Kenneth Sperry. John Tuscher, brother of the bride, was junior usher.

After a honeymoon in San Diego and San Simeon, Mr. and Mrs. Eisenbrey will reside in Montclair.

Important hats

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I have rarely worn a hat in my adult years, except in very cold weather or hot sun. Hats have never been a part of my life. I am tempted for the first time, however, to change my hair styling so I can wear the attractive hats I now see—the soft cloches and even the Panamas—offered by smart stores. Somehow hats look right again, and those flower-covered matronly jobs are gone. Hats look young. What's going on? — Mrs. G.F., Boston, Mass."

I saw the Guy LaRoche fashion show at the newly redecorated Starlight Roof at the Waldorf on Palm Sunday, and virtually every costume had its own hat. Even the turban has returned.

The hairstyles, of course, make the difference. You could not wear hats like these on top of bouffant hair. Although many women cannot wear their hair flat to the scalp, but must have a little back-combing, bouffant is definitely "out."

What is "in" is the Great Gatsby look—the cloche, pleated swinging skirts to the knee and the broad-brimmed felts (for men, also). A good, fresh and definitely young look.

The new hats are not worn over wigs or teased hair. So if you are tempted to try a hat, have a heart-to-heart talk with the best hairdresser in town.

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am going to Boston for quite a few social functions. Can you describe the best choice of dress styles (especially sleeves, colors and fabrics) for summer luncheons, teas and restaurant dining. The proper sleeve length has always puzzled me—summer or winter, East or West.—Mrs. W. S., Toledo, Ohio."

If your arms are firm, sleeveless dresses, particularly in the smmer and spring, are certainly all right in Boston or elsewhere for the functions that you mention. Sleevelessness is also possible in the winter months, especially with wool dresses, and many women like them. If your arms are a problem, however, stick to short, three-quarter lenth or long sleeves.

Wear colors that are becoming to you and with which your accessories can be co-ordinated. There are few hard and fast rules any more about fabrics: cotton for summer, for example, and wool for winter. These fabrics are worn year around, so in this you should suit yourself.

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am going out of my mind trying to find support pantyhose for my figure. I am a petite size with very large hips caused by water retention. I cannot wear anything tight or my legs burn. I'm under a doctor's care. Does any firm make pantyhose for the odd-size figure?—E. A., Hartford, Conn."

I called Hanes for you. Their "Alive" support stockings come in a Plus E for women 4-11" to 5'3", 145 to 175 pounds, and a Plus F for women 5'3' to 57, 160 to 190 pounds. Most shops which sell this brand have these special sizes.

It is important that you get the size that you need. If necessary, most stores will special order for you, especially if you want more than one pair. Your problem is very common. I would be interested in hearing from other manufacturers who can supply sizes which has these in support pantyhose.

LET'S ASK THE COOK
by Nan Wiley

DEAR NAN:

We were visiting some friends in another city recently and our hosts served a perfectly elegant dinner which was charcoaled on the grill. This was not unusual, but the "meat" was seafood. I never knew you could grill seafood!

Mrs. McAvoy

Dear Mrs. McAvoy:

Holy mackerel! Have you ever been missing something. Grilling seafood outdoors is not really new, but it is naturally not as popular as grilling steaks and other meats. After all, do you think the American Indians cooked their fish on electric ranges?

The next time you have friends over for a cookout try this for size: Grilled frogs legs and prawns or shrimp. (Prawns are really big shrimp with bigger tummies.)

The real secret to this job is the preparation of a marinade. After you have shelled and deveined the prawns, stripped the skin from the legs of the frogs and clipped the feet if they are still attached, submerge the entire collection in this.

1 cup butter
4 tablespoons olive oil
4 tablespoons steak sauce
8 to 12 crushed garlic cloves
2 tablespoons chopped onions
2 teaspoons each of crushed celery seeds, tarragon, basil
5 tablespoons white wine (I use vermouth)
1 tablespoon fresh lemon.

Let it all marinate for a couple of hours before grilling.

Listen carefully now or you'll be trying to pick up your dinner from the charcoal rather than from the grill. Use a steak basket. One of those long-handled deals that people use when cooking hamburgers or hotdogs or steaks over an open fire in the woods. Open this gadget and place the legs and prawns side by side. Do not pile on top of each other or they won't get the same amount of heat, will they?

When your fire is hotter than the desert floor in August lay the basket on your grill. It should flame like mad. Turn the basket in a minute or so. Repeat for about five or six minutes. It won't take long to cook this as the prawns or shrimp and frogs legs are very delicate.

The basket is important for the above reason, but also because you can turn the entire dinner at one time. Imagine having to handle a couple dozen little frogs legs and shrimps individually.

And the reason for cooking frogs and shrimp is that some of your guests may turn up their noses at one or the other. This way they have an alternative and you have a table of happy eaters.

Nan Wiley regrets that she cannot provide personal answers to your cooking questions, but questions of general interest will be answered in her column. Address your questions to Nan Wiley in care of Progress-Bulletin, 715 Locust St., Des Moines, Iowa 50304

Osteen surprised by Dodgers' start

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Claude Osteen, the third $100,000 pitcher in Dodger history, admits it.

He's surprised.

"This isn't what I thought was ahead for us in spring training," the 33-year-old lefthander said with a grin. "Just put down I'm pleasantly surprised."

In baseball's fourth month, with the All-Star game three weeks away, the young Los Angeles Dodgers find themselves with the best record in either league and in first place by a comfortable margin in the National League West.

A 20-game winner in two of the last three seasons, Osteen is 10-3 with seven straight wins as the Dodgers launch a two-week home stand against the San Diego Padres tonight.

"Because of our age, I thought it would take us longer to get going," said the senior member of the five-man Dodger starting rotation. "There's a lot of pressure when you're a young player and we might have been nervous when the season started but we don't act nervous any more."

A member of the Dodgers since 1965, Osteen suffered along with Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale when the club lacked a run-scoring punch. Last season the Dodger pitching was hurt by a defense which led the National League with 162 errors.

It's different now.

"Our defense has been outstanding," the veteran southpaw said. "Particularly the infield. The kids have just made up their minds to relax and that's the way it's been.

"It's a great feeling to know that you're going to go out and get the runs now. This is the first time this club has been able to explode like this since I've been here.

"When we get three or four runs down this year, it's not impossible for us to come back. We've been doing it all season, in fact. It's sure different from the years when we relied on a walk, stolen base, sacrifice and sacrifice fly for a run and a win."

The rapport between the young players and the veterans is good, he said.

"I think the kids look up to us and depend on us to keep things going," Osteen declared. "That's not to say they're not confident. They are. This is a very good blend of youth and experience."

The 16-year big league veteran is a craftsman who wins with finesse.

Now 174-160 in a career that began with the Cincinnati Reds, he isn't surprised at one facet of the 1973 Dodgers—the pitching.

Of his own record, a mark which figures to put him in his second All-Star game, Osteen said:

"I've pitched well but I've also had a lot of offensive support. My control has been good and that's the big thing as far as I'm concerned."

Although he played in two World Series (1965 and 1966), he considers the 1970 All-Star game as his biggest moment in baseball. He shut out the American League for three innings and got the win.

The Tennessee native will be 34 next month but is shooting for a career total of 200 victories before he leaves the game.

"Generally," he added, "I like to think in terms of 20 wins a season but if I don't get 20 I'm not going to cry. Right now I'm not thinking beyond my next start and my next win."

BACK SAFELY

First baseman Dave Alexander of La Verne Post 330 can't get Palo Alto's Randy Rhodes in time in pick-off play at first base. La Verne won, 8-1, to win Upland Tournament championship.

Perez pays back Brewer, Dodgers greet Padres

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jim Brewer, the Los Angeles Dodgers' lefthanded relief ace, has been one of Tony Perez's No. 1 tormentors ever since the Cincinnati Reds slugging first baseman made the major league scene nine years ago.

Perez gained partial revenge against Brewer Monday night when he tagged the veteran lefty for a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Reds a 4-2 victory over the Ddogers.

It was the Reds third victory in the four-game series and left them eight games off the pace of the leaders in the National League West as they open a three-game home series with the San Francisco Giants tonight.

The league-leading Dodgers return to California for the start today of a three-day stand in San Diego against the Padres, who beat Houston 8-5 Monday night.

"Just like old times," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. "That is the way we came from behind in 1970 and '72."

Anderson isn't ready to say that the Reds are off and running toward their third pennant in four years.

"But, at least we've got the feeling we are back in the race," Sparky said. "If the Dodgers had swept four in a row, it would have been awfully tough to come off the floor."

The Dodgers only victory came in the series opener last Saturday when the Reds squandered a 5-1 lead.

"I have to think that after that game, some of those Dodgers thought they would polish us off four in a row and it would be all over for us," said Anderson.

But Perez can remember only a couple of hits off Brewer and none was a homer.

"Tonight is the first time I can ever remember Brewer hanging a screwball for me," Perez said.

The victory went to Don Gullett, who blanked the Dodgers with two hits the last three innings.

The victory was the eighth against seven losses for Gullett, who, according to Anderson, will now become a permanent member of the Reds' bull pen.

"I have to believe that Don is still suffering from the after effects of his bout last year with subsiding hepatitis," Anderson said. "Pitching in relief, he can go all out without fear of tiring."

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Staff Writer

Ranney's control problems had left things in a state of disarray.

Vallone inherited a bases-loaded, nobody out situation and, what's more, a two-ball count on Palo Alto's clean-up hitter Don Briggs.

Briggs managed a sacrifice fly to score Randy Rhodes, but Vallone shut the door on any further Palo Alto scoring by striking out Tom Vignaw and getting Greg Samcier to fly to right.

That should have been enough to impress any opposing team, but Vallone wasn't through. He lasted five innings, gave up no more runs, yielded only three hits, and struck out eight.

And that's only half the story.

The other half is Vallone's two-run home run in the fifth inning that put La Verne ahead to stay in what eventually became an 8-1 rout.

Of the four victories Post 330 needed to take the tourney, Vallone won three.

All of which was good enough to earn the former Glendora High star the tournament MVP award presented after the game.

Earlier in the evening, Lafayette drubbed Arcadia, 11-3, to win the consolation title.

Gregg Thompson, who caught the first five innings of the game, preserved the victory for his teammate after Vallone had pitched maximum allowable innings under tournament rules.

Thompson pitched the last two frames and gave up two hits, while striking out another pair.

Post 330 shortstop Mark Bumstead picked up two hits in four trips to the plate and scored a run while driving in one. Thompson singled once, walked twice, and scored two runs.

Al Acosta singled in the fourth inning, and scored on a hotly disputed balk call charged to Palo Alto starter Grant Olson. Harold Drake singled and scored in the sixth for La Verne.

Rick Ortega set up Vallone's shot by walking in the fifth and coming in on the home run.

Vallone admitted after the game that he really didn't expect to pitch as early as he was forced to. "I hadn't warmed up," he said. "I wasn't supposed to come in until sometime after the second because I only had five innings left to pitch."

Despite the dire straits Post 330 was in during his walk from right in the first, Vallone wasn't too worried. "I felt good. Maybe it was the air. It's harder to hit the ball at night, and it helped knowing that."

Though Thompson's relief efforts were appreciated, Vallone was sure he could have gone the full seven. "Yeah, I could have pitched the whole game. I felt real super, and real loose."

La Verne scored twice in the sixth when Thompson and Drake were sacrificed home by Dave Alexander and Carl Davis, respectively. Post 330 put the game away in the top of the seventh on singles by Vallone, Bumstead, and Thompson. Drake got on by virtue of an error, and Alexander singled for another RBI.

The weekend's activities boost La Verne's season record to 21-9 overall. Among the four victories were a 6-4 victory over Upland Friday night, a 5-2 win over Ontario Saturday and a 3-1 decision over rival Pomona Post 30 Sunday evening.

Ken Berry buries West leading A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — If you scan the lists for this year's all star game you'll be hard pressed to find many votes for Ken Berry of the California Angels.

Yet the veteran centerfielder, twice a Golden Glove winner, is enjoying one of the best seasons of his 10-year major league career and currently is hitting at a .301 clip.

Monday night, before a fine turnout of 33,407 in the Oakland Coliseum, Berry drove in all of his team's runs in leading the Angels to a 4-2 victory over the A's and to within two games of first place in the A.L. West.

Three of the runs came on Berry's third homer of the year, a towering blast to right in the second inning which pitchers Clyde Wright, Dave Sells and Steve Barber made stand up as the Angels snapped a four-game losing streak and knocked the favored A's out of first place in the bargain.

Berry was an alternate pick to the 1967 All Star game after Frank Robinson and Al Kaline suffered injuries just before the mid-year classic.

He knows he can't get to this year's game in Kansas City by vote of the fans but he says he'd be tickled to death if he is named by A's skipper Dick Williams, who will lead the A.L.

"It would be nice if I could get to play in this year's game," said Berry, whose home is in Topeka, Kan., about 60 miles from Kansas City. "But I don't kid myself, the only way I'll get there is if someone picks me. The super stars are getting all the votes, not me."

Vida Blue walked Bob Oliver and Richie Scheinblum in the second and Berry leaned on one of Blue's outside fastballs and sent it far over the right field fence.

"It's unusual for me to hit a homer," Berry said modestly, "but it's not unusual for me to hit the ball to right. I like to go with the pitch. In this case Blue provided all the power. He really threw me a helluva fastball and I just leaned on it."

In the bottom of the second, Deron Johnson hit a homer to center on which Berry made a futile leap against the fence. In the process he hurt his right ankle and may have to sit out a game or two.

"I seemed to work out the problem with my ankle," Berry said, and he stayed in the game until the top of the ninth. Then, after singling Scheinblum across with California's fourth run, he was removed by manager Bob Winkles.

"He was limping pretty badly by then," said Winkles, "so I took him out. I don't think he's hurt seriously. At least I hope he isn't."

Back-to-back seventh inning doubles by Joe Rudi and Ray Fosse finished Wright but first Sells and then Barber snuffed out A's rallies to lock up Wright's seventh victory in 17 decisions. Blue took his fourth loss compared to seven victories.

Nolan Ryan (9-9) pitches tonight against Ken Holtzman (11-8).

Joe Frazier ends rumors about fitness

LONDON (UPI) — Joe Frazier is back in business.

The former world heavyweight champion from Philadelphia scored a hard-fought 12-round decision over European champion Joe Bugner of Britain Monday night in his first bout since losing his crown when he was stopped in the second round by George Foreman in Jamaica six months ago.

Frazier's was a comeback in the style that first made him champion and put an end to rumors of his lack of fitness.

"I'm in peak condition," said Smokin' Joe, who had slimmed down to 208 pounds, six lighter than the weight at which he suffered his only defeat. "I feel as though I could go in with Foreman tomorrow and beat him."

Foreman, who was at ringside, called it "one of the greatest fights I have seen," but would not talk about a return and Yancy Durham, Frazier's manager, said there were "no plans yet" for a fight with either Foreman or Muhammad Ali.

British referee Harry Gibbs gave six rounds to Frazier, three to Bugner with three drawn but only once did the Briton manage to jolt Frazier — in the 10th round after coming up from the canvas he surprised him with a left uppercut which momentarily buckled Frazier's knees.

Otherwise, it was all Frazier and the only thing Bugner could raise on the American's face seemed to be a smile as Frazier shrugged off the Briton's left jab and bored in to pound away at the body.

Three lead list; one week left

NEW YORK (UPI) — With only one week left in the balloting for starting berths on the American League All-star team, first baseman Dick Allen of Chicago, catcher Carlton Fisk of Boston and third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore appear to have won starting berths.

Allen, sidelined with an injury, is a doubtful starter but has received the most votes for any player, 436,863. The total is 135,000 more than his likely replacement, John Mayberry of Kansas City.

Fisk and Robinson also enjoyed leads in excess of 100,000 over their nearest competitors. Other leaders include Cookie Rojas of Kansas City at second, Bert Campaneris of Oakland at shortstop and Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Bobby Murcer of New York and Amos Otis of Kansas City in the outfield.

The only doubtful position is second base where Rojas leads Rod Carew of Minnesota, 363,527 to 356,839.

Balloting ends on July 8 and the starting teams will be announced the following week.

Roger Taylor shows sportsmanship

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Roger Taylor of Britain advanced to the men's singles semifinals of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships today after an extraordinary display of sportsmanship in which he insisted on replaying a disputed match point.

In effect the 32-year-old Briton won two match points in beating 17-year-old Bjorn Borg of Sweden 6-1, 6-8, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

On the neighboring no. 1 court, second seed Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, the forgotten man of the tournament, struggled to put out unseeded Indian Davis Cup player Vijay Amritraj 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5 in two hours 45 minutes.

Kodes, twice winner of the French championships and losing finalist at Forest Hills in 1971, will play Taylor for a place in the final.

The two hour and 40 minute center court match between Taylor and Borg was so dramatic no one missed the 70 professionals boycotting the tournament. The high point came in the last game after Borg had saved two match points at 1-5 and then had run four straight games to tie the match 5-all.

There were seven service breaks in the hectic final set and a capacity center court had thunderously applauded both men many times. Taylor served the 12th game and went to match point at 40-15. To the groans of the hometown crowd which hasn't had a Wimbledon champion since Fred Perry in 1936, Taylor committed his 20th doublefault of the match.

Then came a second match point. Taylor served, Borg lunged for the ball and netted it. The crowd erupted but Borg, who believed the serve was out, angrily accused an elderly linesman of a bad call. Suddenly Taylor shouted to the umpire that he, too, thought the ball was out.

"You thought it was out?" the umpire repeated.

Taylor nodded and served again.

This time Borg rifled a two-handed placement and it was deuce.

The young Swede, frantically cheered by schoolgirls, some of whom carried Swedish flags, rifled another service into the net and it was match point again.

Borg then ran wide for the service and banged it into the net.

The crowd burst into the greatest ovation of Taylor's career, as much for his sportsmanship as for his play.

Casper ninth on money list

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Casper's victory in the Western Open had him soar from 25th to ninth place on the pro golf money won list, and Bruce Crampton's tie for fourth kept him in the top spot and also gave him over $1 million in career earnings.

Crampton, pocketing $7,445, eased his season total up to $211,654, his career bankroll to $1,003,097.

Peter DePaolo will be toasting Ontario

ONTARIO, Calif. — Peter DePaolo, winner of the 1925 Indianapolis 500 and twice national champion, has been named "Official Toastmaster" of Ontario Motor Speedway, it has been announced by Speedway President Parnelli Jones.

DePaolo was acclaimed the "golden man" of racing when he became the first driver to top the 100 m.p.h. mark for 500 miles when he won at Indianapolis in 1925. He was national champion that year and again in 1927.

"We are very happy to have Pete join us as our 'official toastmaster'," said Jones in announcing the appointment. "He is one of the great personalities and premier speakers of auto racing and will be tremendously valuable to us in spreading the word about the California 500 and Ontario Motor Speedway."

DePaolo was recently inducted into the Racing Hall of Fame of the American Auto Racing Writers and Broadcasters Association.

"I'm especially pleased to be associated with Tony Hulman of Indianapolis and Parnelli Jones of Ontario," said DePaolo. "The California 500 draws more people than any other sporting event in the state, and is second only to Indy in the nation, and I'm proud to be associated with both fine Speedways."

In addition to his speaking duties, DePaolo will also be involved in coordinating the pre-race pageantry for the 4th annual California 500, Sunday, Sept. 2.

Youth baseball player dies

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (UPI) — Mark Atkins, 14, of New Albany, died Monday from injuries suffered during Babe Ruth League baseball practice when struck in the head by a baseball.

The youth died in Kentucky Baptist Hospital where he was taken Sunday evening following the accident at a little league field on the 4-H fairgrounds.

Atkins was at bat during the practice of a Babe Ruth all-star team when the accident happened. Authorities said the catcher was throwing the ball back to the pitcher when Atkins stepped into the line of the throw and was hit.

POMONA — Olympic star Mabel Fergerson of Diamond Bar can add another prize to her rapidly-expanding trophy case.

The 18-year-old Ganesha High graduate has received the 1973 Redbook Women's Track and Field Award from Redbook Magazine.

Miss Fergerson, who won the 220 yard dash and the 440 yard dash at the AAU Women's Outdoor National Championships at UC Irvine recently, was judged the meet's outstanding performer.

The award is given, according to Redbook publisher Carlo Vittorini, to recognize young women who are working individually to prove their abilities because this was the way most favored by Redbook readers for women to overcome discrimination.

"What better example of this attitude could we find than the individual discipline and dedication exemplified by more than 800 young women who participated in the AAU National Track and Field Championships," he commented.

"As these young women athletes gain recognition for their aggressiveness and independence, they perform a great service for future generations of both men and women by dispelling the traditional belief that these traits are more common in men than in women," Mr. Vittorini said.

Redbook advertising director John J. Beni, chairman of the AAU Women's Track and Field Committee and of the Women's Olympic Track and Field team, Mrs. Pat Rico, and Ms. Marsha Smelkinson, editor of the AAU News, were judges for the award.

Sports news in brief

MEMORIAL SERVICES were scheduled in Indianapolis tonight for Swede Savage, who died Monday of burns and injuries suffered in a flaming crash into the wall during the Indianapolis 500 May 30. Funeral services will be held in San Bernardino, his home town, at 1 p.m. Friday at Bobbitt Memorial Chapel, 1299 E. Highland Ave. His body will be flown to Ontario International Airport after tonight's service in Indianapolis.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC GROUPS in the United States, upset by proposed federal legislation that would subvert them to government control, threatened today that such a move might result in the exclusion of this country from future Olympic games.

ARTHUR ASHE, speaking for the Association of Tennis Professionals, said Monday he believed the Wimbledon bitterness would be over by the time the U.S. Open is played in late summer at Forest Hills.

USC shortstop Roy Smalley Jr., leading batter in the recent Japan-United States college baseball series, was named the competition's Most Valuable Player Monday.

THE LITTLE LEAGUE brought out its physiologist Monday to testify against unisex baseball on the grounds of differing bone structures in the suit filed by 12-year-old Carolyn King of Ypsilanti, Mich. seeking to overturn rules barring girls.

RON SANTO of the Chicago Cubs and Darrell Evans of the Atlanta Braves shared the National League's Player of the Week Honor for the period of June 25 through July 1.

After running mile

Jipcho seeks mark

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Ben Jipcho of Kenya, who became the world's second fastest miler Monday, had a good chance tonight to lower his own world record in the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

"Ben is good for 3:52.0 on the mile, he should be able to win tonight's 3,000 meter steeplechase in something like 8:10.0," Finland's ace runner Tapio Kantanen said.

Jipcho, who won Monday's mile race at the Stockholm Olympic Stadium in 3:52.0 and missed Jim Ryun's world record by only nine-tenths of a second, will be seeking to eclipse the mark of 8:19.8 he set last week in the 3 000 meter steeplechase which bettered the old mark by one second.

Jipcho, a Kenyan prison guard, refused to speculate.

"All depends on the weather, the track and other circumstances," he said.

Filbert Bayi of Tanzania was one of those other circumstances Monday when Jipcho was timed in 3:52 for the mile.

Bayi set a furious pace in his first mile race ever and finished second in 3:52.6 after leading most of the race. Jipcho, at one stage, was 25 yards behind and passed him on the final stretch.

Four other runners finished in under four minutes, including American Leonard Hilton who was third in 3:56.0.

L. Alworth announces retirement

DALLAS (UPI) — Following 11 seasons of professional football, one all-time pass receiving record and lodged in second place in career receiving yardage, Lance Alworth Monday announced his retirement from professional football.

Alworth, a collegiate star at the University of Arkansas played for nine seasons with the San Diego Chargers and two seasons with the Dallas Cowboys.

The 6-foot, 180 pound Alworth set his records during the years with the Chargers in the American Football League. Most spectacular were his dangerous, leaping catches from Charger quarterback John Hadl.

He was traded to Dallas for Cowboy flanker Lance Rentzel, and had his most satisfying year, and then his most disappointing year.

In 1971, he was a part of the Cowboys' drive to win Super Bowl VI, and it was during that game he made what he called the "two most important catches I ever made."

He snared a crucial third-down 21-yard toss from quarterback Roger Staubach to keep Dallas' opening touchdown drive alive in the second quarter of that game. Moments later he caught a seven-yard scoring pass from Staubach in the corner of the end zone.

During that year, he caught 34 passes for 487 yards, but last year caught only 15 passes. Both years —even 1971 —were far below what he had come to expect during his years with the Chargers.

Lakers sign 2nd choice

Perry, 6-foot-10 ½, 220 pounds, signed a multi-year contract but the terms were not disclosed. He had also been drafted by Virginia of the American Basketball Association.

Perry averaged 20.1 points, had 388 rebounds and blocked 120 shots in 26 games last season.

Jets' girls impressive at Olympics

POMONA — Six members of the West Coast Jets Track Club combined efforts to give the club two second places, four thirds, one fourth and a fifth Sunday at the Jr. Olympics at Golden West College.

And while the young girls were turning in fine performances at GWC, two of the Jets Club's male members were qualifying for the State Meet.

At Golden West, Stacy Granger placed second in both the 100 yard dash in 13.6 seconds and the 50 yard sprint in 7.3 seconds, while also helping three other team members in giving the Jets a third place in the 440 relay.

Nichie Granger, who also competed on the relay team, grabbed two third place finishes in the 50 in 7.4 seconds and the 200 in 31.1 seconds.

Little Tonia Granger was clocked at 15.4 seconds in the 100 to place fifth, while providing the third leg on the relay team.

Tina White was the fourth West Coast Jets member on the third-place relay quintet.

Janet Ballard ran a 28.8 second 220 yard run for third place, while Jackie White finished fourth in the 50.

At. Mt. San Antonio College where the boys were competing, Vernon Fergerson finished second in the 440 yard run in 51.3 seconds, and Vinell Fergerson copped a first place in the 220 in 22.0 seconds and a second in the long jump in 20-feet 5-inches.

Both boys qualified for the State Meet, which will be held at Balboa Stadium in San Diego on July 14.

STEVE FRADY

Ex-Pomonan elected Pres.

RENO, Nev. — Ex-Pomonan Steve Frady, sports editor of the Nevada Appeal in Carson City, has been elected president of the Sierra Nevada Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association in Reno.

Frady, a 1967 graduate of Ganesha High, joined the Nevada Appeal last September after graduation from the Communication Arts Department of Cal Poly.

The 24-year-old Frady is involved in several organizations in the Reno-Carson City area including the Ormsby Sportsmen's Association Stewart Booster Club, Virginia City Booster Club and the Carson Booster Club.

Frady is residing in Carson City with his wife, Janet. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Frady of Pomona.

Walnut plays to deadlock fourth time this season

WALNUT — Shortstop Marty Shephard singled home pitcher Bobby Veselic in the ninth inning Monday evening to give Walnut Connie Mack its fourth tie of the season in a 4-4 deadlock with Whittier Post 51 American Legion.

Whittier scored two runs in the top of the ninth to take a 4-2 lead but Walnut bounced back. Lance Parrish opened the rally by drawing a walk. He scored on a Whittier error after Veselic singled.

Veselic pitched the distwnce for Walnut, striking out seven battors. Danny Munoz paced Whittier with a home run and triple.

Walnut, 8-7-4 for the season, returns to action Friday evening by hosting Montclair Post 616 at Mt. San Anttonio College.

Aaron's shots worth a mint

ATLANTA (UPI) — When, and if, Hank Aaron hits his 714th and 715th home runs, those baseballs are going to be worth their weight in diamonds.

Aaron says it's news to him, but there is a story going around that an offer of $50,000 has been made for home run ball No. 714 and an offer of $100,000 for home run ball No. 715.

"If I hit either one of those up into the seats," said Aaron, "there are going to be more than a dozen people out there who will pull baseballs out of their pockets and swear it's the one I hit.

"I remember what happened when I hit the home run that won for us in 1957," Aaron recalled. "Mr. Perini (then Braves owner

Texas 'Clyde impressive in second appearance

By United Press International

Young David Clyde's blazing fastball was shunted aside by a trait not usually found in a rookie —poise.

Texas' brilliant 18-year old lefthander wasn't around at the end Monday night when Ed Herrmann doubled home the winning run in the ninth to lift the Chicago White Sox to a 5-4 win over the Rangers but Clyde looked impressive as he spaced four hits in a six-inning stint.

Clyde, the number one pick in the recent free agent draft, jumped straight to the major leagues after being a high school phenomenon. He made his second major league start and drew a near capacity crowd of 33,010 striking out six and allowing only one earned run before a blister on his pitching hand forced him to leave early.

Clyde didn't allow a hit over the first four innings and left in the sixth with Texas ahead, 4-3.

Bill Melton ruined Clyde's chance for a second major league victory with a run-scoring single in the eighth. Clyde, like last week in his debut against Minnesota, pitched well but Melton said afterwards that what struck him was the poise shown by Clyde and his assortment of pitches.

"I don't believe that he's just 18 years old—he's just too good for such a young pitcher," said Melton. "I think Clyde is more developed than Vida Blue was when he won 20. He doesn't throw his curve with the same speed that he throws his fastball like most young pitchers."

In other American League games, Minnesota downed Kansas City, 5-2, Boston nipped New York, 1-0, Detroit shaded Cleveland, 43, Milwaukee stopped Baltimore 5-3 and California edged Oakland, 4-2.

In the National League Cincinnati beat Los Angeles, 4-2 Montreal edged New York, 2-1 in 10 innings, St. Louis topped Philadelphia 7-4, San Francisco trounced Atlanta, 9-5 and San Diego whipped Houston, 8-5.

Fritz Peterson only allowed two hits but one of them was a homer by Dwight Evans in the fifth inning and that's all the Red Sox needed to edge New York, snapping the Yankees' string of 13 consecutive wins at home.

George Scott, Pedro Garcia and Darrell Porter slammed home runs as Milwaukee sent Baltimore down to its fourth straight defeat. Scott, who had driven in the first Brewer run in the second inning with a sacrifice fly, rapped a two-run drive in the eighth inning that snapped a 3-3 tie and gave reliever Bill Champion his second victory against three losses.

Dick McAuliffe scored the winning run on John Ellis' passed ball in the sixth inning and Mickey Stanley cracked a two-run homer to pace Detroit's victory over Cleveland. It was the eighth victory in nine games for the surging Tigers who had dropped eight straight before their current winning streak.

Hank Aaron's 694th home run gave the Braves a 3-1 lead in the sixth inning but the Giants scored eight runs in the last three innings against the ineffective Atlanta bullpen. Homers by Gary Mathews and Bobby Bonds in the seventh and Chris Speier in the eighth were the key blows as the Giants took a 6-5 lead and they added three runs in the ninth with the help of Mathews' two-run triple. Don McMahon made his first appearance since being reactivated and pitched a hitless eighth and ninth for the Giants.

Ted Simmons drove in five runs for the second time in a week —three of them with his sixth homer of the season —as the Cardinals rose back to the .500-mark.

Clarence Gaston's three-run homer in the ninth enabled the Padres to hand the Astros their fifth loss during an eight-game home stand. Jerry Morales hit a three-run double in the third inning and set up two other runs.

YOU'RE THE TOP — Tina Estupinian as Hope and Marshall Brewer as Billy head the large cast of "Anything Goes," to be presented by the youth group and choir of the Claremont United Methodist Church Thursday through Sunday. The Cole Porter musical, with such songs as "You're the Top" and "I Get a Kick Out of You," will be staged in the Communications Building of the School of Theology at Claremont, Foothill Boulevard and Harvard Avenue, at 8 p.m.

'Anything Goes'

Church group to stage musical

CLAREMONT — The youth group and choir of the Claremont United Methodist Church will present the Cole Porter musical, "Anything Goes," in the Communications Building of the School of Theology at Claremont at 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

Tickets at $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for children under 12 can be reserved at the church, 211 W. Foothill Blvd., 624-2342, and will be on sale at the door.

"Anything Goes" was a hit on Broadway in the '30s. The adventures of some shady but endearing characters on board a luxury liner in the Atlantic are related in lively dialogue, exuberant dancing, and such songs as "It's D'Lovely," "You're the Top," "Friendship," "I Get a Kick Out of You," and "Blow, Gabriel, Blow!"

Heading the cast are Marshall Brewer, as Billy Crocker; Tina Estupinian as the romantic lead, Hope Harcourt; Ruth Trotter as Reno Sweeney, nightclub singer and evangelist; David Nimmons as Sir Evelyn; Marty Baum as Moon Face Martin, public enemy No. 13; Kathy Kilsby as his gun moll, Bonnie; Gary Ardrey as the Purser; Renatta Bratt as Mrs. Harcourt; Lindsey Brewer, the Bishop; and the five comic Heavenly Angels, Gayle Newton, Shelley Waldman, Lynni Gilfry, K.T. Little and Cheryl Ford.

Others in the cast and in the two dance choruses are Matt Rosen, Carolyn Skeen, Hans Weidhofer, Rich Applebee, Liz Estupinian, Sue Bechtel, Shirley Wray, Pat Graham, Julie Waldman, Joni Baum, Chandra Holum, Mary Cadman, Alisa Allen, Sara Cole, Susie Wray Christie Allen, Sara Cadman, Rod Gilfry, David Ardrey, Phil Wray, Dan Cole, Eddie Bratt, Steve Prancevic and Rich Hall. Gayle Newton is dance captain. Production assistants are Shirley Wray and Christie Allen. Wayne Atwood is director of state crew and sets.

The show is choreographed by Pat Pilkington. Mrs. Pilkington, a Claremont resident, has studied with Nico Charisse, Zila Zali and Bella Lewitzsky. She studied with and managed the studio of Tony Charmoli, the choreographer for the Dinah Shore and New Julie Andrews Shows.

Gania Trotter, director of music at Claremont United Methodist Church, is general director of the production. She organized the Youth Choir three years ago. The choir, with about 40 members of high school and junior college age, sings everything from the music of the traditional classical composers to the modern rock musical "Godspell."

Other professionals assisting in the production are Betty Biskey, singer, vocal coach and music educator; and Bob Burgan, public school teacher and drama coach.

Music festival to open Friday

CLAREMONT — The fifth annual Claremont Music Festival will open with a concert in Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

Glora Bernstein, founder-conductor of the Festival Orchestra, will conduct.

The program will open with four French horns featured in Haydn's Symphony No. 31 in D Major, "Horn Signal" (1765). Also on the program will be Stravinsky's ne-classic Concerto in E flat-"Dumbarton Oaks" (1938) for 15 players and Richard Strauss' rarely-heard suite of "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" (1920). A new narrative based on the original Moliere comedy and on a libretto by Strauss' collaborator Hugo von Hofmannstahl, has been written for the Claremont Music Festival by Derrick Henry. It will be read by actor Norman Belkin, who has worked extensively in radio, television and such films as "The Hustler," "The Last Angry Man" and "Butterfield 8."

The season's first chamber music concert will be presented on July 11 with the Woodwind Quintet, Op. 43 (Nielsen) performed by new members of the CMF Institute resident faculty: Carol Wincenc, flute; Sara Watkins, oboe; David Shifrin, clarinet; Robert Williams, bassoon, and David Kappy, horn.

Pauline Oliveros' 1963 composition, "Outline," will be played by Bert Turetzky, contrabass; Hal Rees, percussion and Miss Wincenc. Dvorak's Quinttt in A, Op. 81, will be performed by violinist Charles Libove and pianist Nina Lugovoy, both returning for their third season, and new faculty members Joanne Zagst, violin; Raymond Page, viola, and cellist Leonard Feldman, all members of the Alard Quartet.

All concerts through Aug. 4 will be at 8:15 p.m. Season subscriptions and series tickets are available at the Thatcher Music Building of Pomona College, Fourth Street and College Avenue, and at most agencies. Reservatioss and information can be obtained at 621-1112 or 626-8511, ext. 2242.

$11.3 million grants

Race relations TV projects OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Office of Education Monday awarded five grants totaling over $11.3 million to develop race relations television programming. One of the funded projects still has not received $600,000 from an earlier grant because of questions raised in a federal audit.

The award recipients are Education Development Center, Inc., Newton, Mass., $4,023,037; Bicultural Children's Television Inc., Oakland, Calif., $3.5 million; noncommercial WNVT Television in Annandale, Va., $1,762,298; non-commercial television station KLRN in Austin, Tex., $1,268,730, and non-commercial TV station WTTW in Chicago, $811,878.

Television shows and spot announcements produced under the grants will be aimed at elementary and high school children and will focus on bilingual, bicultural education, mathematics, ethnic differences and a reduction of interracial tensions among students, the Office of Education said. The spending was ordered by Congress in the newly awarded funds scored second highest on technical aspects among 52 applicants, must meet an unusual set of special management terms and conditions before the grant money can start flowing, an aide to the education commissioner said.

The special conditions were applied to the BCTV contract because of an interim federal audit which alleged misspending under a 1972 BCTV Spanish-speaking television project similar to the one for which new funds have been awarded, the aide said.

Because of the allegations, $600,000 in office of education funds is being withheld from the Berkeley, Calif., School District, which sub-contracted with BCTV.

A widely leaked incomplete audit alleged misspending on restaurant and hotel bills, executive-type life insurance policies, "extravagant" office furniture, and fees to a public relations firm for representing the project in Washington.

The aide said the new grant could not cover any spending error that occurred under a previous grant, if the spending errors are proven in the final audit in August.

He said the special conditions include adding a person with background in financial management to the project and remaining financially solvent. Office of Education sources said the BCTV project also is receiving private funds from the Ford Foundation and the Exxon Corp.

COMPTON, Calif. (UPI) — A funny thing happened to Wesley Sanders Monday on his first day as treasurer of the city of Compton.

According to city records, Compton should have $1.1 million in its general fund. But when Sanders checked Monday all he could come up with was $69 000 in cash. And the town has a payroll and bills of $37,000 coming due Thursday.

Sanders said his predecessor, outgoing treasurer John Chapman whom he defeated in the June 5 runoff election, had placed $450,000 with banks in certificates of deposit —payable in December.

The new treasurer said he was unable to account for another $425,000 and that $200,000 in city money was tied up elsewhere.

Sanders said he thought things could be straightened out and that nothing illegal was going on but added that he had been unable to arrange a meeting with Chapman.

"I think he's very bitter and is trying to do everything to make it impossible for me to have a smooth transition," Sanders said.

Tahoe zoning impact stirs court fight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A real estate investment firm has filed a $4 million lawsuit, claiming its property at Lake Tahoe had been rendered worthless by zoning changes.

Perini Lake Tahoe Properties, Inc., said in its superior court suit filed Monday it had purchased property in 1968 seven miles south of Tahoe City at Chmbers Landing for residential or hotel use.

But in 1971, the suit asserted, the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency designated the Perini property as part of a recreation district and "decreed that only 'recreational uses' could be made of the land."

The agency said use of the land for residential or commercial purposes was prohibited, the suit said.

This action rendered the property valueless and destroyed its economic worth, the suit said.

Ustinov honored

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peter Ustinov has been named chairman of a special delegation on the Arts and Society for Congress of Europe.

Transit views quote checked out

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The mayors of California's three largest cities want Gov. Ronald Reagan to let the state's congressmen know his position on the use of federal highway trust funds for mass transit.

Mayors Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles, Pete Wilson of San Diego and Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco Monday telegrammed the governor concerning the role of Reps. Don Claussen and Harold Johnson in the defeat of a measure to divert limited trust fund monies to urban transit programs.

Newspaper reports indicate their vote in a joint congressional committee was decisive and quoted Johnson as saying he voted against the measure because "it is contrary to our state position ... to the position of our governor and state highway department," according to the mayors.

"We believe the congressman was mistaken and recall that you supported Proposition 18 in the 1970 election, which would have opened California's own gas tax fund for mass transit uses," they told Reagan.

"We respectfully request that you convey your position to our congressional delegation, particularly Congressmen Clausen and Johnson," said the telegram sent from Alioto's office with the approval of Bradley and Wilson.

U.N. group reports

World responds to meat shortages

ROME (UPI) — A report to the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) predicts some relief soon from the short supply of meat which has sent prices rising sharply throughout the world.

The report to the intergovernmental group on meat of the FAO Committee on Commodity Problems Monday blamed the price rises on the slowing in the growth of meat supplies to one per cent in 1972. This compared to a 3.8 per cent growth in 1971.

World trade in mutton and lamb may fall even below last year's volume because drought has reduced supplies from New Zealand and Australia and the rebuilding of flocks to meet high wool prices, the report said.

Otherwise, it said, the short term outlook indicates an improvement in the supply and demand balance.

"Beef and veal production is expected to increase in the major importing areas from the second half of 1972 and output of pig and poultry meat will also be generally larger although high feedstuff prices could cause this expansion to fall short of current expectations," the report said.

The total production of the four major types of meat — beef poultry, mutton and lamb and pigmeat —last year was 90.5 million tons worldwide, the report said.

It said a record 16.4 million ton poultry production accounted for the small overall increase while mutton and lamb production decreased and pigmeat was stagnant.

The report said herd expansion was likely to mean more beef production in the enlarged European Common Market in the second half of 1973. It also forecast beef production increases in Australia, New Zealand, Latin American, Eastern Europe and Canada but a slight decline in the United States.

Armenian guilty in murders of 2 Turkish envoys

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Gourgen Yanikian, 77, was found guilty of first degree murder Monday for shooting to death two Turkish diplomats Jan. 27 to avenge the massacre of Armenians by Turks more than half a century ago.

Yanikian, an author of religious plays and novels and once a wealthy land developer and international engineer, admitted killing Mehmet Baydar, 49, Turkish consul general in Los Angeles, and Baydar's assistant, Bahadir Demir, 30. He testified he thought of it as "destroying two evils." Letters signed with Yanikian's name were sent to newspapers, calling for a "war on Turkish diplomats."

Yanikian testified that he was involved in the massacres during his childhood, lost many relatives, and had seen his brother's throat cut. The Jewish prosecutor countered that history could not be used to condone such killings, or it would be justifiable for him to kill Germans.

State guard enlistment is at high level

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Army National Guard is at 90 per cent of its authorized manpower despite the all-volunteer Army and abolition of the draft, it was reported Monday.

The California Guard has an authorized strength of 22,500 persons and reached 90 per cent of that level last week, a reversal of the trend nationally, reported Lt. Col. Andrew G. Wolf Jr., public affairs officer.

He said 15 months ago when debate raged over abolition of the draft and the move toward an all-volunteer Army, the California Army National Guard was at 80 per cent of its full authorization.

Wolf said officers credit the bounce-back to the establishment of three "recruiting commands" in California staffed by 70 full-time National Guard recruiters.

They stress training a man or woman for a skill that would help him obtain employment in a civilian career, he said.

The guard also announced a new program for non-prior military service youths that will enable them to enllist for four years of drills and annual field training plus two additional years of attending the two week annual encampment only without more weekend drills.

Up to now, guardsmen must have enlisted for six years of both weekend drills and the annual 15-day field training encampments.

California was one of 13 states approved by the National Guard Bureau in Washington to test the so-called "four - plus - two" year enlistment program.

Whittier man acting boss of OEO office

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Eugene Gonzales, 47, Whittier, has been named acting regional director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Gonzales served the past year as deputy regional director under Thomas H. Mercer, who is currently on leave from the agency.

Skating boy hit, hurt by motorcycle

POMONA — An 11-year-old boy, hit by a motorcycle when he roller skated into Vassar Avenue Saturday afternoon, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Gregory Watson, 1053 Del Norde Ave., suffered a head injury in the accident and was treated for a time in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The driver of the motorcycle was Joe Brown, 37, 1116 Vassar St. He was westbound on Vassar when the accident occurred west of Alder Street.

Joseph G. Rudolph, 19, 1360 E. D St., La Verne, escaped injury Sunday afternoon when his small car left McKinley Avenue and over turned east of E Street. Police said the car landed on its top but Rudolph wasn't hurt.

Odd-lotters and trends

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — Would you explain how the odd-lot figures are used to determine if the odd-lotter has been buying or selling on balance. Simple subtraction gives the improbably result that the odd-lotter has been on the selling side without exception for the past two years. — E.C.

A — The odd-lot figures as printed in the financial pa... the number of shares bought, sold and sold short in bloc... less than 100 shares as reported by the major odd-lot deal... Since the summer of 1970, sales (including short sales) have exceeded purchases. Late in March and again early in May the daily balance ratio (total sales divided by purchases) approached 100, where the two figures are in balance. Early in 1971 and again in late 1972, when the market was reaching peaks, odd-lot selling outweighed buying two-to-one. More recently, selling has been 25 per cent to 35 per cent greater than buying. All of which tends to give lie to one of the basic Wall Street maxims that the small investor is usually wrong.

According to Garfield Drew, orginator of the "Odd-Lot Theory," when odd-lot purchases exceed sales by 10 per cent to 40 per cent, and short sales account for 30 per cent to 40 per cent of total sales, a major market bottom has been reached. Although short sales have been in the 20 per cent 30 per cent in recent weeks, sales are still predominating by 20 per cent to 30 per cent.

Q — What investments would you recommend for a window with $100,000 needing additional income of $6,000 annually? — M.P.

A — A portfolio of six bonds costing just under $100,000, paying interest monthly, will yield $6,778 annually. Included in the portfolio are 18M 4⅛s U.S. Treasury bonds due May 1989-94, which are acceptable at par in payment of estate taxes. 18M of each of the following issues is also recommended: Inter-American Development Bank 5.20s of 1992, Federal Land Bank 6.80s of 1979 and World Bank 6½s of 1994. Buy 20M U.S. Postal Service 6⅞ of 1997 and Federal National Mortgage 6.65s of 1982 to round out your portfolio.

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Thomson, McKinnon & Auchancloss, Inc., and Halle-Steiglitz-Filor Bullard, Inc., two Wall Street houses, announced they will merge July 9 under the Thomson McKinnon name.

All of Halle Steiglitz's 16 offices in the United States and abroad will be continued. The combined firm will have 73 offices and more than 1,000 sales personnel.

BERGEN, N.J. (UPI) — Duro-Test Corp. said Monday it is introducing a line of new long-life light bulbs that consume 10 per cent less power for the same quantity of illumination as conventional lamps. Duro-Test said one 90-watt bulb of the new series gives the same illumination as a conventional 100-watt bulb, which could save a power company 600 gallons of fuel oil a year. The bulbs have a useful life of 3,500 hours and sell for $1.69 in the 90-watt size.

SYOSSET, N.Y. (UPI) — Lafayette Radio Electronics Corp. will open a real store in Minnesota and another on Long Island next weekend. This will increase the company's chain to 76 stores.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Domestic steel output rose last week by .6 per cent to 2.897 million tons, the American Iron & Steel Institute reports.

For Wednesday, July 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you can draw upon greater support from your co-workers. Others are willing to co-operate. Spend the day productively.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep your plans as flexible as possible. You're going to be entertaining someone you didn't count on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The means are now available. Today is the day you will buy something that will be useful for the family as a whole.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Trips that are planned or made today will provide you with a great deal of personal pleasure. Get going.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Resources will become available to you today through a source you didn't expect. Later, they'll be put to good use.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's one person in particular that you'll meet today. He'll make as powerful an impression on you as you do on him.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A problem that you're harboring and are reluctant to tell others about will be anticipated by one who will clear things up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) New hopes and interests will be stimulated today. Begin new projects with small steps for best results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Joint ventures are presently your most promising area. Develop any shared opportunity fully while conditions favor you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's important that you let the one who is most closely associated to you know you're in complete accord today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will find that whatever you sell or work on today will have more value to others than usual.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll come out very favorably today in situations where you deal with individuals on a one-to-one basis.

Your Birthday
July 4, 1973

Ideas that may appear to be of small promise are worthy of working on this year. They'll grow nicely in proportion to your dedication.

Stayman OK, play is wrong

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Stayman convention has reached rubber bridge players. North used it correctly and South found himself in a good game contract.

West opened the king of diamonds. East played the deuce. He wasn't going to waste his ace or jack and West shifted to the jack of clubs.

This gave South a chance to make an overtrick. All South had to do was play three rounds of clubs in order to get rid of dummy's last diamond, start the hearts and wind up with a cross-ruff for 11 tricks.

South didn't quite get around to that. He won the first club in dummy; played three rounds of trumps; did discard that last diamond on his good clubs and then attacked hearts. Unfortunately it was too late. East took his ace of hearts and led his last club. South had to ruff in dummy and eventually lost his last two diamonds.

Incidentally, while South could have made an overtrick he should have settled for four after the club shift by attacking hearts immediately. He couldn't be sure that clubs would go around three times.

CTA leader raps merger for teachers

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Teachers want unity but not at the expense of losing their independence to the AFL-CIO or any other national labor organization, Bryan Stevens, leader of the California Caucus, said today at the National Education Association (NEA) convention.

Stevens accused some leaders of the American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), of hiding their real intentions as delegates attending the convention with dual membership in NEA. "They are hiding their real intentions," he said, "under a God and motherhood cry of teacher unity, when in reality, they seek to further their own personal ambitions by attempting to railroad a merger of the two groups under the banner of the AFL-CIO."

Stevens said David Selden, president of AFT and Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers of New York City, were the leaders behind the merger push at the convention. Stevens is president of the 150,000-member California Teachers Association (CTA), and is the teacher who in 1968 drew attention when he challenged the assessed value of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Malibu Hills Ranch.

"The merger push by Selden and Shanker," he said, "is a power play to gain further recognition in the hierarchy of the AFL-CIO by putting some two million teachers under the union banner. They both know that delivery of the teachers to the AFL-CIO, which is desperate to boost its membership, will result in life-long power positions for themselves in the union."

Stevens said, "Teachers will not be fooled by this guise of merger and unity and permit themselves to become pawns in this power struggle involving these two men. If these gentlemen want unity in the teaching profession, they should urge a merger of all teachers without the AFT requirement of AFL-CIO affiliation. It is the struggle between Selden and Shanker which is the real cause of the infighting by teachers and teacher organizations at the state and local as well as the national levels, and it is this struggle which is diverting teachers from their responsibility to the children in the classrooms."

Stevens maintains that more than 90 per cent of the organized teachers are now outside of the AFL-CIO and he said NEA polls indicate they want to remain that way.

Stevens said the polls "indicate without a doubt that teachers do not want to be unionized, but they do want to unify into an independent teaching profession. However, we do support the labor movement, which is an absolute necessity in our modern industrial society to protect the rights of workers."

Toy firm sues oil co. over sale of cars

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mattel Inc. has filed suit in Superior Court to prevent Shell Oil Co. from distributing 4.2 million of the toy manufacturers miniature "Hot Wheels" cars through toy stores.

Mattel said Shell bought the cars at a discount last fall to be used as premiums at service stations but due to the alleged shortage of gasoline it has discontinued promotional premiums.

The toy makers said the miniature cars should only be distributed as service station promotion premiums because the plan for distribution in stores would unfairly compete with Mattel's own marketing program.

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates.

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

YES NOW IS A GOOD TIME

Fourth of July girl Judy Strangis, who portrays student Helen Loomis in ABC's Room 222 (Fridays at 9PM), is a member of one of Hollywood's largest, most prominent families. Her brother Sam is a production executive at one of the major studios. Her sister Cindy, an actress-singer, is the wife of Bob Williams, associate producer of Love, American Style on which Judy and Cindy once appeared as Siamese twins. Aunt Helen, Judy's mother's sister, is singer Helen Grayco, widow of the late Spike Jones. Judy entered show business at the age of six when she was signed to do a sketch with Charlton Heston on a network special. Now 21, Judy is one of Hollywood's busiest actresses. Before reaching the age of 18, she had appeared on such shows as Twilight Zone, Westinghouse Playhouse, The Untouchables and Playhouse 90. Her "after 18" credits include the feature film, "Like It Is" and a starring role with Robert Young in the ABC Movie of the Week, "All My Darling Daughters."

COVER CLOSE-UP

'ROOKIE FROM MOUNTIE COUNTRY'

Michael Ontkean, who turned 24 last January, is the youngest of The Rookies, ABC's highly successful Monday night cops-and-drama series which goes into its second season this fall. He is also the most popular of the three young policemen among teenage girls. His handsome face and curly brown hair currently adorn the covers and inside pages of virtually all the fan magazines. Unlike some teenage idols, Michael Ontkean is a serious actor, somewhat embarrassed by the hysteria of fans and the passionate mail that has been pouring in since "The Rookies" went on the air last year. While he is delighted with the high ratings the series has been getting in a time slot once considered hazardous, he is baffled by fame.

"My parents, Muriel and Leonard Ontkean were well known actors throughout Canada," says Michael, who was born in Vancouver where he made his theatrical debut at the age of five on the stage of a local theatre.

"I've been performing all my life, as an actor and on the hockey rink," Michael told TV Week, "so I'm more or less conditioned to audience reactions—favorable and otherwise. But man! This business of being an American TV personality is something else. I jump about a foot off the ground when I pass a magazine rack and see my picture and the crazy titles they hang on the stories they write about me. It's too much!"

Michael is probably more relaxed on The Rookies set at 20th Century-Fox studios than anywhere. There, he works with co-stars George Stanford Brown, Sam Melville, Gerald S. O'Loughlin and Kate Jackson in an atmosphere of good natured professional discipline. "We have a lot of laughs on the set," says Michael, "but it's a pretty straight scene. Every member of the cast is serious about the acting profession. None of us is an overnight success. We've all worked hard to get where we are. Georg Stanford Brown has a background as a Shakespearean actor in New York. Gerald O'Loughlin is from the New York stage and he's been a television actor since 1950. Sam Melville really had to struggle to get to where he is. He came to Hollywood more than ten years ago, but few people ever heard of him until The Rookies. A lot of people think of us as guys who just came out of nowhere and landed a hot series because we're lucky."

Michael started as a television actor when he was 9. This was when he and his parents were living in Toronto and were working regularly for the Canadian Broadcasting Company, the National Film Board and in the theatre. "There are no movie, TV or stage stars in Canada," says Michael, "only hockey stars. Hockey is the sport up there. It's not just Canada's top sport. It's the number one entertainment. If I ever felt like something special as a kid, it wasn't because I was an actor. It was when I played hockey." Michael was attending high school in Montreal when he won a hockey scholarship at the University of New Hampshire.

"I was a theatre-arts major at New Hampshire and I used to rush from one dressing room to another—from the hockey rink to backstage of the campus theatre. I'd been offered contracts to play professional hockey, but one day I decided I liked the theatre campus dressing rooms better than the locker room."

It turned out to be a good choice. Michael had graduated from New Hampshire and was back in Toronto appearing in a stage production when Canadian-born movie director Norman Jewison saw the young man and brought him to Hollywood to test for a role in his film version of "Fiddler on the Roof." Michael did not get the part, but through Jewison he met a number of producers, directors and casting executives. He soon went to work in the Disney movie, "Bayou Boy" which led to guest star roles in such TV shows as Ironside, The Bold Ones, Dan August and The Partridge Family.

"One of the first important people I met in Hollywood was Aaron Spelling, executive producer of The Rookies," recalls Michael. "I remember he told me to stick around, get more experience and come back in a couple of years. That's exactly what I did. That's why I'm in The Rookies."

'A CANDID PORTRAIT'

Their job is to sell the Word of God. Their product, gilt-edged fabricoid plastic-and-nylon-bound Bibles selling for $49.95 . . . "they're washable and outlast leather 4 to 1." Four hard-driving, success-seeking Bible salesmen armed with their aspirations and all the tricks of the game, are captured at their trade in the Maysles Brothers' classic documentary, "Salesman," which will have its American television premiere on KCET's Verite series Monday night at 10PM.

Filmed in cinema verite (described as "direct cinema" by producers Albert and David Maysles, "Salesman" is the portrait of four Bible hucksters and the personal crisis of one, Paul Brennan, who is frustrated in a world where success is the measure of a man. From snowbound New England territory, to the streets of Miami, Florida, the film candidly records the quartets' spiritual door-to-door carney-barking and their motel room strategy meetings.

Be it a subtle approach or hard-sell, "the pitch" makes little difference to Brennan as his sales plummet. Turndowns increase and breed in him a lonely, depressed and antagonistic feeling. He now is guilty of the cardinal sin among Bible salesmen, "negative thinking." Brennan, known as "The Badger," says the film created a tremendous change in his life and regards all salesmen as actors.

The other salesmen include Charlie McDevitt, dubbed "The Gipper" from Knute Rockne's famous exhortation, "Let's win this one for the Gipper!" Of the four he is the most successful.

James Baker, alias "The Rabbit," claims his chief satisfaction in selling Bibles is "the pay." He says salesmen are, in general, "more honest, more sincere, and act more naturally than just about anybody." Brennan describes Baker as "having the face of a choirboy and the heart of a barracuda."

The last member of the foursome is Raymond Martos "The Bull" who says that selling is his life. Brennan calls Martos "The inscrutable sphinx; A frustrated ballet dancer."

"Salesman" was produced in 1969 and is the culmination of five months of searching for the right men, six weeks of filming, and 15 months of editing. The production team included Albert Maysles on camera and brother David as soundman and supervising editor. Charlotte Zwerin worked in the editing and completion of the film.

Of "Salesman," noted playwright Arthur Miller commented: "It is an adventure into the American dream where hope is a sale and a sale is confirmation of existence itself." And Norman Mailer said: "I can't think of many movies which have had as much to say about American life and have said it so well."

HAPPINESS

GORDON & TRUDY SCHMIDT, resident managers of Lamplighter Chino, describe HAPPINESS as bringing together their super modern facilities and the tenants of their park in complete unity and happiness. No wish is too great a command for them in order to help their tenants. If you are, or wish to be a mobile-home dweller, please stop by for coffee and donuts at your convenience and check out our facilities. You'll be amazed at our lower rental rates.

Khrushchev's Wife

Khrushchev's first wife, we are told by John Nobel, a prisoner of 13 years in Communist prison camps, spent 8 years in the concentration camp of Potma, Russia. She was placed in prison by her own husband.

John Nobel adds that his wife was a Christian and was praying for Khrushchev. Khrushchev was touring the United States shaking hands and exchanging smiles with Americans. His own first wife, though, and thousands and thousands of Christians were tortured to death in Communist prisons.

A moving account of their courageous faith and stand for the Lord is contained in the book TORTURED FOR CHRIST, by Rev. Richard Wurmbrand, a best-seller in 27 languages.

Be interested in the plight of our persecuted brethren behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains. You can help! Mail coupon for the book, "Tortured for Christ" by Rev. Richard Wurmbrand.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

There is a new motion picture due to be released soon that is so exciting and well done it will undoubtedly bring an Academy nomination, if not another Award itself, to Ernest Borgnine. The title: EMPEROR OF THE NORTH POLE; and Borgnine's co-stars are Lee Marvin and Keith Carradine. The film is the classic story of conflict —free man versus the establishment—and Borgnine's role is that of a man more brutal and vicious than the role he played in 1953 in FROM HERE TO ETERNITY. I'm certain anyone who saw that film will remember Fatso. Ernest Borgnine became the first contemporary "character superstar" with his role of MARTY in 1955. That film gave him his Academy Award. His film credits are too numerous to list here.

Borgnine didn't begin his acting career until he was 28 years old. He spent ten years in the Navy and decided to get out, even though another ten years would have given him the necessary twenty for retirement and he would have been only 38 years old. But the war and military life had begun to bother him and he wanted out. After he had been out for several months and had not found a job that suited him, he almost decided to re-enlist. It was his mother who accidentally put him on to acting. One day when he was standing around complaining about not knowing what to do, she said casually, "Why don't you be an actor? You like making a fool of yourself in front of people."

He took her seriously and studied acting at a Hartford, Connecticut acting school for four months on the G.I. Bill, then hitchhiked to the famed Barter Theatre, Virginia's state theatre in Abingdon, which he credits with teaching him his craft between 1946 and 1950. Borgnine started at the bottom, painting flats, doing odd backstage jobs, moving into bit parts and leads until he could "carry as many as 14 shows in my head at the same time." In 1949, Brock Pemberton, who produced HARVEY on Broadway, attended Barter's production in which Borgnine played the hospital attendant. Pemberton offered Borgnine that role in the road company, but had to wait two years until this serious actor felt he was ready.

Borgnine's first professional acting job was as a detective in a radio drama. He made his film debut in a supporting role in WHISTLE AT EATON FALLS, returned to the road company of HARVEY as the hospital attendant, then went overseas to play Guilderstern in HAMLET with a troupe entertaining U.S. servicemen in Europe. Wherever he travels, Ernie is usually greeted as MARTY or McHALE. Four years' worth of McHALE'S NAVY, plus the continuous re-runs, guarantees him perpetual TV fans, particularly among the younger set.

A performer who is always working, Borgnine cheerfully discusses his career goofs. As in the motion picture WILLARD, for which he was offered either straight salary or a percentage of the profits. "I exercised my usual fine judgment," he says ruefully, "and took the salary. Who'd ever want to see a cast of rats?" The film was one of the top box-office hits of 1971.

The general consensus is that almost every star who has played Las Vegas, Reno, or Lake Tahoe has lost considerable money at the gaming tables. In some cases those fabulous $50,000 a week and up salaries have gone back entirely to the house, with additional coin following. I've lost my share in the past, so naturally I was anxious to talk to Stanley Roberts, whose new book, HOW TO WIN AT BLACKJACK, is presently available.

Roberts is president of the California-based Scientific Research Services. He says he has devised an unbeatable system to leave the blackjack table with a profit. "My book," he says, "is the inside story of just what goes on in the gambling casino. It tells you about the pit bosses, the dealers, and the shills. It also points out how to spot and avoid cheating, which is on the rise at many places. But, most of all, it tells you how you can get the casino to play your game, instead of your playing their game."

Roberts is a licensed architect, real estate broker, and city planning consultant who, with the help of a computer, figured out how to beat the blackjack tables in Las Vegas in order to build his own buildings. Now successfully engaged in three businesses, he has released his secrets for the general public's use. He has been barred from several casinos and casino owners have refused to let him play when challenged to a $3000 match game.

Whether or not it really works I can't say. I've read the book carefully and some day I'll try the system. The only time I ever beat the casino, however, was in Reno. I had been riding a bus from Pullman, Washington to Los Angeles. The bus had a fifteen-minute stop in Reno and I started playing a dime slot machine. When I ran out of dimes I jerked on the handle out of annoyance. To my astonishment the wheels started turning. I tried again and it worked again. When I won it paid off, but I didn't have to put in any dimes. I pleaded with the bus driver to give me more time but he wouldn't. As it turned out, I still pulled $23 out of the machine.

So, if you buy Stanley Roberts' book and it works, or doesn't, write to him c/o Scientific Research Service, 1541 North Laurel Avenue, #306, Los Angeles, California 90046. If you find a broken slot machine that pays off, write to me c/o this paper.

Quiz: What Gives You "Blues"? What Chases Them Away?

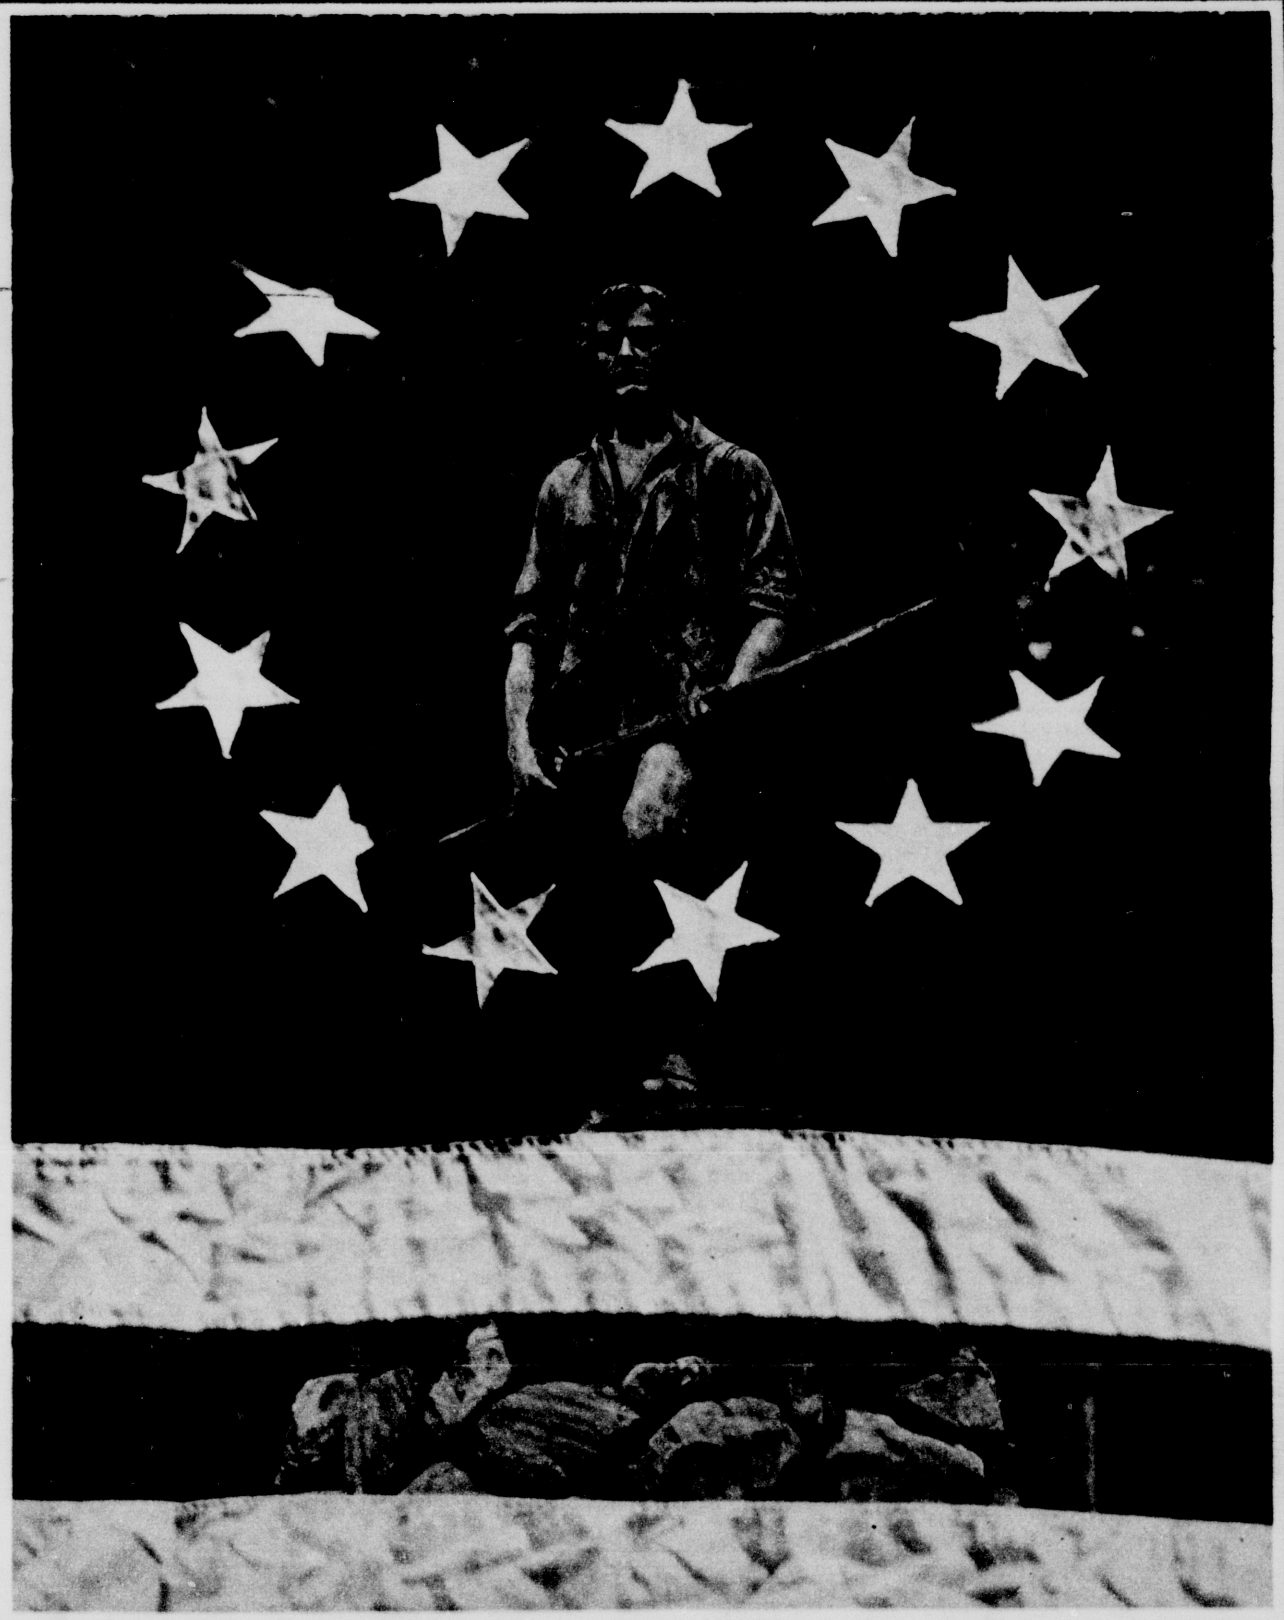
Try Frankfurters On a Skewer— Shish Kebab Style!

"Our ideals are as noble as when first written into the Declaration of Independence.... But there must be enthusiasm for these ideals. Otherwise, enthusiasm for what is bad will surely triumph over lack of enthusiasm for what is good. Without enthusiasm—without human sympathy—words are pretty dry. In all candor, have we this enthusiasm today? This utterly basic enthusiasm must come from the feelings of the people. It cannot be done by leaders. In the last analysis, it is up to each one of us to make our nation practice what it preaches and live up to its ideals."

—Henry Cabot Lodge

(who gives his blueprint for a changing America on page 6).



Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ

Why is it that your Charlie Brown TV specials never include adults?—Brian Fisk, Homer, Mich.

● The adults, such as Linus' beloved teacher Mrs. Othmar, are only seen through the eyes—and words—of the Peanuts characters. They are a lot like the inside of Snoopy's dog-house, which boasts a pool table, Van Gogh and Wyeth paintings, and a library of classics. I'm sure everyone would be a little disappointed if I attempted to draw all that. You can imagine what the adults look like much better than I can draw them.

FOR BEATRICE ARTHUR, star of "Maude"

You said in FAMILY WEEKLY that you dress in the style you prefer on "Maude" because the character is based somewhat on you. Are you really as domineering to your husband as Maude is?—Rita Bachman, West Lafayette, Ohio

● That part isn't me! Maude's domineering quality is exaggerated because people find it funny.

FOR JOEY HEATHERTON

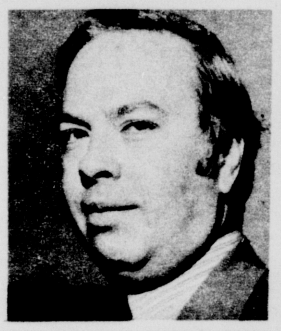
● Yes, but I didn't finish. I loathed school. The teachers were always intimidating me and putting me down. That's one of the reasons I quit after one year of college.

FOR PIERRE RINFRET, economist

The $600 personal-income-tax exemption was instituted years ago. What would the exemption have to be in 1973 dollars to equal the original $600 in buying power?—Wayne Witzke, Seaford, Del.

● The $600 personal-tax exemption was first allowed in 1948. From 1948 to 1972, consumer prices went up 74 percent. So the 1972 exemption would have had to be $1,043 to equal the purchasing power that $600 had in 1948. The 1972 personal-tax deduction of $750 leaves the average taxpayer a good deal worse off than he was in 1948.



FOR MARGARET HAMILTON, actress

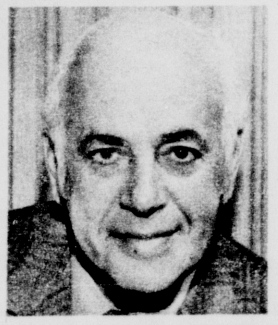
I've heard you love children. Don't you regret bringing terror to them as the Wicked Witch in "Wizard of Oz"?—B. A., Allentown, Pa.

● I deeply regret that it has terrified some children. I wish parents wouldn't let them see it until they're at least five years old. But they do get over it. A man about 35 stopped me the other day and said, "You scared me when I was a little boy." I apologized, and he said, "Don't be sorry, I loved it!"

FOR REDD FOXX, star of "Sanford and Son"

I read in the newspaper that your real name is John Elroy Sanford—a most dignified name. How in the world did you get tagged Redd Foxx?—Mary Calley, Maybrook, N.Y.

● In black society, men with light skin are often called "Red." I was nicknamed "Chicago Red." For performing purposes I added a "d"; and with the word "foxy" in mind, as well as the famous baseball player Jimmy Foxx, I decided on Redd Foxx.



FOR ALLEN FUNT

What's the most difficult kind of situation in filming "Candid Camera"?—D. Liston, Detroit, Mich.

● In our current movie, "Money Talks," we were filming a sequence in a restaurant about how silly tipping can be. The first guy we photographed was having lunch with someone he didn't want the world to know about. This happens maybe three times out of a thousand—and it's embarrassing!

You had to become steeped in the forties so you could play the roles you've played. Do you feel you would have liked living in that era?—A. S. N., Redding, Calif.

● The only things I can truthfully say that I prefer about that era are the style and class: the cars, the clothes. We seem to have gotten away from that: Quality has ceased to be the prime consideration. But I think the forties and fifties were very suppressed, and it pleases me to believe that we're living in a freer atmosphere now.

FOR JOAN CRAWFORD

When Ann-Margret made her movie debut in "Bye Bye Birdie," you were asked if she was a new star. You said, "Give her ten years, then ask me." Well, ten years are up. What's your verdict?—Robert T. Irvin, Clarksville, Tenn.

● I believe Ann-Margret has proved herself to be an extremely fine actress. Yes, she's a star. She is, as we all know, a magnificent singer and dancer. But she also has a very sensitive dramatic quality that I believe makes her an even greater performer.

IN THIS GRIND-EM-OUT WORLD, IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A QUALITY CIGARETTE?

If the cigarette is Kent there is.

Kent is probably the most quality-tested cigarette made.

We try to get rid of any taste-robbing imperfections before a Kent ever sees the light of a match. (Over 200 different quality checks in the manufacturing end, alone.)

But Kent quality goes beyond that.

We go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find the right kind of tobaccos for the milder Kent blend.

To complement this blend, we even invented our own filter, the famous Micronite filter — to smooth the flavor of Kent.

Why are we such sticklers about how Kent is made?

Because, that way we can give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

King Size or Deluxe 100's.

Your own charge account will be opened upon enrollment . . . and the selections you order as a member will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices: records, $4.98 or $5.98; cartridges and cassettes, $6.98; reel tapes, $7.98 . . . plus a processing and postage charge. (Occasional special selections may be somewhat higher.)

You may accept or reject selections as follows: every four weeks you will receive a new copy of the Club's entertaining music magazine, which describes the regular selections for each musical interest, plus hundreds of alternate selections from every field of music. (Since you'll receive 13 informative magazines a year, you'll always be up-to-date on the most current hits.)

- . . . if you do not want any selection offered, just mail the response card always provided by the date specified (you'll have at least ten days in which to make your decision)
- . . . if you want only the regular selection for your musical interest, you need do nothing — it will be shipped to you automatically (naturally, you may return the regular selection at our expense and for full credit if you did not have at least ten days in which to decide)
- . . . if you want any of the other selections offered, order them on the response card and mail it by the date specified
- . . . and about four times a year we will offer some special selections (usually at a discount off regular Club prices), which you may reject by mailing the dated form provided . . . or accept by simply doing nothing.

You'll be eligible for the Club's bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement — a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases. Act now!

By HENRY CABOT LODGE:

To Rebuild Our Faith in America: Ten

"I am convinced that the old political formula of left, right and center is largely inapplicable to important issues in this country. The urgent need is for government that is efficient, trustworthy, farsighted and free from selfish influences."

In 1976 we will celebrate our 200th anniversary as a nation. Now is a good time to look back to see how well we have carried out our stated purposes as set forth in the Declaration of Independence and the Preamble to the Constitution. When we look, we plainly see that the "inalienable rights" of "all men" have not been assured, and that the constitutional mandate to "establish justice" has not been carried out.

And yet there are pluses as well as minuses:

During the past 50 years, for example, life expectancy has increased about 50 percent, the working day has been cut one-third, and per capita output has more than doubled. The advances in medical science have made ours a healthier world. Higher education has become a possibility for millions of youths, whereas 50 years ago it was largely confined to a wealthy few. Much social legislation has been enacted. Hitler's attempts at conquest were defeated in a terrible war. And after that war, billions of dollars were spent to help our former enemies rebuild. There was the wisdom to begin the United Nations, to construct NATO, and to carry out the Marshall Plan, which saved Europe from being overwhelmed. Television, radio and aviation have revolutionized life. Our gross national product astounds us. We have gone to the moon. The list goes on and on.

Our country has thus shown itself to be strong in many ways, able to solve many problems, and tough enough to take much punishment.

One thing, however, that could be disastrous would be the condition described by W. B. Yeats, in which "the best lack all conviction while the worst are full of passionate intensity."

Why do I suggest this dismal possibility? Surely not because there is anything wrong—or even inadequate – about our ideals. They are as noble as when first written into the Declaration of Independence: that "all men are created equal" and have a right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

But there must be enthusiasm for these ideals. Otherwise, enthusiasm for what is bad will surely triumph over lack of enthusiasm for what is good. Without enthusiasm – without human sympathy – words are pretty dry. In all candor, have we this enthusiasm today?

In many ways, I fear the answer is "No." There is today a lack of trust in government and a cynical belief that government is a tool of special interests. This cynicism stems mostly from the way the system itself has developed: Measures to restore public confidence in government are urgently needed. The following are some of my suggestions to this end:

● To begin with, we should reform our system for electing the President and the Vice President so as to eliminate the very real present possibility that the candidate who gets the most popular votes might also lose the election—an event that has occurred in the past and which, were it to happen again, would further shake public confidence in our system. I believe that the best way to do this is to abolish the Electoral College and count the electoral vote in proportion to the popular vote.

● The nomination of the President and Vice President also raises many questions: Should we continue the convention system, or should we abolish it and elect our candidates via a nationwide primary? The irritation caused by occasional crudities at some conventions should not blur the fact that the convention is a device that has served us well. It provides a forum—and a well-understood procedure—for settling the major-party nominations in time for the election, so that a change in the office of chief executive (always a tricky business in any country) can take place in an orderly way. When one man has an overwhelming lead for the nomination—as Franklin D. Roosevelt did in 1936—the convention is the place where this fact can be registered and acted on. When there is a contest – as between Eisenhower and Taft in 1952, for example – the convention provides the place for settling the contest. When there is a deadlock, the convention becomes a true "college," where the party's leading men can meet, talk and evolve a compromise.

● Closely connected with the election of the President is the election of U.S. senators and members of the House of Representatives. Should we, as has been suggested, increase the terms of members of the House from two to four years—the same as the President's term? If so, should we limit the number of terms a member could serve, say, to two terms—that is, to eight years—thus ending a member's service in the House and, of course, ending his seniority? Would this change not bring government closer to the people? And should similar changes be considered for the tenure of senators?

● These questions are all closely interrelated. Each one has its complications and each one is fundamental. They have brought me to the conclusion that there is a pressing need for hearings to be held by appropriate congressional committees soon. The purpose of these hearings should be to inform and alert public opinion to alternate methods of choosing Presidents, Vice Presidents, senators and representatives. The hearings should be as public, as dramatic and as interesting as possible. The list of witnesses should include political scientists, campaign managers and officeholders. Such hearings, if conducted with imagination, would have a stimulating effect on public opinion. Without public support, attempts to solve problems as fundamental as these will surely fail.

● There should be periodic surveys of the Federal Government for the promotion of economy and efficiency—to get the snarls out of the machinery—similar to the work of the two Hoover Commissions.

● An eye should also be kept on the quality of coordination existing between Federal agencies: between the White House, the State Department, the Defense Department, the CIA and the Disarmament Agency, so that, for example, while State is on the verge of reaching an international settlement, Defense, without this knowledge, will not undertake some new military operation.

● The President should also be authorized to veto specific items in appropriation bills. This authority exists in virtually every modern government. In the U.S., however, the President must either veto the whole appropriation bill, if there is only one feature that is clearly objectionable, or he must let the objectionable portion also become law.

● The Constitution should be amended so that appointments made by the President in the Executive Branch would stand unless rejected by a two-thirds vote. This would give the President power and responsibility, while still retaining enough congressional check.

● The major costs of campaigning for President should be paid for by the Government, so that public officials will not be under obligation to private persons. This, more than anything else, is what gives rise to the allegations that government is the tool of special interests.

● We must put the nation on the road to abolishing poverty—and not just depend on something trickling down from the economic activity at the top of the heap. Enactment of some form of guaranteed income would benefit the whole community because it would make society as a whole more contented and thus more stable. The goal would be for the employables to have work, for the unemployables to be treated decently, and for all to have proper housing and medical care—without bankrupting the rest of us.

I am convinced that the old political formula of left, right and center is largely inapplicable to important issues in this country. The urgent need is for government that is efficient, trustworthy, farsighted and free from selfish influences. Without such government, no policy—whatever its ideological hue—can succeed.

If, prizing our ideals, we move with feeling, we will find the strength of mind and will to make the needed governmental changes, to decide what our priorities should be and to unify the country once again. Then we will find that, invigorated, our ideals have an unlimited potential with which we can, God willing, solve our problems.

This utterly basic enthusiasm must come from the feelings of the people. It cannot be done by leaders. "We the people," to use the phrase in the Preamble to the Constitution, are crucial. In the last analysis, it is up to each one of us to make our nation practice what it preaches and live up to its ideals.

Mr. Lodge Recalls His Childhood

My father died when I was seven. I remember him as a big, handsome man with white teeth, blue eyes, thick light-brown hair, and a deep tan. He would draw me pictures of men on stiff filing cards, making the heads out of red and blue sealing wax. He would take me to Rock Creek Park in Washington and make little sailboats out of scraps of wood, equip them with paper sails, and launch them into the creek.

His great interest in life was writing poetry, but he also worked in my grandfather's office in the Senate. At first we lived in a beautiful old house with a big garden at 1925 F Street, which is now the "1925 F Street Club." My parents then built a house on Massachusetts Avenue, near Sheridan Circle, backing on Rock Creek Park.

Washington in those days was a sleepy Southern town. The streets were quiet. The street cars on their rails made little noise and the sound of their bells was pleasant. The clip-clop of the horse-drawn taxis (known as herdics) and the almost inaudible hum of the "electrics"—the automobiles moved by storage batteries in which ladies traveled about the town—would never even drown a whisper. Gasoline autos were infrequent, and the air under all the leafy archways lining the streets was clean. There were many large private houses, mostly of red-brick Federalist style, with white columns and trim. But there was also plenty of room, many vacant lots and parks—and many fewer people.

As a child I was surrounded by some remarkable people, to whom the statement of the French philosopher Montaigne applied: "It is an absolute perfection, and as it were divine, to know how, in all sincerity, to get the very most out of one's own individuality." The adults in my childhood certainly knew how to do that. Of how many can that be said today in our compressed and bureaucratic society? Has work on the production line or in great offices had a standardizing effect on human beings? Is the shrinkage of individualism the result of putting 14 million men through the military services in World War II or of putting millions through colleges? Or was it simply because my parents knew remarkable people, who were, in Archibald MacLeish's words, the "untouched, uncoached, undoctored, untinted human self, the self itself, the man, the woman"?

Cranberry-Raspberry Punch
Arizona Kabobs*
Mustard
Southwest Grits Casserole*
Mixed Green Salad
Rolls Butter or Margarine
Beer Coffee Milk
Red, White & Blue Dessert Mold

*Recipe given

ARIZONA KABOBS

- 1 can (13½ ozs.) pineapple chunks, undrained
- ¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons prepared mustard
- 1 lb. skinless frankfurters, quartered
- 1 large green pepper, cut in 1 inch squares
- 1 can (1 lb.) whole onions, drained
- 1 pt. cherry tomatoes

1. Drain pineapple, reserving liquid. Combine pineapple liquid, brown sugar and mustard in small saucepan. Bring to boiling, beating with wire whisk. Boil uncovered 5 minutes.

2. Thread frankfurter pieces on skewers alternately with pineapple chunks, green pepper, onions and cherry tomatoes. Brush kabobs with sauce.

3. Grill over hot coals 5-10 minutes, turning and basting often. Slide kabobs onto plates to serve.

Makes 6-8 servings

Note: If desired, fresh or canned mushroom caps, apple wedges, orange sections or parboiled zucchini, cut in 1 inch pieces, can be substituted for the above vegetables.

SOUTHWEST GRITS CASSEROLE

- 5 cups cooked grits
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- 4 cups sour cream
- 3 cans (3½-oz. size) peeled mild Jalapeño peppers, drained and chopped
- 1 lb. Monterrey Jack or mozzarella cheese, cut in thin strips
- ¾ cup grated Cheddar cheese

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease a 3-qt. casserole.

2. Season grits with salt and pepper. Blend sour cream with Jalapeño peppers.

3. In prepared casserole layer the grits, sour cream-peppers mixture and Jack cheese. Repeat layers, finishing with grits on top.

4. Bake for 35-45 minutes, until bubbly throughout. Just before serving, sprinkle with grated Cheddar cheese and broil 4-6 inches from source of heat, until cheese melts.

Makes 8-10 servings

*To prepare 5 cups cooked grits: Bring 5 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt to boiling in medium saucepan. Slowly add 4¼ cups quick-cooking grits. Return to boiling; reduce heat. Cook 3-5 minutes, uncovered, stirring occasionally.

Now, medical science has the power to say to you:

BEGIN YOUR "MIDDLE YEARS" AT 70, 80, EVEN 90!

retain the strength and grace and power of a trained athlete in your body beyond your seventies . . .

and keep you in vibrant good health till ninety or more . . . even if you feel "rotten" today . . . even if your mother or father died far too young of diseases that are STILL carried in your bloodstream!

Yes, This Medical "Youth-Building Program" is so Strong That It Can Even Overcome Poor Heredity!

It is so strong, in fact, that it may actually make you look twenty or more years younger than your parents did at the same age . . . at the same exact time that it enables you to live thirty or forty years longer than they did!

We realize, of course, that these facts may seem virtually impossible to you at this moment . . . until you are shown the new medical techniques by which these goals are attained! They are:

1. The most powerful "age-reversing mechanism" known to man . . . which takes exactly six minutes per day . . . may be done by any man or woman, no matter how poor their health today . . . and which is bluntly recognized by one of the leading physicians in this book to give far better "youthifying" results — far faster — than even "cell therapy" treatments costing hundreds of dollars apiece!

2. A direct attack on the stored-up emotional poisons in your body that eat away strength and youth like internal acid, and replace them with never-flagging fatigue! This incredibly simple technique drains out those poisons, and that deadly fatigue, in approximately ten of the most revivifying minutes you have ever spent!

And, finally —

3. A new way to lose weight — not a diet — designed to change your present suicidal eating habits in exactly 48 hours! And, to break at last the vicious fat-multiplying cycle inside your body, that causes you to put on more weight, from less food, than your thin friends.

Let Us Repeat Again: These Medical Techniques Are So Powerful That They Actually REVERSE THE AGING PROCESS — WITHOUT DRUGS!

They cause you, quite simply, to grow stronger and not weaker, as you grow older! And here is the medical documentation to prove it:

In tests conducted at a leading University and Medical School in Southern California, it was discovered that life-prolongation, accomplished this way, not only added decades to potential human life spans, but — even more important — also produced vastly increased vitality and vigor, as well as startlingly heightened resistance to dread "senile decline!" (Reported on page 129 of this thrilling new book.)

As a result of scientific observations and experiments conducted in several different locations in the United States (as well as in Europe and Soviet Russia), it was definitely established that these techniques will enable almost any individual to live beyond 90 . . . and even beyond 100 healthy, productive, thoroughly enjoyable years — even if he or she had tragically short-lived parents or grandparents! In other words, disastrous heredity can now be overcome! (See page 36.)

At a leading Gerontology Research Center on the Pacific Coast, its' president bluntly stated that a single one of the techniques given to you here had (in essence): ". . . reversed the aging process and over a period of time restored the characteristics of youth to the bodies of middle-aged men!" (See Page 129.)

And one of his colleagues, discussing the same simple procedure, went so far as to state that it: ". . . relieves joint stiffness, lowers the blood pressure, and reduces the amount of fat in the body tissues. It acts like a miracle drug, and it's free for the doing!" (Italics ours — see page 130.)

But All This Research Documentation Is Only The PROLOGUE To The Real Meat Of This Revolutionary New Book! FOR NOW THE YOUTH-RESTORING PRINCIPLES LEARNED ALL OVER THE WORLD ARE PUT TO WORK — INSTANTLY — FOR YOU!

How to lose weight without counting calories — by harnessing the same exact forces which made you overweight in the first place! (It is not unusual, with these methods, to lose 15 and more pounds the first week — up to 10 pounds the second week — and a good hundred pounds or more, in as little as 15 weeks. And the weight stays off — for decades!)

How to add 10 . . . 20 . . . perhaps even 30 glowing years to your life, simply by avoiding the everyday "Life-Traps" that make you grow old too fast!

How a careful examination of your eye can tell you, with unerring accuracy, if you've eaten the wrong foods that night for dinner . . . and therefore have to give them up for a few days till your body's digestive powers restore themselves to the correct balance!

When you must eat . . . and eat . . . and eat if you really want to lose weight!

"Hungry enzymes" that now infest your body! They are the real reason all past attempts to peel off ugly fat have been such torture for you! And you can "command" your body to destroy them — for good — as simply as this! (See page 82.)

Why most people's muscles simply "melt away" as they grow older! (No wonder "old age" to them means ever-growing weakness!) And how you can stop that muscle-melting process overnight . . . and replace it with vibrant new strength!

And More! And More! And More! Like This —

What really causes vigor to drain out of the "aging" body! A simple fluid that if the body gives up too much of, it then dies of old age! And how you can "pump that vital cell-nourishing fluid" right back into your body . . . actually increase your body capacity to utilize by as much as 133% . . . in just a few thrilling minutes every day!

How to exercise your heart! Anyone — no matter what age— can do it! And prevent the greatest tragedy of all — premature heart attack!

Read the line in the middle of page 144 as though your life depended upon it! Because, if you've ever worried about killing your own heart through the worst possible error you can make — this one line will show you how to avoid it . . . forever!

World's easiest exercise program — for men and women who are pitifully out of shape!

How to avoid the man-made diseases! And save your body, and your nerves, at exactly the same time!

What your sleep, or lack of it, is really telling you! And how to ease yourself into a good night's rest again!

What your fingers tell you that can save your life! Listen to them . . . obey their command . . . and you may be able to out-run your own youngster!

World's most effective weapon against demolished nerves! Gets you back to loving life, instead of hating it, in just about ten blessed minutes!

No more nervous breakdowns! And no more un-necessary heart attacks (or strokes!) The technique shown to you on page 197 may banish them from your life — for good!

How to add ten years to your life, by avoiding one little fatal mistake — at night! Before you go to sleep!

How to laugh at old age — at least till you're ninety! A simple program so effective that it may actually cause strangers to think that you are your best friends' grown children!

And Yours To Prove — In Its Entirety — For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

The choice is yours. This is a book for people who mean business. It costs you nothing! We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon — TODAY!

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS SECTION

How to survive a heart attack! Why so many heart attacks are the "silent" type, that kill without the victim even being aware he has been seriously ill before! The one warning signal you simply CAN'T ignore! Why HALF of all heart attack victims ACTUALLY KILL THEMSELVES because they just don't know what to do!

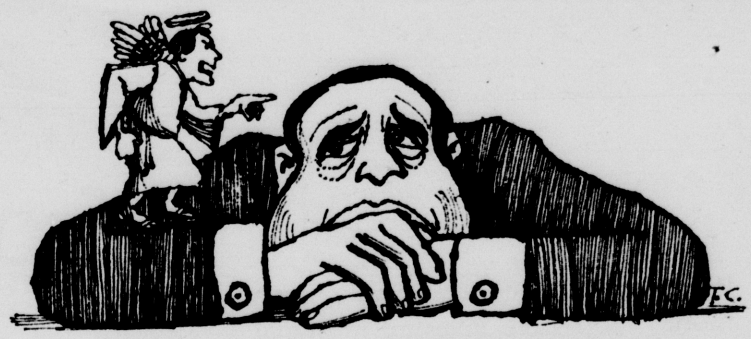
What Makes You Feel Blue— And What Can You Do About It?



By John E. Gibson

True or False:
If you've got the blues and wonder why, an overactive conscience may be the villain.
(See number 7)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It is easy to tell the difference between the ordinary, garden-variety case of the "blues" that everyone is subject to now and then and the deeper, more serious and harder to shake form of depression.

2. When you've got the blues you should avoid excitement —it's likely to produce inner conflicts that will make you feel worse.

3. Feeling down can make your blood pressure go up.

4. Even tiny babies get the blues.

5. Depression-prone people differ personality-wise from those who seldom feel down-in-the-dumps.

6. The frustration and disappointment that cause the bluest kind of blues result from outside circumstances that you cannot control.

7. If you've got the blues and wonder why, an overactive conscience could be the villain.

ANSWERS

1. True. Studies sponsored by the National Institutes of Health show that in most cases, the common garden-variety form of depression tends to have purely psychological symptoms, while more serious forms are likely to be characterized by physical symptoms as well – such as sleeplessness, loss of appetite, weight loss, lack of interest in the opposite sex, etc.

2. False – according to findings of a university study, which show that depressed persons are benefited by getting more excitement into their lives. It is recommended that depression-prone people "facilitate an increasing experience of social excitement" by developing excitement-relevant skills. Examples would be skiing, mountain climbing, or various games and activities of the more exciting, action-packed variety.

3. True—particularly if "low" periods occur often and are accompanied by feelings of concern and apprehension. The findings of British medical research show that "repeated spells of depression, when characterized by anxiety and agitation, lead to a sustained rise in blood pressure."

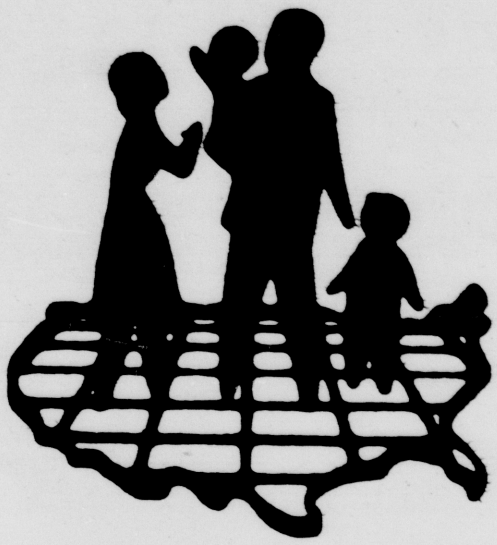
4. True. Tiny infants are subject to depression just as adults are. As Dr. Adam J. Krakowski, president of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine, points out in summing up his findings: "The symptoms of depression in early infancy consist of failure to thrive, crying, sleep disturbances, head banging and colic. Loss of appetite and weight are also pronounced." He also notes that continuous crying without any organic cause should always be suspect, as it may be caused by anxiety or depression.

5. True. A psychological study of depression-prone and non-depression-prone people has shown that those in the more - subject - to - the - blues category tended to differ from the others in that they had less self-esteem, less self-confidence, were more given to anxious self-doubt, more inclined to suppress feelings of aggressiveness and assertiveness. They were also inclined toward greater "dependence on other people's good opinion of themselves, and correspondingly more sensitive to criticism or rejection by others."

6. False. Studies show that people feel most depressed when there is nobody but themselves to blame for a lamentable situation – when, as one psychologist observes, "the self must bear the responsibility for the frustration generated." (It's a lot less hard on the ego, a lot less damaging to the self-esteem, when we can find somebody else or some outside condition to hang the blame on.)

7. True. Studies show that in many cases depression is triggered by an overactive conscience that disapproves of some of our acts and/or attitudes. It may even be disapproving of deeds or thoughts that we've consciously forgotten. As one leading authority has observed, depression is often the result of "an extreme form of self-punishing behavior."

How to collect from Social Security at any age!



by Jack Haslinger

Would you like to know how much money you have invested in Social Security right to the penny? Then would you like to know how to get the most from that investment including all the brand new Social Security benefits? Now you can do both by using the short easy coupon at the bottom of this page. Here is the way it works. The left half of the coupon will be sent to the proper government office. They will run a check on your account and then send you a report in a confidential sealed envelope. This report will tell you how much of your earnings have been recorded in your Social Security account year by year. There is no charge for this service, not even postage.

The right half of the coupon will be used as a shipping label to send you a copy of a new book entitled, "How to collect from Social Security at any age." If you think that you have to wait until retirement age to start collecting your Social Security benefits, this book will really open your eyes. Here are some of the little-known facts about Social Security you will find out about in this book:

- How to increase the amount of your payment if you are already on Social Security.
- How to collect your share of the brand new Social Security benefits just passed by Congress.
- How to qualify for Social Security disability pensions at any age.
- How to increase your Social Security benefits.
- How to get Social Security benefits when you are pregnant.
- How to make your whole family eligible for Social Security benefits, even your youngest children.
- How to replace a lost Social Security card.
- How to replace a lost Social Security check.
- How to get a refund if you have overpaid your Social Security taxes. (Studies show that two out of three people overpay.)
- How to shop at different Social Security offices in order to get the best deal.
- Should you tatoo your Social Security number on your body?
- What papers do you need in order to file a Social Security claim?
- How ten million people who are only 30 years old, on the average, collect Social Security.
- Should you get a divorce in order to get more Social Security? (a lot of people already have.)
- Should you have two Social Security cards?
- How to get a huge lump sum Social Security payoff.
- How to make sure your employer is not cheating you on your Social Security.
- How you may be cheating yourself out of your Social Security benefits.
- When are the five times you should get in touch with your Social Security office?
- How to work and still get Social Security benefits.
- How to cash in on Social Security even if you've never paid a penny into it.
- How to get hospital and medical insurance for the aged.
- How students between the ages of 18 and 22 can get Social Security cash benefits.
- How to get the special Social Security benefits that are only for veterans.

Although this book can mean hundreds and perhaps thousands of dollars to you, it is priced at only $3.00. Remember, it is not enough to qualify for your Social Security benefits. To get your benefits you must know how to apply for them. The book tells you how to qualify, who to contact—including all necessary addresses, and what to say. This is a 100% no risk offer. If you do not like the book, return it and your $3.00 will be immediately refunded. You will still get the confidential report on your Social Security account.

If you do not take advantage of your new Social Security benefits, you are only cheating yourself, after all, you have already paid for them. It is easy to start getting your new Social Security benefits. Just fill out both parts of the coupon below. Mail the coupon and $3.00 in cash, check or money order to The Good News Publishing Co., 1818 Whipple Ave. N.W., Canton, Ohio, 44708. The book will be sent to you immediately by return mail. Your confidential Social Security report will be mailed to you separately as soon as the government has finished checking on your account. Checks and money orders should be made payable to The Good News Publishing Company.

Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Mae West:

"I Am Not Just a Star– I Am a Writer.... And a Thinker!"

"Age means nothing," says Miss West. "It depends on how a woman looks, how she feels."

FAMILY WEEKLY: What is your secret for staying so young?

MAE: I never had a face-lift, I never had anything surgical done to me. I just don't age. Of course, I don't drink and I don't smoke, and that may help. But I am sure those are not the only reasons. I eat only foods that are good for my system, and I exercise a lot. But even that's not the only reason. I am not just a star–I am a writer as well. And a thinker! I always keep busy. But that's not the only reason either. Maybe a little bit of everything.

FW: Do you think a woman should tell her age?

MAE: Age means nothing. It depends upon how a woman looks, how she feels. Everybody knows my age. [Editor's note: According to Information Please Almanac, Mae West was born on August 17, 1892.] Some people think I am 25 or 26. Some people think I am even younger than that. What do you think?

FW: I think you're an extremely good-looking woman for your age. I can't help noticing that everything, including your wardrobe, is all white. Why is that?

MAE: I never feel dressed unless I wear white. But if you look around [the Venetian blinds of her Hollywood apartment were half-shut, so it wasn't that light in the room], you'll see that not everything is stark white, but sort of pale, blended colors. White with gold. Off-white.

MAE: I think they are both beautiful–in different ways. A man should be masculine, a woman should be feminine. I don't like men who look effeminate. I've always had a beautiful figure. See that sculpture over there? [She pointed to a white nude statue on the piano.] That's me. [Then she pointed to a picture behind me of a nude woman lying on a bed.] That's me too. It was painted without my knowing it.

FW: How did the artist do that?

MAE: Can't you see my head is turned away?

FW: I noticed at the dinner party the other day that you had a bodyguard with you. Why do you have a bodyguard?

MAE: Whenever I go out, there are so many people around that I can't move. So I don't go out any more. I exercise on my ranch, or at the beach. I also have a walking machine in my apartment. I never go any place without a bodyguard, not even down the corridor to the elevator, because there are always so many people who want autographs. Also, these days it is not too safe to be on the streets.

FW: Do you have any women friends?

MAE: I like women, but I really have no time to be pally. You see, I work too much, and mostly with men.

FW: Stories have it that when you worked with W. C. Fields in "My Little Chickadee," you didn't get along too well together. Is that true?

MAE: Well, I had heard that he drank a lot, and I had a clause put in my contract that if he drank, he'd be hustled off the set. I didn't want him off the picture, I just didn't want to be around him if he got drunk. And one day it happened. I had him taken off the set. After that, he didn't drink any more while we were working together.

FW: Was that the only point of contention?

MAE: I wrote "Little Chickadee," and I wrote a terrific part for him. A friend told him this was the best picture he'd ever had, so he got a little envious and asked if he could insert a few lines of his own. I said okay. So he put in a three-minute scene, and then held up the company for more money for having written it–and wanted co-billing with me!

"Some people think I am 25 or 26. Some people think I am even younger than that. What do you think?"

FW: Did he get it?

MAE: There was no choice but to give it to him. My scenes with him had been completed, but there were a lot of scenes still to be done, and he made it impossible for the company to shoot. He drank again. He had many ways of holding up production. Finally he got the money and the writing credit with me. And, as a result of it, he never made another picture for Universal.

FW: Or with you?

MAE: One was enough!

MAE: Raquel is okay, although she was a bit envious of what I wore. When I wore a black gown, she wanted to wear black. One day, at the last moment, I put on a white dress with black, and there wasn't enough time for her to run off and change into something white as well.

FW: Who do you think is the sexiest actor today?

MAE: Elvis Presley.

FW: If you had a second choice?

MAE: Tom Jones – when he sings. Chevalier had it too, in a high-class sort of way.

FW: In World War II, fliers' life jackets were called Mae Wests. How did that name originate?

MAE: When I first came to Paramount, the studio was on the rocks. They were ready to sell the studio and turn their 1,700 theaters into offices. But I came with a big public of my own. People had paid more to see me in the theater than any other star. And when I made my first two pictures for Paramount, "She Done Me Wrong" and "I'm No Angel," they saved the studio. So the people in the industry called me the "lifesaver." That's how the jackets got their names. [There are those who would argue with this explanation–but let that pass.]

FW: Will you do any more pictures?

MAE: People always talk about it, and they always send me stories, but I don't like any of them. I'd like to make another picture, because I'm interested in keeping my fans and making more fans. That's why I recently recorded a new album for MGM.

FW: How does it feel to be a living legend?

MAE: I don't feel any different. I've been on stage since I was eight. It has been my entire life. I've never known myself to feel any way but the way I do now.

ACUPUNCTURE BIRTH ON TV
Modern mother, ancient method

The birth of a baby: While the old Chinese method of acupuncture eased her pain, Danish TV journalist Hanne Risgaard had her baby as cameras filmed the event for later telecast in Denmark. Did all go well? Yes indeed. A healthy little girl was born, the cameramen got their films, and Hanne, 29, was spared much pain but was left alert enough to "help" the doctors. The acupuncture needles were wielded by Dr. Stefan Kosic, especially flown in from Stockholm by Hanne's husband, photographer Dieter Betz.

PROFESSOR AND THE ANGEL
Finding the right face

How would you like the problem of finding an angel? Italian professor Fiorello Tosoni found himself in that spot. He needed a model for a life-size figure he was to paint in a church fresco. He was sitting in an English hotel lounge pondering his problem when in walked 22-year-old Helena Wynne, definitely an angelface. Did she take him seriously when he introduced himself, explained his mission, and told her that her face "had the glow of a real angel, an inner purity of being"? Well, Helena's just returned to Britain after modeling in Prato, Italy, for the angel's head, and will return shortly to model the full figure. So you see, the solution was devilishly simple.

QUOTE: Janet Leigh remembers with some misgivings what she now feels was the biggest mistake of her life, although at the time she didn't think so. "In the early 1960's, I made quite a number of trips to South America for the State Department's People to People Program. As a result, when Carl Rowan gave up his ambassadorship to Finland, President Johnson offered it to me. I was very tempted to take it. My daughters were young enough to be taken out of school and put in a school there. It would have been a fascinating job, and once you are an ambassador, you're called ambassador for the rest of your life. But I'd been married to Bob Brandt, who's a stockbroker, for only a couple of years, and he would have found it difficult to operate his business from Finland. Also, my being an ambassador would have made him—what? I didn't think it was fair to him or our marriage. Now that I look back, I feel it was the kind of opportunity that happens only once in a lifetime, and I wish I had accepted it." UNQUOTE.

GLASSY STARE

I wear my glasses more now
Than in my early years,
And this is not entirely
A cause for anxious tears.

Time was when ten times daily
My glasses I'd misplace,
But now I'm spared the trouble:
They're always on my face.

JULIET LOWELL'S CELEBRITY LETTERS

Juliet Lowell, author of the all-time best-seller "Dear Sir," collects unintentionally humorous letters to and from people in all walks of life.

Dear Dr. Helpern:

I read about your wonderful work at the time of the Coppolino Trial, so I'm sending you my Husband's suit, the one he wears to his office. I told him that I was sending it to the cleaner, so he wouldn't miss it. The reason is that my Husband has a new secretary and he has been coming home late from work all this past week. Could you please check the suit for women's fingerprints and lipstick?

Worried Wife

The handsome young man dining alone in a restaurant fancied himself quite a lady-killer. He flirted with the waitress throughout the meal, but she remained unimpressed. "Yes," she said, handing him the check. " 'Keep the change.' "

AN EXPERT ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT MUSCLES

Our files show that thousands of readers like yourself want to build bulging muscles and achieve real physical power like their favorite athletic champions. How to go about it? We decided to ask an expert, Dave Prowse, 3-times British Weightlifting champion and leading fitness expert. Here are his answers.

Q. What does it take to build muscles?

A. Basically, it takes exercise. Almost any exercise will help to develop at least some of your muscles if you keep at it long enough and hard enough.

Q. Isn't there an easier way?

A. Yes. There is one outstandingly effective training method that is also fast and easy—the one I use and recommend—the new Bullworker system.

Q. What's that?

A. The Bullworker is a revolutionary new muscle-building exerciser based on Isometrics, the science that increases strength up to four times faster than conventional methods. In my opinion, it's the most advanced training system in the world today. Many leading athletes use it: World-famous Heavyweight Boxer Muhammad Ali, World Heavyweight Judo Champion Wim Ruska, and Cycling Champion Eddy Merckx, to name only a few.

Q. How long does Bullworker training take?

A. Bullworker provides absolutely the fastest kind of exercise possible. In fact, an introduction training program takes only 70 seconds a day. No other system—weightlifting, pulleys, or strenuous calisthenics—can give you results so quickly and easily. On the contrary, many old-fashioned methods take hours of sweaty, boring work each day... and it's often months before you begin to see improvements. Busy professional athletes and champions don't have time for that. Nobody does.

Q. How long does it take before you begin getting results?

Dave Prowse, 3-time British Weightlifting champion, demonstrates a super-effective 7-second exercise for building powerful biceps... using the new Bullworker with built-in powermeter.

A. With the Bullworker, you can actually begin to see and measure the positive results right from the very first day! Thanks to a built-in measuring device called the Powermeter. After every exercise you just check the reading to see exactly how much your strength has increased from the day before. There's no guesswork involved. Isometric Bullworker training can increase your power at the amazing rate of up to 4% per week! That means a 50% increase in strength in the first three months alone. And I've known many young men who have gone on to double and even triple their strength.

Q. What do those figures mean in visual terms?

A. They mean that in as little as 14 days you can actually begin to see muscle growth in a mirror and verify it with a tape measure. Every week thereafter brings ever faster growth.

Q. But to get such impressive results, don't you have to work very hard?

A. Absolutely not. That's the outstanding advantage of Isometric training... it's so amazingly easy! Each "Static-power" Isometric exercise takes only 7 seconds, and you barely have to move. It's not even necessary to disrobe. The Bullworker is so light and compact, it can be used at home, in the office, anywhere... even while watching TV! It's a great improvement over bulky, expensive weights, bicycle machines, pulleys, etc.

Q. Can Bullworker training even develop bodies which are weak and skinny, or fat and flabby?

A. Definitely! It's been proven by thousands of men of every shape, size and age all over the world. Bullworker training helps transform weak, thin arms into rippling, muscular pillars of strength, build broad, powerful shoulders, turn flat, shallow chests into deep, manly ones, forge loose stomach flab into steel-hard, well-defined muscle... build that "V" shape of a real athlete, develop sturdy, contoured thighs and calves.... And all this in record time!

What's more, I've known skinny, shy fellows who, after just a few short weeks with Bullworker, turned into real go-getters... every inch a man... bowling girls over with their dynamism, confidence, and new found power! You really have to see the remarkable effects of Bullworker for yourself to believe them!

Q. "How can I find out . . ." more about the Bullworker, perhaps actually try it?

A. I understand that the Bullworker distributor in the USA is now making it available—free—on a two week home-trial basis in order to introduce it to the general public. If your readers are interested in developing their bodies, in building muscles and strength faster than ever before possible, I suggest that they contact the US distributor for full details.

Survey shows fuel shortages easing in most areas of U.S.

By United Press International

There are increasing signs this week that the gasoline shortage is easing in the United States.

Production of gasoline is up. The increase in consumption this year is not as great as had been forecast.

Some stations are staying open longer hours for the first time in weeks. Allotments to stations have been increased by some suppliers.

But a UPI survey of conditions around the country also showed that supplies still are short in some areas— particularly the Northwest. In Ohio, officials are talking about the possibility of government-imposed rationing.

On the optimistic side, there have been these developments:

—The Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) said it had expected demand to be 6 or 7 per cent higher this year than last. As of late June, the demand was running around 5 per cent higher.

—The National Petroleum Refiners Association (NPRA) said American refineries have raised their production to 94 per cent of capacity and have announced plans to expand their capacity by some 2 million barrels a day within three years' time.

—Arco, Texaco, Gulf, Exxon and Shell have announced they can make more gasoline available to dealers this summer than originally had been expected. Arco had planned to hold its dealers to 96 per cent of the gasoline they received last year. Now its Eastern dealers will get 104 per cent.

—The Georgia Motor Club surveyed stations and found some have increased hours of operation for the first time in weeks. In Texas, an American Automobile Association (AAA) survey determined "the gasoline crunch has taken a turn for the better." The survey showed only half the stations that had held customers to a purchase limit were still limiting sales this week. Thirty-three per cent were limiting their hours, compared to 40 per cent the previous week.

—A Texaco station on the outskirts of Washington, D.C., put up a sign a souple of weeks ago saying, "Sorry, Gas Shortage, Now Closing Sunday." The sign came down during the past week. A new AAA survey said 58 per cent of stations in the Washington area were closing Sundays, compared to 77 per cent two weeks ago.

However, continued problems were reported in the Pacific Northwest. Oregon State Police said many motorists got stranded for the night during the past weekend when they ran out of gas short of the only major station open between Portland and Albany.

Washington State had a similar situation between Olympia and Vancouver. Part of the problem in Washington was traced to a "gas war" last year. Brand name stations asked for shorter supplies in 1972 because of bargains offered by independents. This year, many of the independents were out of business, and the big oil company stations were getting only 90 per cent of last year's shortened supplies, far short of demand.

In Ohio, Sen. William Saxbe said he believed widespread rationing was probably on tap next year.

The federal agencies closest to that situation say it is not so. A ration ticket was printed up as a sample in a contingency plan the now-defunct Office of Emergency Preparedness had circulated recently, an official said, but supplies of rationing tickets have not been printed.

CANCER FATAL

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Betty Grable, the blonde whose legs made her the favorite pinup girl of GIs in World War II, died Monday. She was 56.

St. John's hospital said she died Monday evening of lung cancer. She had been hospitalized since April.

Miss Grable, the queen of lavish technicolor movies and the highest paid woman in the United States in the late 1940s was for years voted among the top 10 stars in box office appeal.

Walnut cyclist dies of injuries

POMONA — A Walnut youth, injured last Wednesday when his motorcycle collided with a truck, died Monday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Darryl Gene Young, 18, of 20305 Temple Ave., had been admitted to the hospital's intensive care unit with head and leg injuries. His condition was termed critical.

Young was going north on Brea Canyon Road when his cycle collided with a truck which was crossing north on Cold Springs Road, highway patrolmen said.

Guidelines adopted

Peace aura pervades Helsinki conference

HELSINKI (UPI)—Thirty-five nations of East and West opened the European Security Conference today and immediately endorsed a series of guidelines aimed at turning the dying cold war into an era of lasting peace.

It was the largest post-war European conference and possibly the biggest since the 1815 Congress of Vienna, when almost every European nation met in the Austrian capital to repair the ravages of the Napoleonic era.

The guidelines—on trade, on hedges against surprise attack and on more "human contacts" between East and West—had been worked out in seven months of laborious preparatory talks here.

But it took the 35 foreign ministers barely 10 seconds to approve the guidelines, which will go now to committees of experts for refining into concrete proposals to be adopted later.

The approval caught most delegates by surprise. Finnish Foreign Minister Ahti Karjalainen, presiding over the 32-minute opening session of the conference, asked if there were any objections to the guidelines. There were none, and Karjalainen pronounced them approved.

The guidelines include an exchange of observers at military maneuvers, a better deal for Western business and newsmen in Eastern Europe, broader exchanges of information, easier East-West marriages—even guarantees of sovereignty that the West interprets as a renunciation of the "Brezhnev Doctrine", which Russia used to justify its invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Lawman rescues five young hostages, disarms convicts

NEW WASHINGTON, Ohio (UPI) — A state police captain Monday smuggled five children out of their home through an upstairs window and then went back in to disarm a heavily armed pair of prison escapers who had held them and their mother hostage.

Ann Neidermier's husband had left for work, and she was at home alone with the children when the escaped prisoners burst in, looking for a place to hide and rest.

A neighbor saw the pair and telephoned police. Ohio Highway Patrol Capt. John J. Fullenkamp brought 20 officers and surrounded the house, but he hesitated to attack for fear of the safety of the family.

Fullenkamp said the gunmen had placed the five children in one upstairs bedroom and held the woman in another upstairs room.

"A TV tower was next to the bedroom, so I decided to go up it to get the children out," he said. The tower was 25 feet tall.

"I told the oldest boy to caution his little brothers and sisters not to yell out. They didn't say a word. They were real heroes. I took them down the tower without the two gunmen knowing about it."

Then Fullenkamp, still undetected by the gunmen, decided the only way to get Mrs. Neidermier out was to rush the gunmen—but alone, so he could sneak in and ambush them.

"I climbed through another window, into a hallway and saw one of them with a rifle," said Fullenkamp, who was armed with a shotgun. "I jumped him and knocked the rifle out of his hands and he pulled a pistol.

"I got it away from him and overpowered him. By this time more officers were coming in the house and the other guy gave up.

"Every day of my 25 years with the patrol has been interesting. This was just something I had to do today," said Fullenkamp, 46, the father of nine children.

Police identified the escaped prisoners as Richard Osborn, 29, of Newark, Ohio, and Robert Herschberger, 31, of Akron, Ohio, who walked away frim the prison dairy farm in Marion, Ohio. Officers said they broke into a house near Marion and stole half a dozen weapons, including rifles, pistols and shotguns.

The two then stole a car and led police on a chase into this Crawford County community of 1,251. In the pursuit, Deputy William Bender, 48, was killed when his squad car struck a truck west of Marion.

The convicts abandoned their stolen car in a wooded area near here and ran to the Neidermier home.

Palm Springs inferno still 'out of control'

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — "The One Horse Fire," the worst blaze in California this year, burned unchecked into a fourth day today, flaming through mountain timber country and into a scenic state park.

With more than 10,000 charred acres of forest and brush land behind it, the fire moved ahead on a four mile wide front in the fringes of Mount San Jacinto State Park, six miles northwest of this popular Southern California resort city.

The state division of forestry and U.S. Forest Service fielded an army of 1,500 men—and the six women of the "Morningstar Blue's" from Fresno, Calif., an all female squad that is a rarity in the virtually all male world of forest fire fighting teams.

Because of the rough mountain terrain into which the fire burned—steep slopes, peaks reaching 6,500 feet and more, —the firefighters were chasing the blaze in a fleet of 12 helicopters.

They used ropes to clamber down cliff faces to get at the spearheads of flame.

The fire started in dry brush land Saturday near One Horse Springs, from which it took its name. Authorities said the blaze, which began in the Morongo Indian Reservation, was started by fireworks. Three boys were questioned by sheriff's deputies and released.

Forest Service officials estimated the fire had consumed more than one million board feet of timber since it got into the pine forests at higher elevations, and done $359,000 damage to timber, watershed and equipment.

LOS ANGELES — A San Dimas man was among four suspects arrested Monday in a federal investigation of what an FBI spokesman termed "the largest and most sophisticated counterfeiting operation in the country."

Jerome Sachs, 37, of 301 N. San Dimas Ave., was booked on charges of conspiracy and conterfeiting. Others arrested were Stanley Halprin, 47, Los Angeles; Daniel Migdol, 43, Hawthorne and Howard Gallowitz, who refused to give his age or address.

Robert E. Powiss, special agent in charge of the U.S. Treasury Department's Secret Service unit here, said the four men probably would be arraigned today before a U.S. magistrate in federal court.

The arrests were the result of a joint investigation by the Secret Service and the FBI. Agents seized $100,000 in counterfeit $100 bills and $100,000 worth of bogus travelers' checks drawn on the Bank of America. Powiss stressed that none of the $100 bills had been passed.

The suspects were arrested when they attempted to pass the counterfeits at a branch of the Bank of America, agents said.

The FI spokesman said the counterfeiting headquarters was in a printing plant in El Segundo.

Heat's on for picnics, parades

By JEANNE BRYANT
P-B Staff Writer

A Fourth of July filled with the traditional fireworks, flag-waving, parades and picnics will also bring sizzling temperatures and the chance of fires and accidents on Wednesday.

And celebrants will have to contend with an extra dose of smog.

Warnings against the illegal use of fireworks have been issued by law engorcement officials, and traffic officers will be extra alert for violators of laws on the roads.

"Safe and sane" fireworks are legal only in the citties in which they are sold; other types of fireworks are illegal. Local cities allowing "safe and sane" fireworks include La Verne, Walnut and Chino.

Portions of the San Bernardino Mountains have been closed to the public and fireworks of all types are strictly prohibited in all national forests.

Holiday weather will be sunny and hot with a high of 103 degrees.

Forecaster Bill Hackel of the National Weather Service office in Riverside said the high temperature in Pomona today will be 102 degrees.

The weather observation station at Cal Poly reported that Pomona had a high temperature Monday of 96 degrees and a low this morning of 65 degrees. Temperatures are expected to decrease a few degrees Thursday and Friday.

There will be smoggy skies today and the San Bernardino County Air Pollution Control District has called a heavy smog alert for all areas of the county.

The APCD has requested that all unnecessary driving be curtailed. The peak reading in San Bernardino County Monday was .54 parts per million in Fontana.

Moderate to heavy smog is forecast today for Pomona, where the peak reading on Monday was .21 ppm.

County, state, federal and municipal offices and most businesses will be closed Wednesday because of the holiday. Refuse will not be collected and trash service will be a day later the remainder of the week in Pomona, San Dimas, La Verne Claremont, Walnut, Ontario, Montclair and Chino. Refuse will be picked up on the holiday in Upland.

State's dairymen ask 2-cent raise to avoid shortage

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California dairymen have called for milk prices to be increased by at least two cents a quart so they can keep up with their rapidly rising production costs.

A large number of producers testified Monday before a state Department of Food and Agriculture hearing into dairy industry requests to increase the retail cost of milk to cover the rising cost of producing it.

Most of the producers testifying requested a two-cent boost per quart but several said a larger boost was necessary to permit the industry to "survive" financially.

Gale Hopson, a dairyman from Anderson, urged dairymen to stop producing milk unless they received assurance of a "decent price increase" from the department panel which conducted the hearing.

Some of the producers warned the rising cost of feed, labor, buildings and equipment were driving many of them out of business and could result in a milk shortage. They said feed costs have increased about 20 per cent this year.

Nixon will huddle with Chinese envoy

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon will meet at the Western White House with Ambassador Huang Chen, China's top envoy in Washington, on Friday, governent sources said today.

The meeting, which will include presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger, was set up apparently to enlist the Chinese government's assistance in settling the Cambodian war.

Government sources said that a visit to the United States in October by Chinese Premier Chou En Lai was possible.

Food industry fears collapse in 60-day freeze

By United Press International

Food industry spokesmen contend much of the nation's food distribution system will collapse if the current price freeze is allowed to continue its full 60 days.

The warning came in Washington Monday at a hearing by the administration's Food Industry Advisory Committee into plans for the Phase IV economic program that will follow the freeze President Nixon imposed in mid-June.

While the committee was in session in Washington, Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz was at Kenansville, N.C., where he told a meeting of Young Republicans that price freezes and controls are "self-defeating in the long run." He said cattlemen and other food producers were being forced to curtail production because consumers were demanding that food be sold near the current cost of production or below.

"Their alternative is to produce at no profit or a loss," Butz said. "That's the self-defeating part."

A number of food producers have complained the freeze is forcing them to sell their goods below the cost of production.

Clarence G. Adamy, president of the National Association of food chains, said he understood that a freeze "is supposed to hurt." But he said it was pointless "to make the pain so intense that it causes the collapse of large portions of the nation's food distribution system."

Adamy warned this will happen if the freeze lasts the maximum 60 days.

R. Hal Dean, chairman of Ralston Purina Co., agreed the situation was critical.

"The food industry is facing a crisis of unprecedented proportions that threatens the American people's confidence in private industries' ability to provide adequate food supplies," Dean said.

Dean said the administration should move to Phase IV immediately.

Government stabilization officials already have indicated they expect Phase IV to be started before Aug. 13—the outside deadline Nixon has set for the end of the freeze.

Last week, the administration placed an embargo on soybean and cottonseed exports, hoping to bolster domestic livestock feed supplies and hold down food prices. On Monday, government officials converted the embargo into a licensing program designed to restrict exports and drop domestic soybean meal prices. Soybeans and soybean meal have more than tripled in price during the past year.

President William J. Kuhfuss of the American Farm Bureau Federation told the Food Industry Advisory Committee earlier Monday the embargo was "regrettable." He said it was "another move toward more government interference in markets which is not in the best interest of American agriculture or the American economy."

In other developments:

—In Denver, John Trotman, president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, predicted a meat shortage in October lasting through December if present trends continue. He said it will last longer if the freeze is not rolled back.

—In Syracuse, N.Y., Eugene R. Vadebord, first vice president of the Dairylea Milk Cooperative, Inc., wired President Nixon that millions of consumers — especially around New York—face a shortage of milk to drink and dairy products because of poor weather and inadequate milk prices.

—The Agriculture Department predicted U.S. beef imports will reach a record 1,450 billion pounds in the third quarter of this year.

—The U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said in Rome that the worldwide supply of meat is expected to increase, thereby giving some relief to sharply rising world prices.

Ayala proposes prisoner department for county

SAN BERNARDINO — Countp Supervisor Ruben S. Ayala has proposed a new department of corrections be formed to handle the custody of county prisoners.

This could include the Glen Helen Rehabilitation Center, San Bernardino County jail and other facilities where prisoners are held, he said.

At present, these jails are under the jurisdiction of the sheriff's office.

"Most sheriff's deputies are hired and taught law enforcement, surveillance, arrests, confrontation with mobs and search and rescue operations," Ayala explained.

"We now have people trained to arrest the prisoners and keep them in custody.

Ayala said correction and rehabilitation are fields by themselves.

"The maximum time a person can spend in a county jail is one year," he added. This doesn't give us much time for rehabilitaion. But they can be helped during the one year with counselling or being taught a trade."

Should such a department be formed, this would relieve many deputies now assigned to jail duties for patrol work, said Ayala.

Other county supervisors supported Ayala's proposal that the county administartor's office be given 9 0days to do research on the feasibility of the new department.

"If this doesn't prove practical or will not save taxpayers any money, then we may not go ahead."

Ayala said one possibility would be to have the new department of corrections come under the probation department.

"This is not to take away from the sheriff. He is wearing two hats — as chief law enforcement officer of the county and as the warden. I don't believe these two jobs are the same."

Ayala said the new program couldn't go into operation this fiscal year. "But we can be prepared for the next fiscal year."

San Dimas man falls in canyon hike; rescued

SAN DIMAS — A San Dimas man was in fair condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital after falling while hiking in Lodi Canyon about a mile west of San Dimas Canyon Road.

Ronald Waterman, 26, of 621 Pearlanna St., suffered a broken left arm, leg and rib injuries when he fell about 40 feet Tuesday afternoon.

Fourteen members of the San Dimas Mountain Rescue Team went into the canyon and carried Waterman to San Dimas Canyon Road in a litter stretcher. He was picked up there and taken by ambulance to the hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said the terrain where Waterman fell is so rugged they could not send a helicopter there to fly him out.

Ontario mayor hired by Pomona paper company

POMONA — Howard J. Snider, mayor of Ontario, has been hired by Garden State Paper Co., Inc., here as director of governmental affairs.

He will work with city, county, state and government officials in seeking ways of recycling used newspapers.

"I am very pleased to be associated with this firm which is involved in answering the urgent need of recycling reusable materials, thereby conserving our natural resources."

His appointment was announced by Richard B. Scudder, chairman of Garden State's board of trustees. The firm also has newspaper recycling mills in Garfield, N. J., and Alspi, Ill.

The company's current production of new newsprint from used newspapers at the three operations is about 350,000 tons per year.

Snider had previously served as a stockbroker in the Pomona and Ontario area for the past 12 years. The office of mayor is a part-time position.

Nixon rules out going before Ervin committee

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon intends to tell his version of the Watergate story to "an appropriate forum" —but not to the Ervin Committee and not until the committee's hearings end, which may be months away.

The Western White House Monday flatly ruled out any appearance by the President before the Ervin committee, the federal grand jury investigating Watergate crimes, or before newsmen while the Senate probe continues.

"The President will speak to this matter in what he considers an appropriate forum," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters Monday.

"Because of the President's strong feelings of the separation of powers and the prerogative of the executive branch, he will not testify before the Ervin Committee," Ziegler said.

"It would be constitutionally inappropriate."

Herbert G. Klein, former White House director of communications, told interviewers Nixon was "deeply hurt" at being "let down" by his former aides in the scandal.

Ziegler made it clear that Nixon would hold no news conferences while witnesses are appearing before the Ervin Committee.

The Watergate phase of the hearings is expeited to continue at least until mid August. The committee plans to call at least nine more witnesses, including former Attorney General John Mitchell and key White House aides John Erhlichman and H. R. Haldeman. Their testimony—like that of John Dean, which lasted a week—is expected to be lengthy.

Ziegler told reporters it would not be correct to say that Nixon plans to "respond" to Dean's charges implicating the President in the Watergate cover-up.

Rather, Ziegler said the President "will address this matter when this stage of the hearings is over."

He said that Nixon and his top advisers were involved in skull sessions on what would be a proper forum for the chief executive to discuss his side of the Watergate story.

In Washington, Attorney General Elliot Richardson said several forums were being considered, among them a news conference where Nixon would deliver a written statement and then answer questions; a meeting with a limited number of reporters or a session with Congressional leadership.

Nixon has not personally discussed Watergate since April 30 when he delivered a televised address and reported on the ouster of Dean, and resignations of Haldeman and Erlichman.

Ziegler said, however, that Nixon still stands on his May 22 written statement that he had no prior knowledge of the Watergate bugging, or the cover-up nor did he offer executive clemency to the defendants.

The word from "La Casa Pacifica" is that Nixon is beginning to take the crisis more in stride now and "is more relaxed."

golden haired film star decorated thousands of foxholes and barracks during World War II and GIs voted her their all time favorite pinup.

She married her co-star "College Swing," Jackie Coogan, "The Kid" of silent film fame, on Nov. 21, 1937. She divorced him Oct. 11, 1939, complaining he had a quarrelsome disposition and was not considerate of her welfare.

In 1939 she went to Broadway for a supporting role in the musical "Dubarry Was a Lady" and ended up stealing the show from its star, Ethel Merman.

This brought Miss Grable an offer to star in "Down Argentine Way" when the film's original star, Alice Faye, became ill. This technicolor musical became the format for a dozen other Grable films such as "Pin-Up Girl," "Moon over Miami" and "Mother Wore Tights."

When Darryl Zanuck said he would make her a great actress in the role of a drunk in the drama "The Razor's Edge," Miss Grable turned him down.

"People would expect me to end up as a mermaid and rise with seaweed in my hair," she said.

After her divorce from Coogan and a romance with George Raft, Miss Grable married band leader Harry James on July 5, 1943, in Las Vegas, Nev. The couple had two daughters, Victoria, 29, and Jessica, 27.

She and James were horse racing fans, and owned several horses. When her career faded in the 1950s, they moved to Las Vegas where she occasionally substituted for other performers at hotel casinos.

Miss Grable divorced James in 1965 after 22 years of marriage, charging him with extreme cruelty.

After her divorce, she starred for several months in the musical "Hello Dolly," in Las Vegas and made television commercials.

Despite her success, the actress was always modest and frank about her talents. She was the first to admit that she was far from the world's best singer or dancer, and she didn't think the famous Grable "gams" were all that great either. She often said she thought Marlene Dietrich's legs were better.

have planned extensive festivities.

In Pomona, one of the largest pyrotechnic displays in the southland will be discharged at the Pomona Firemen's Association's fifth annual fireworks show at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds. Gates will open at 5 p.m. and music will begin at 5:30, followed by a 6:30 program. KWOW disc jocksy Bob Bosche and Bill Williams will be the masters of ceremonies for the show which will feature famous recording artists, television personalities, local talent, the Pomona Concert Band and a demonstration of fire-fighting equipment. Fireworks at dusk will include aerial displays and set pieces.

A "free-for-all" celebration has been planned in La Verne to give residents an old-fashioned Fourth. Events will begin with a breakfast from 7 to 10 a.m. served at Third and D streets. This is the only community event of the day which will require payment.

La Verne activities will continue throughout the day with a parade, followed by a watermelon feed at Kuns Park for all participants; free swimming from 2 to 4 p.m. at the city swimming pool and a program and fireworks display at Bonita High School in the evening. The program will begin with the Miss La Verne Beauty Contest.

Claremont will sponsor a talent "share-in" as part of its Fourth of July celebration at 10 a.m. on Memorial Park's stage. Other events at the park during the day will be a chalk art contest at 9 a.m. for youngsters and a program by Chet Jaeger and his Dixieland Band at 3:45 p.m. The city's annual parade at 4:30 p.m. will start at Indian Hill Boulevard and 10th Street and proceed south on Indian Hill Boulevard, east on Fourth Street, north on Harvard Avenue and west on 10th Street. Grand marshal will be Col. John E. Stavast.

Fates to Pomona College Alumni Field will open at 6 p.m. for the 9:15 p.m. fireworks show in Claremont. The program will begin at 7 p.m.

The San Dimas Jaycees will sponsor their sixth annual Fourth of July parade at 10 a.m. The parade will begin its route down Bonita Avenue at San Dimas Canyon Road.

Jaycee Wives will stage a pancake breakfast at the Canyon Shopping Center prior to the parade at 8 a.m.

Picnic tables will line Euclid Avenue in Ontario for the 57th annual All-States Picnic. State queens will visit their state tables at 11 a.m. and will be crowned at noon.

State queens will also be featured in the annual All-States Parade at 2 p.m. The first parade was held in 1939. Beginning at Fifth and Euclid avenues, the parade will proceed south on Euclid to B Street.

In the evening, Ontario residents will be offered the annual fireworks display at the Chaffey High School stadium sponsored by the Ontario Parkway Kiwanis Club. An 8 p.m. program will precede the 8:45 pyrotechnic display.

Gates will open at 6 p.m. at Mt. San Antonio College stadium for the annual West Covina Chamber of Commerce fireworks show. A program featuring Billy Barty, comedian Joe Bingo, marching bands, clowns and an aerial fireworks display will begin at 7:30 p.m.

"Stay sober and keep slow vehicles out of fast freeway lanes" is the advice offered to those traveling during the holiday.

Capt. W. C. Jones, commander of the California Highway Patrol office in Claremont, stated that extra officers will be assigned to the field during the day and evening shifts on the Fourth of July. Jones said special emphasis has been placed on drunken drivers and slow drivers in fast freeway lanes.

Jones has cancelled days off for some officers and reassigned others normally assigned to the vehicle inspection program. He will assign 11 officers to the field during the day shift and 21 in the afternoon shift when the traffic volume is expected to increase.

"By having the holiday in the middle of the week, we don't expect the heavy volume that would have occurred if it had fallen on a weekend," Jones noted.

Flights to Mars if willing to spend

HONOLULU (UPI) — Astronauts will reach the planet Mars "within our lifetime" if Americans are willing to spend the money, says the commander of America's last manned moon flight.

Navy Capt. Eugene Cernan was in Hawaii Monday with the two other astronauts who flew Apollo 17 to the moon earlier this year, Capt. Ronald Evans and Dr. Harrison Schmitt, a geologist.

"It all depends on how much the American people are willing to spend on the space program," Cernan said. "We could have astronauts walking on the surface of Mars within our lifetime if there is enough money."

Schmitt said America could put a permanent base on the moon within five years, but he predicted that Mars will capture the interest of scientists and that Americans may not return to the moon within 10 years.

Douglas-Home 70; diplomats visit

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's Foreign Secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home celebrated his 70th birthday Monday and ministers from all over the world heading for Helsinki to attend the European Security conference made special stopovers to pay their respects to the "grand old man" of British diplomacy.

Prime minister Edward Heath held a party for him at his official 10 Downing Street residence. Among the foreign ministers who sang happy birthday to him were U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, West Germany's Walter Scheel, France's Michel Jobert, Italy's Giuseppe Medici and Joseph Luns of the Netherlands, Secretary-General of the NATO alliance.

Probe 'drunk' case involving senator

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Maricipa County Attorney Moise Berger announced Monday that the grand jury would investigate complaints of criminal activity in the dismissal of drunken driving charges against Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz.

Fannin was arrested last November by a policeman who said the senator was driving erratically. The charges were dismissed after three doctors said Fannin had been taking a prescribed drug that could have affected an adverse breathalyzer reading.

Resignation of Anderson accepted

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif (UPI) — President Nixon has accepted the resignation of Robert B. Anderson as special U.S. representative in the Panama Canal Treaty negotiations.

A spokesman at the western White House said Monday the resignation was accepted with "deep regret." Anderson, former Treasury Secretary in the Eisenhower administration, has been involved for the past nine years in negotiating with Panama, who wants the canal back.

6-month sentence for Sirhan brother

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sharif B. Sirhan, brother of convicted assassin Sirhan B. Sirhan, has himself been sentenced to jail—for threatening the life of Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Sirhan, 40, was found guilty Monday of mailing a letter to Secretary of State William P. Rogers threatening Mrs. Meir during her visit to the United States earlier this year. He was sentenced to six months in jail but allowed to go free on $10,000 bail pending appeal.

Nixon women visit sick kin in L.A.

They drove to Los Angeles to see Mrs. Nixon's stepbrother, Matt Bender, who is sick. They also did some shopping.

CIA to watch its step, Nixon nominee promises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William E. Colby, President Nixon's nominee to head the Central Intelligence Agency, Monday said he would resign rather than let the White House use the CIA for domestic intelligence in violation of its charter.

However, Colby also told a Senate confrimation hearing Monday—with only one Senator present—that CIA would still have numerous functions to perform within the United States, including the collection of intelligence information on foreign governments from U.S. citizens and the surveillance of foreigners in the United State.

He also said he could "envision a situation where the CIA might help a White House employe meet someone" under a false identity, but added, "I think we are going to be very careful with some of our unique equipment and we are not going to let it out without our control."

It has recently been disclosed that CIA provided E. Howard Hunt, who later pleaded guilty in the Watergate case, with a wig, false identification and various electronic equipment allegedly later used in the burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Colby acknowledged that providing spy equipment to Hunt was "a mistake" but said it would not be made again.

L.V. seeks help in fighting mobile park

LA VERNE — The City of La Verne is soliciting help from Pomona and Claremont to defeat a recommendation by the Regional Planning Commission for a large mobile home park in county territory surrounded by the three cities.

A proposal for the construction of a 40-acre development with approximately 400 spaces north of Foothill Boulevard between Williams and Bradford avenues was recently passed by the county commission and is scheduled to go before the Board of Supervisors July 26.

La Verne is not only miffed because the city was not consulted about a development in its area of influence; it contends that the mobile home park would be in conflict with the general plan which has just been completed, and which calls for higher quality homes in the area.

The matter was brought before the City Council by Councilman Harrison Sanborn Monday night. He said he was at a loss to understand why the county's planning commission had "failed to exercise the courtesy it usually extends to the cities which are affected by such a development."

At his suggestion, the council passed a motion asking support from neighboring Claremont and Pomona when La Verne goes before the supervisors to oppose the development.

Planning Director Charles Le Gros said the land, adjacent to the eastern boundary of the city, is earmarked in the general plan mostly for quality single residential developments with a density of one unit per 10,000 square feet.

In another zoning development, the council granted the request of the owners of a parcel of land on the northwest corner of Wheeler and Base Line avenues for a change from commercial and multiple residential to single residential — R1-10,000 — zone.

The parcel has been a point of controversy for several months. It is where Alpha Beta Markets wanted to build a shopping center, and where developer Clyde Warren wanted to develop a planned residential subdivision. Both were opposed by residents in the area.

James Hummel, attorney for the owners, told the council Monday that his clients preferred to rezone their property to residential so they would not have to pay taxes on the more highly valued commercial property.

In other matters, the council:

— Continued a freeze for four months on all construction other than single residences, on property north of the proposed Foothill Freeway. The action was taken to allow public hearings to proceed on the general plan.

— Authorized the extension of a mutual aid agreement for the fire department between La Verne and West Covina, Azusa, Covina and Monrovia in the event of a disaster.

— Postponed awarding of bids for the construction of a three-million gallon reservoir because the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has not yet completed a check of the plans.

Pettis to note 2 national Independence Days in Chino

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Rpe. Jerry Pettis will observe two national "Independence Days" Wedensday.

On the day of the customary American celebration of freedom, the congressman and his wife, Shirley, will visit caves in the Shensi Province of the People's Republic of China—an area that is honored by Chinese as the cradle of another "freedom."

The caves are historically significant because Mao Tse Tung and his fledgling Communist party once hid there to evade the approaching Japanese army.

Philosophically the two hard-fought freedoms are as many miles apart as are Washington and Peking. But in the cold, calculating world of reality, says Pettis, the two capitals can no longer afford to avoid mutual recognition.

"They've seen our top officials," said Pettis. "Now it's time for them to see and learn how our government really works from the guys who shoulder a good part of the load — the working stiffs on Capitol Hill.

"Myself, I want to see how decisions are made in their government. I know Chou En-Lai (heir apparent to Mao Tse Tung) pretty much runs the country. But he can't make all the daily decisions about routine matters. That must be done by members of their Central Committee, or whoever, and I think it is important that we gain an insight into their governmental structure."

Pettis, with his commerce-oriented background, was chosen for the mission to present and evaluate possible trade prospects between the United States and China.

"I'm not expecting any major trade breakthroughs," said Pettis. "They have been shut off from the world for too long."

The congressman said there are areas of cooperation readily available to develop, once the proper dialogue has been established.

"We want to talk about possible exploration of energy resources," he said. "I believe they are anxious to do this because they need our technology. They don't have near the technological know how we do.

"But they do have tremendous potential in untapped resources. An agreement along those lines could be mutually advantageous for both sides."

Pettis said he also hopes to discuss possible aviation development with China. He said United Airlines has been talking with the Chinese about setting up a "kind of training system for airlines."

The congressman indicated this is another area of vital interest to the Chinese, because a country that large cannot afford to limp along with a one-horse airline.

The State Department itinerary had the congressmen leaving Washington Saturday. For two weeks they will tour China; from Shanghai, to Peking to Central China, to Eastern China and back to Shanghai. The party will return to the U.S July 16.

Minimal courtesies were advised to be followed—one or two long dresses for the women (not too formal); no bright red attire, it "could have political connotations;" sleeveless okay, but no low necklines.

One Chinese custom which might come as a relief for congressmen is no tipping, and no giving gifts that might be construed as tipping.

Pettis said he is "excited" about this opportunity to visit China. And despite some minor criticism that he should decline the invitation to a Communist state, the congressman said it is foolish to believe Americans can prolong the pretense that China does not exist.

The best proof for that, according to Pettis, is to look at the millions of dollars U.S. markets have been denied because of a closed-door China policy.

12 candidates seek title of Miss L.V.

LA VERNE — Twelve candidates will be vying to become Miss La Verne 1973 Wednesday at the annual community queen contest set for Independence day.

The contest will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Bonita High School Bowl, just before the annual community fireworks start.

Phil Carrol will be master of ceremonies. Judges will be Mrs. James Sink, Mrs. Ray Gribbin, Mrs. Gerry Peck, Jack Baker and Charles Le Gros.

Trophies will be given to the new queen and to two of her runners-up. The judging will include a demonstration of talent.

Chino crash injures two

CHINO — Two persons were injured Monday night in a two-car collision at Riverside Drive and Oaks Avenue.

Millard Allen Nine, 40, of 13251 19th St., Chino, one of the two drivers involved in the 9:11 p.m. accident was listed in satisfactory condition this morning at Chino General Hospital recovering from multiple injuries. The other driver, Donald William Fleisher, 19, of 1334 W. Foothill Blvd., Upland, was given emergency first aid treatment at the hospital for minor injuries and later released.

Motorcycle flips; driver hospitalized

John Dumont of $120 Orchard St. was admitted to San Antonio Community Hospital's intensive care unit. He is listed in fair condition.

He was going east on the freeway about 60 miles an hour and speeded up to pass traffic when his cycle began to wobble, highway patrolmen said. Dumont lost control and the cycle overturned.

60-acre brush fire blamed on cigarette

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — A discarded cigarette is believed to be the cause of a brush fire that burned 60 acres of vacant land south of the Pomona Freeway Monday afternoon.

Traffic on the eastbound lanes of the Pomona Freeway was backed up for a time during the rush hour as the fire burned adjacent to the freeway. One lane of the freeway was closed to give access to fire fighting equipment.

A total of 12 engine companies, six camp crews, two helicopters manned by 150 firemen from the county fought the blaze which started at 5:45 p.m. and was contained about 9 p.m. Crews stayed at the scene throughout the night to mop up hot spots.

Ontario murder trial delayed by illness

ONTARIO — The murder trial for William Latimer Wheeler, 27, of Fontana, accused of killing a 10-month-old Ontario child March 9 has been delayed until Thursday due to the illness of the defendant.

Trial for Wheeler began last week in West Valley Superior Court before a seven-woman, five-man jury and Judge James Cunningham. Wheeler is accused of murder in connection with the death of Virginia Ann Dekker of 1119 E. Emporia St., Ontario.

The prosecution led by Deputy Dist. Atty. Bill Parker contends that Wheeler on March 9 in the Emporia Street apartment picked up the baby and dashed her head against the wall causing a fatal skull fracture.

Parker said Monday that Wheeler, who is out on bail, was suffering from the flu and was unable to appear Monday. Parker indicated he expects the rest the prosecution's case Thursday. Defense testimony then will begin led by Pasadena attorney John Whyte.

Dr. Irving Root, San Bernardino County pathologist, has testified that two severe fractures found on the baby's head could not have been caused by a fall or by a severe shaking against a wall. Dr. Root said it would have taken extreme force to cause the injuries.

Tells of telephone call

Burt changes his testimony

SAN BERNARDINO — Benton Douglas Burt, 30, on trial with his wife, Andrea Homman Burt, 19 in the bloody Oct. 6 ambush-escape of prison inmate Ronald Wayne Beaty testified Monday that Beaty called him at his apartment in Hayward that evening.

The Burts are charged with murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and rescuing a prisoner in connection with Beaty's escape. Beaty has testified that the Burts helped plan and execute his escape and participated in the killing of prison Guard Jesus Sanchez.

Burt on the stand in San Bernardino County Superior Court Monday said the evening of Oct. 6 he was at his home in Hayward when he received a call from Beaty. He said it was the first time he had heard that Beaty had escaped. Burt said Beaty's call made him angry because it would cause the police, searching for Beaty and his rescuers, to regard him as a suspect.

Burt admitted in cross-examination by Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph Canty that he testified differently at a bail motion in Ontario Municipal Court last October. At that time he said he learned of Beaty's escape Oct. 7, making no mention of a phone call from Beaty the previous evening.

In direct examination last week Burt denied knowledge of Beaty's escape.

Beaty has testified that on the evening of Oct. 6 he was with the Burts in Gilroy. He said at that time that another member of the ambush group, Mrs. Jean Hobson, placed a long distance telephone call from a pay phone in an attempt to learn what happened to another member of the ambush party that became separated from the rest of the group near Los Angeles. Mrs. Hobson has been charged with the same offenses as the Burts but will be tried separately.

According to telephone company records introduced into evidence by the prosecution, calls were made from a pay telephone in Gilroy the evening of Oct. 6, 1972, to the Burts' Hayward apartment and to the Los Altos residence of Mrs. Sylvia Stead, where Beaty said he later spent the night.

Mrs. Stead was subpoenaed to testify for the prosecution, but cited the Fifth Amendment in a hearing outside the presence of the jury and refused to testify.

New judge for Chino

CHINO — Philip Schaefer, 40, took the bench today as new judge of the Chino Justice Court.

He succeeds Benjamin Burrell, who resigned to become a county traffic referee.

County Supervisor Ruben S. Ayala appointed Schaefer to the post Monday at the Board of Supervisors morning session. Schaefer was then sworn into office before the supervisors.

His court docket today included small claims cases and court trials.

Schaefer, a graduate of Loyola University, has lived in the Chino area for the past two years. He had previously worked for the district attorney's office in San Bernardino County and was associated with a Pomona law firm.

When appointed as judge, Schaefer was a member of the law firm of Maroney, Demchuk, Brandt and Schaefer.

CHINO HAY FIRE — Bundles of burning hay topple towards Chino firemen battling this blaze Monday afternoon at 5438 Philadelphia Ave. The fire destroyed 50 tons of hay valued at $2,250. It was caused by children playing with "safe and sane" fireworks, according to Chino Fire Inspector Forrest Alderman. The children are being sought for counseling. Chino firemen urged residents to use extreme caution in the use of so-called "safe and sane" fireworks on the Fourth of July due to the high fire danger in the Chino area.

Montclair to explore extending it

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — City Councilman Ernest Rowley opened the lid on potential controversy Monday night by suggesting that the city explore the possibilities of extending Montclair's southerly zone of influence to the Pomona Freeway.

"The freeway is the logical natural boundary for the city," said Rowley in suggesting that the city staff look into the matter. "It doesn't look like Chino is doing anything in that area."

Councilman Leonard Soper disagreed with Rowley's contention that the freeway would be a "natural" boundary for Montclair, noting instead that talk of extending the zone of influence might create a lot of problems.

"It won't serve any useful purpose," said Soper. "This isn't something we should put off on the city staff to study. It should be a policy decision by us."

"I don't want to antagonize or cause hard feelings with the city of Chino," emphasized Rowley. He held firm to his suggestion that the matter be studied, however, and was joined in that position by Councilman Paul Jones.

Mayor Harold Hayes pointed out that the long-standing zone of influence boundary between Montclair and Chino has been Phillips Street.

"Phillips has been the line we've looked at for a ling time," said Hayes. "We had Chino's cooperation when the zones of influence were set up. This could be considered a breach of understanding." No official action was taken by the council.

The area in question was once the subject of a bitter controversy between the cities of Montclair, Chino and Ontario.

In 1965 when San Bernardino County approved a master plan for the West End, Ontario relinquished its claim on the area while Montclair and Chino established the Phillips Street boundary for future planning purposes.

Presently, Chino's northern boundary generally runs along the Pomona Freeway, while Montclair's southern city limit generally runs along State Street.

In other matters, the council;

—Authorized the city to advertise for bids for landscaping of the water retention basin north of San Bernardino Street and south of the San Bernardino Freeway. The basin will be the first of four to be converted into a natural canyon area to be called Montclair Parkway.

—Set July 16 as the date for a public hearing on the proposed amendment to the City's R3 (multiple family dwelling) ordinance. The amendment covers densities, setbacks and requirements for conditional use permits.

—Gave first reading to an ordinance which will raise the cost of licensing a bicycle in the city by 40 cents. The present cost is $1 with the increase necessary to cover the city's cost in supporting the proposed state-wide stolen bicycle program under the Department of Justice.

—Directed the city staff to look into the possibility of using state funds for a permananent mini-bus operation in the city. According to Asst. City Administrator Tom Mauk, the city would have to amend its application to the Southern California Association of Governments for SB325 funds as a first step in setting up a mini-bus operation.

—Was informed by City Administrator Lauren Wasserman that the proposed Chino Hills Airport would be under discussion at a joint meeting of the City Council and Planning Commission next Monday at 5 p.m. in the council chambers. Proponents of the airport are scheduled to speak at the meeting.

P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — The Chaffey school board Monday night re-elected James F. Garliepp Jr. as its president, approved a 4.7 per cent increase in the principal's salary position and learned that the new Valley View High School would be completed in time for classes in September.

Garliepp, an Ontario businessman, was the unanimous choice of his fellow board members to serve as chairman for a thrid term. He expressed his thanks, and said he would continue to work hard in his efforts for the school board.

Elected along with Garliepp were board members G.A. Chalfant as vice president, and John Schnepp as clerk. Chalfant, who won re-election to the board in April, served as clerk during the 1972-73 term.

The board was also unanimous in its approval of the maximum principal's salary position increase. The hike established the position at $25,366 for the 1973-74 school year. It was determined by a survey of other union high school district principal's salaries for 1972-73 which revealed an amount of $24,227 as the median of the maximums.

Currently principals at two schools Chaffey and Alta Loma are in the top salary category.

The progress report on construction of Valley View brought smiles to the faces of the board members. Facilities director James W. Clark said the construction was "going so well that it's almost unbelievable."

Clark said the building, which will accommodate 400 students, will be completed Sept. 1.

A detailed summer school enrollment report for the five district high schools as of June 20 showed the student load at 4,100. The figure is 144 less than at the same time last year, and equals 37.4 per cent of the average of the 1972-73 regular school enrollment.

Montclair high was the only school to show an increased summer enrollment over last year. It's attendance is up 111 from 714 students. Ontario high reflected the biggest drop — 84 students or a 16.8 per cent decrease.

Board members were at a loss for any specific reasons for the drop in enrollment, which, according to Supt. Allan G. Smith, has been gradually decreasing the last six or seven years.

"Maybe there are more opportunities for employment, vacation or travel," Smith speculated.

In other actions, the board:

—Confirmed the appointments of Mrs. Lorraine Banson as secretary to the board; newly-elected board member Martha Chapman as representativeto the annual trustees association meetings; and Chalfant as an alternate to the trustees meetings.

—Accepted resignations from teachers Mark C. Boen, Montclair; Mrs. Jonnie Jean Jones, Upland; Mrs. Martha B. Voelkel, Montclair; and Conrad J. Willett, Chaffey. They were effective June 30.

JAMES GARLIEPP

—Approved leave of absence requests for Mrs. Claudia Tow, Upland, and Sharon E. Kridler, Upland.

—Accepted the appointment of Robert Godinez as a counselor at Chaffey.

—Delayed action for nominations from sub-region 16-B for delegates to the California School Boards Association.

—Approved a student teaching agreement with Cal Poly for the 1973-74 school year.

State system of licensing Won't hike bike fees---yet

LA VERNE — Even though the state is soon going to charge cities for the cost of operating a statewide licensing system, La Verne's 515 bicycle owners will not have to pay more. Not yet.

City Manager George Caswell told the City Council Monday night that the state's automated stolen bicycle system will go into operation next month, and to offset the cost, the state is going to charge each participating city 20 cents per bicycle.

"This is all they're asking this time," he explained. "If the computerized system costs more, they'll be back for more. We think it eventually will lead to a takeover of the bicycle licensing by the Department of Motor Vehicles."

He told the council that right now the city's bike owners pay $1 every two years for the licenses, and that it cost about $140 a year to run the program. The state charge would raise that by about $100 a year.

"Oh, I think the city can take care of this additional expenses free to the community," Councilman Frank Johnson declared. "I see no need to raise the bicycle license fees at this time."

The rest of the council agreed with him, even though some other area cities have raised fees. But they also agreed that if the state asked for more money, the council will have to re-examine its position.

Jury choice under way in CIM stabbing

ONTARIO — Jury selection in a trial for three California Institution for Men inmates accused of stabbing two brothers in the Southern Reception Guidance Center has begun in West Valley Superior Court before Judge Richard C. Garner.

The three inmates: Robert Augustine Elias, 26; Joseph Henry Ortiz 25, and Frank Joseph Ruiz, 32, are accused of stabbing Santos Arrenda, 21, and his brother Ernest, 22 last December.

Elias several weeks ago was stabbed while awaiting a West Valley Superior Court appearance in the San Bernardino County Jail. Since then Elias has recovered from his wounds and has refused to talk to authorities about the stabbing in the jail.

Sheriff's detectives said they dismissed charges against two other inmates of CIM who were accused of stabbing Elias.

According to prison authorities and sheriff's deputies the rash of stabbings at the prison is the result of attempts between the Neuvo Familia (New Family) and the Mexican Mafia to gain control of prison rackets.

New L.A. city atty. sworn in; names aides

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — City Attorney Burt Pines was publicly sworn into office Monday and sounded a new policy of minority participation by appointing a black and an Asian-American as two of his three deputies.

Pines, who unseated 20-year incumbent Roger Arnebergh in the June runoff election, took the oath from City Clerk Rex E. Layton in City Hall.

Pines' appointments for deputy city attorney were Welch Cockrell, a black, Stanley Uyehara, both graduates of Southwestern Law School, and Andrew Schepard, now clerk to U.S. Circuit Court Judge James Oakes in Vermont.

The city attorney said the men represent "the highest caliber of lawyers," who will join the existing staff of more than 100 lawyers.

Also at the swearing-in ceremonies were Mayor Tom Bradley, District Attorney Joseph P. Busch, Police Chief Edward M. Davis, and other federal, state, county and city officials.

Bradley called for a new era of cooperation between the two offices.

"I look on you not only as a city attorney but as a friend and patriot," Bradley said.

Busch who said the city attorney's office requires courage, innovation and respect for the law, added that it is "abundantly clear that Burt Pines recognizes the burden of public trust ... succeeding a most distinguished public lawyer in this critical office."

Bomb threat at Vegas airport

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — Several hundred passengers were evacuated Monday from the rotunda area of McCarran International Airport when an anonymous caller telephoned security officers and said a bomb was set to go off in the area.

During the search, arriving passengers were kept aboard the aircraft and departing travelers remained on the ground level near the ticket counters.

Gen. Dynamics acquitted in F111 parts fraud case

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — A jury in a town whose economy would be hurt if General Dynamics laid off a large number of workers acquitted the company Monday of charges it conspired to defraud the government with faulty parts for the controversial F111 airplane.

The seven-man, five-woman jury, told by U.S. District Judge Leo Brewster it could consider the company's claim a guilty verdict could have closed the plant, deliberated for a little more than a hour before arriving at its verdict.

The federal government had charged General Dynamics with conspiracy to defraud the government of $114,000 in faulty metal plates for the plane and with presenting fraudulent documents to the government.

A spokesman for the company said the documents might have contained some mistakes but these were human errors with no conspiracy involved.

"Our case was based on human error," the spokesman said. "We contended that the documents were perhaps incorrectly prepared but that it was entirely human error.

"And to conspire, you have to have intent," he said. "There was no intent involved."

The Pentagon last month ordered an end to the production of the F111, the swing-wing fighter-bomber. But a House Armed Services Committee overturned that decision and ordered General Dynamics to continue production for at least another year.

The battle over the F111 has been going on for a decade, ever since the Defense Department announced signing the contract with General Dynamics in 1963.

On its first attempt at supersonic flight on Jan. 19, 1965 the F111 had to land because a small door on the plane fell off. And since that maiden flight, the fighter-bombers, costing $15 million each, have been grounded a half dozen times because of crashes and defective parts.

Three of the first four F111s sent to Vietnam crashed within weeks of their arrival. Thirty-one have crashed since that maiden flight in 1965.

8 years' work record stained by sauerkraut

DAVIS (UPI) -- Charges that problems with mayonnaise and sauerkraut stained the previously unblemished work record of a middle-aged widow have cost the woman her job.

The University of California fired the woman, a food services employe for nearly eight years, on the grounds she spread mayonnaise incorrectly and took too long to put the sauerkraut on hot dogs, Loren McMaster, her attorney, said Monday.

He said he is appealing the dismissal of the woman, who is currently unemployed, to UC President Charles Hitch. McMaster contends the charges are not serious enough to justify the firing.

McMaster declined to release the Sacramento woman's name without her permission. He said she was a widow in her 50s with several children. Her work record was previously unmarred, he declared.

University officials refused to comment on the case.

McMaster, a lawyer for the California State Employes Association, said the charges against the veteran employe included the following:

—She "failed to spread mayonnaise correctly. It was not spread all the way to the not spread all the way to the edge of the sandwich bread.

—One day she took an average of 1.3 minutes each to put sauerkraut on 50 hot dogs and wrap them. University officials said the task took 65 minutes when it should have taken only 15 to 25 minutes, according to McMaster. But he said they could not verify her time.

—She made a five-cent error in labeling the prices of five ham and cheese sandwiches.

—She made such a large batch of egg salad sandwich mix that part of it had to be thrown out. McMaster said that at a hearing it was brought out she made the regular two-day batch of the mix. He said all the mix was not used because the campus was closed the second day to mourn the death of President Johnson.

—She forgot, for three days in a row, to make two submarine sandwiches for workers at the Primate Center on the campus.

McMaster said the woman's problems began when she was transferred to a different section of the food services department last fall.

He stated she offended "some big cheeses" when their breakfast was not provided fast enough.

She was then shuttled to the sandwich department to "build a case against her," he said. She was fired Feb. 9.

McMaster said Chancellor James Meyer of the UC campus has already turned down one appeal.

GOP solon may become a Democrat

FRESNO (UPI) — Two-term Republican Assemblyman Kenneth L. Maddy of Fresno has confirmed he is considering a switch from the GOP to the Democratic Party.

Maddy, who often votes with liberal Democrats, said Monday he had experienced "frustration" as a member of a minority party in the Assembly while trying to represent the 32nd District, which has a two-to-one Democratic voter registration edge over the GOP.

Maddy won the post in 1970 when former Assemblyman George Zenovich, D-Fresno, moved to the state Senate. Maddy is reportedly being encouraged to change parties by Democratic businessmen and party leaders.

Maddy noted Democrats would continue to pour money and efforts into the Fresno district in an effort to regain the post and said that as a result he was spending most of his time "running for re-election."

The Fresno attorney said he would make up his mind before November, in order to meet the requirement that a candidate must be a member of his party one year before an election.

Upland council acts to cut growth on N. Euclid Ave.

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND —The City Council Monday night approved a plan to maintain low population densities on some 1,600 acres adjacent to North Euclid Avenue.

In approving a general plan amendment on five different areas north of Foothill Boulevard, the council adopted a new low density residential classification which calls for no more than two families per net acre on land fronting Euclid Avenue from 16th to 24th streets, and reduced densities from four-to-six families per net acre down to a maximum of four families per acre in two areas extending south from the proposed Foothill Freeway route to just above Foothill Boulevard.

In most cases, the council followed recommendations of the planning commission in making decisions among the various alternative density plans proposed for each area.

The areas and their new density patterns include:

— Area 1: 317 acres east of Euclid between the proposed freeway and 24th Street in the north, bounded on the east by Campus Avenue. The area, on a 3-2 vote, was designated low density residential with the maximum of two families per acre. Largely agricultural at present, when fully developed the area will contain 513 units and 1,847 persons. A 20-acre parcel, currently being developed at a zero-to-four density level, was exempted from the change.

In discussion on the area Councilman A. M. Hawkins Jr. favored allowing densities of up to four families in the eastern half of the area since he did not want the entire upper part of the city developed in that fashion.

Other councilmen, including Harold Bailin, disagreed with Hawkins and his motion for the twin density pattern died for lack of a second.

Bailin commented that a proposed flood control channel in that area might necessitate future density changes that would be difficult to make at a later date.

— Area 2: 330 acres west of Euclid between the proposed freeway and 24th street in the north, bounded on the west by San Antonio Avenue. In this area, the council favored a divided density idea proposed by the planning commission. As approved, the area is designated zero-to-two familes per acre in its eastern half and and zero-to-three families in its western half.

A number of landowners, residents and other interested parties also favored the split density approach in their comments during the public hearing.

However, resident Rod Shaner called the changes a promotion of urban sprawl. In his statement, he called on the council to set an absolute population limit in the city, preserve green belts, develop and present to voters a detailed plan for future growth and call a moratorium on all construction, development and zone changes until the plan could be put into effect. There was no comment on Shaver's proposal.

The council, with little discussion, approved the split density designation which will limit the area to a maximum of 560 units and 2,015 persons.

— Area 3: 115 acres west of Euclid between the proposed freeway and 16th Street on the south, bounded on the west by a line midway between Euclid and San Antonio avenues. With little discussion by either the council or audience members this area was reduced from the current zero-to-three density to the zero-to-two family density. The area may contain a maximum of 195 units and 702 persons.

— Area 4: 306 acres east of Euclid between Eugene Street and the proposed freeway, bounded on the east by Campus Avenue. Above 16th Street, however, the western boundary is Second Avenue. With no discussion, this area was reduced in density from the current four-to-six families down to zero-to-four families per acre. The area will be limited to a maximum of 813 units and 2,926 persons.

— Area 5: 528 acres west of Euclid from a line between Foothill Boulevard and 13th Street on the south to 16th Street on the north, bounded on the west by a line 700 feet east of Mountain Avenue. Again with no discussion, this area's density was lowered in the same fashion as Area 4. It may contain a maximum of 1,488 units and 5,357 persons.

In a presentation prior to consideration of the density changes, Norman Day, president of the Upland Homeowners Association, said his organization favored the zero to two family density in all five areas and also wanted the acreage under consideration to be extended further west to Mountain Avenue. In a later appearance before the council, Day presented a statement replete with numerous newspaper articles and letters to the editor which called upon the council to halt farther high density developments.

"We certainly feel," Day said in his statement, "That the handwriting is on the wall. The residents taxpayers, voters and homeowners do not want any more apartments, condominiums, Planned Residential or Unit Development in Upland. We feel that our goals and the city's goals should coincide, as we're both trying to improve the community."

HIS MUSIC LIVES ON — Laurens Hammond, the man who invented the electric organ, died at his home July 1 following a short illness. He was 78. The holder of 110 U.S. patents, Hammond is shown testing the Solovox he invented in a July, 1940, photo. While well-known through the product which provides pleasure in countless homes, churches, and institutions, Hammond earned fame in the sports world as well—he invented the synchronous electric clock that made possible precise timing of sports events.

1 vote picks Claremont school board president

CLAREMONT — William A. Anderson, re-elected to a four-year term in April, edged out school fellow board member Mary Ellen Kilsby for the seat of president Monday night.

Trustee Robert Stafford had nominated Mrs. Kilsby, and Arthur Steffen had nominated Anderson for the one-year post.

With Steffen temporarily sitting in the board president's chair, newly-sworn-in Beverly Shacklett, Steffen, and Anderson voted for Anderson for the one-vote margin. Mrs. Kilsby missed being the district's first woman board president since Mrs. Frances Drake served in 1965-67.

Last year Mrs. Kilsby and former board president Ernest Taylor tied 2-2 in the top board election, with Mrs. Kilsby finally casting her vote for Taylor.

In last night's election for vice-president of the board, Mrs. Kilsby was nipped by a vote by Steffen.

The board started off the new fiscal year slowly by reconvening from closed personnel session to public session at 8:55, 25 minutes past the publicized time. Vice-president Anderson apologized for the lateness of the hour.

To new board member Mrs. Shacklett falls the job as board representative for electing members to the county committee on school district organization. Stafford explained that it was traditional that Mrs. Shacklett as newest board member serve.

WILLIAM A. ANDERSON

Anderson told the board that he would like to withdraw as the district's representative to the Mt. Baldy Regional Occupational Program. The matter will be discussed at the next board meeting.

The board approved the hiring of John L. Bobo as principal of Sycamore Elementary School, effective July 30. Bobo will replace Dean Hatch, who resigned to go back into classroom teaching.

Bobo presently is assistant principal in the Charter Oak School District, has done administrative work at Cal State Los Angeles, and has been a Claremont resident six years.

The board accepted the resignations of Robert G. Reid, psychologist, to accept another position; Mrs. Martha Mattson, high school teacher, to attend graduate school; and Mrs. Judy Rawles, teacher on leave, because of family responsibilities.

Burglar-bugging seen in Hawaii police probe

HONOLULU (UPI) — Police sought Monday to determine whether their intelligence officers bugged and burglarized the Waikiki apartment of three Southern California businessmen.

Assistant Police Chief Eugene B. Fletcher said that, if his officers were involved, "they will be dealt with according to law."

The case came to light Saturday when Phillip Bertman, Hollywood, called police and reported three men broke into his penthouse apartment at the Ilima Hotel and stole a briefcase containing business papers.

When police arrived, Bertman showed them a door which connected his apartment with another one which had been forced open.

Police entered the second apartment and found three men inside. Bertman said the investigating officers recognized at least one of the three men as a member of the Police Criminal Intelligence Unit.

The briefcase was recovered and taken as evidence after one of the three men flung it out the 16th-story window of the hotel.

Later, a search of Bertman s apartment turned up an electronic bugging device atop a kitchen cabinet, and Bertman reported that a man had been watching his apartment from a hotel room across the street.

Police confiscated the device, and Fletcher said officers were checking to find out where it came from and, hopefully, who purchased it.

Fletcher would not comment when asked if any of the three men in the apartment adjoining Bertman's were police officers. He said the police investigation would delve into that question.

Bertman told officers he and his two associates were officers of Regal Resources, Inc., Oklahoma City. He said the three arrived here Thursday to close a deal to open a $500,000 car rental business in Honolulu.

His two associates were Wilbur F. Piercy, Whittier, and Dave Gorwitz, Burbank.

Bertman said the briefcase which was stolen contained business papers and letters showing that his firm had collateral of $100 million to back their proposed business dealings in Hawaii.

Richard Vind heads Walnut school board

Vind, elected to a four-year trustee term in April, 1971, succeeds Frank Morales. Trustee T. James Hannan was selected vice-president and Dr. Richard A. Falloon was named clerk. Hannan, Falloon and T. James Nettell were recently re-elected to four-year terms that officially began Sunday.

Morales was appointed to serve as the district's voting delegate for electing members to the County Committee on School District Organization.

Vind, a Diamond Bar resident, is sales manager for Douglas Oil Co. of California. "I see a couple of questionable areas we'll have to deal with in the near future; long-range planning and student housing," Vind said in accepting the new position.

Before his election to the board Vind served as president of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, was a board member of the United Way and the Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA and is past president of the Diamond Bar Community Council.

Firm ordered to halt sale of Pertussin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration Monday ordered the recall of Pertussin Nighttime Medicated Vaporizer Spray, which has been linked to 18 deaths in five years.

The maker of the product, Cheseborough-Ponds Inc. of Greenwich, Conn., told the FDA it would comply with the order. It said it already had stopped sales.

A non-prescription remedy, the spray is labeled for temporary relief of nasal congestion.

In a statement, the FDA said it believed the "hazard potential" in the Pertussin aerosol was an ingredient called 1,1,1-trichloroethane, which was used to help dissolve the medicinal ingredients into spray form.

The company said the 18 deaths reported since 1968 were caused by "either gross misuse or abuse of the vaporizer product." Cheseborough-Ponds said it had sold 30 million units of the product in 14 years.

Seventeen of the deaths were "clearly" caused by misuse, the FDA said, but the 18th— that of a five-year-old girl in Cleveland April 18—was not under conditions that could be considered abusive.

The agency said it recommended that consumers discard or return tt the place of purchase all available cans of the spray. It said the recall did not apply to any other nonprescription cold remedies in the Pertussin line.

Banks hike prime interest rates

NEW YORK (UPI) A one-quarter of a per cent increase to 8 per cent in the interest rate banks charge preferred business customers was touched off Monday by a similar boost in the price the Federal Reserve charges the banks to use its money.

Among those increasing the rate for prime business loans to 8 per cent was the Bank of America, the nation's largest. Some money experts predicted the rate would move up again and go even higher than the 8 ½ per cent charged in 1969 and 1970.

The Federal Reserve last week raised its discount rate— the charge to the commercial banks on money borrowed from the Federal Reserve—from 6 ½ to 7 per cent.

Girard Trust Co. of Philadelphia announced the jump to 8 per cent in the prime rate during the weekend.

Among other big banks going to 8 per cent Monday were First National City Bank, Chase Manhattan, Chemical Irving Trust, Manufacturers Hanover, Bankers Trust, U.S. Trust and Marine Midland Trust, all of New York.

Also, First National Bank of Boston; Philadelphia National, First Pennsylvania and Central Penn National of Philadelphia; Mellon Bank and Pittsburgh National at Pittsburgh; Cleveland Trust of Cleveland; Northern Trust, Harris Trust and Continental National in Chicago; City National, Bank of the Commonwealth, National Bank of Detroit, Detroit Bank & Trust and Manufacturers National, all of Detroit; Mercantile Trust and First Naitonal of St. Louis; Commerce Bank, First National and United Missouri Bank of Kansas City; Security Pacific National and United California Bank of Los Angeles, and Crocker Bank, Wells Fargo, Union Bank of California and Bank of California, all of San Francisco.

PUBLIC NOTICE

in the City of La Verne, County of Los Angeles, State of California, as per map recorded in Book 18, Pages 9 to 14, inclusive, of Miscellaneous Records, in the office of the County Recorder of said County. This is a residence property which is also known as 2042 7th Street, La Verne, California.

We can do more for you than any other bank.

(even if you can't find the scissors)

You see, we have more services than other banks. Not that you'll use them all. You won't. But it's nice to know every banking need imaginable is covered. And under one roof.
More likely, you'll be into things that make day-to-day living simpler.
Like the services we describe below.
Of course, of greatest importance is how we view the banking relationship. It colors everything we do.

Courteous personal service:

We feel banking is a person-to-person matter. So we value the human touch. With us, your needs are as individual as you are. That's why personal service has always been important at Bank of America.

Personal Choice Checking and Savings:

We have four checking plans to choose from. Beautiful scenic checks, too. And we offer many different savings plans. For example, our regular savings account gives you in-and-out flexibility. And our three Investors Passbooks earn you 5¾% annually for two years, 5½% for one year, 5% annual interest for 90 days. $500 minimum deposit.

Simplified monthly statement:

This statement simplifies balancing your checking account. We call it the Timesaver® Statement. It can even include a summary of your savings accounts and other information if you wish. You can tell at a glance where you stand.

Three ways to finance your car:

Only Bank of America gives you three different ways to finance your car. Ask your auto dealer about our Auto-Magic Financing, the rock-bottom monthly payment plan. Or about leasing.

Then there's our regular auto loan. We've made more of them than any other bank in California. See your dealer or local Bank of America.

Of course, we make loans for just about anything else you can think of, too.

Red Carpet Service:

Our own special system to serve you promptly, save you time. And nobody peers over your shoulder when you transact your business. Most of our offices have it.

Automatic Transfer Service:

Makes regular savings deposits or loan payments for you automatically, from your Bank of America checking account. Saves time, simplifies things. Especially helpful when you're ill or out of town.

More offices up and down the state:

No other bank can say that. Wherever you live or shop or work, you'll always find us close by. So you can cash a check whenever you want. Also, we can transfer your checking and savings accounts wherever you move in the state—save you time and red tape.

BankAmericard:®

For everyday shopping convenience, special occasions or emergencies. Good throughout California, the United States and around the world. One monthly bill helps you keep track of expenses.

3 great coupon offers:

These coupons represent some real banking values.

- Big savings on Bank of America Travelers Cheques.
- A free Family Financial Planning Kit—first-rate help in planning family goals.
- Your first order of 200 scenic or other premium checks—free.

You can see why we think you should bank with us. More services mean greater scope to meet your needs. As you grow, we're with you. Every step of the way. Let's get better acquainted.

Entertainers, fireworks on program at fairgrounds

POMONA — Top recording artists Vessie Simmons and the Fabulous Shirelles and Larry Vincent, the "Seymour" of television fame, will head the list of entertainers at the annual Independence Day fireworks show Wednesday at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

Gates will open at 5 p.m. The entertainment portion will begin at 5:30 with music by the Pomona Concert Band.

Seymour, the host of television horror movies, will perform at 6:45, and the Shirelles at 7:30 p.m. Fireworks displays will start at dusk.

Other performers will include Donnie Brooks and the Shamrocks, actor and Disneyland entertainer John Wheeler, singer Ray Farr and his band, The Clockwork, the folk group, Kids of the Country, and the singing group, Girls Unlimited.

Wheeler will sing the national anthem.

Also appearing will be Miss Pomona Valley Pam Lambine, a Marine Corps color guard from Pico Rivera, a Playboy bunny, and the costumed characters Mickey and Minnie Mouse, the Three Bears, a clown, Frankenstein, the Mummy, the Werewolf and the Skull Man.

Again this year, there will be a firefighting contest held between two Pomona Fire Department engine companies. Wednesday's match will be between engine company 1A, last year's winner, and engine company 2.

Wednesday's will be the fifth July 4 show sponsored by the Pomona Fireman's Association, which uses the proceeds to aid charities and community activities.

The Shirelles have recorded such hits as "Dedicated to the One I Love," "Will You Love Me Tomorrow?," "Tonight's the Night," "Mama Said," and "Soldier Boy."

Brooks' records, "Mission Bell" and "Doll House," sold more than a million copies each.

Tickets are $2 each for adults, $1 for children 14 and under with children two years and younger admitted free.

Speeding cyclist eludes police, is caught later

POMONA — A 19-year-old man was arrested on a reckless driving charge late Monday morning by police who said he lost them earlier on a motorcycle.

Rian Joel Rowe, 1856 Richard St., was arrested near Palomares Park a few minutes after the pursuit which reached 70 to 75 miles an hour. He was spotted near the park by officers who had been alerted during the chase.

The pursuit began on Lincoln Avenue near Sheridan Avenue. Police said Rowe passed their car there at high speed. They said they chased him through an alley paralleling Indian Hill Boulevard to San Bernardino Avenue and then westbound on San Bernardino. At that point the motorcyclist reached 70 to 75 miles an hour, they said. Pursuing officers lost sight of the motorcyclist near the San Bernardino Freeway.

A few minutes later Rowe was seen by other officers near the park. They quoted him as saying he tried to avoid them because he didn't have the registratio papers for the motorcycle. Rowe was released later on his own recognizance and is scheduled for arraignment in Pomona Municipal Court July 13.

Slide program for Camera Club

POMONA — Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lamore will present a taped slide program with a musical background at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Camera Club Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Great Western Savings and Loan Association, 300 Pomona Mall West.

The program will be entitled "The Wonders of Spain, Portugal and Morocco."

It covers a 23-day tour of Costa Del Sol, Seville, Madrid, Malaga, Granada and Cordova in Spain, Tangier, Fex, Marrakech and Robat in Morocco and Lisbon and Guarda in Portugal.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Lamore are members of the camera club. He is a retired pharmacist from Pacific State Hospital. She recently retired as secretary at Magnolia Junior High School in Chino.

Ethnic courses planned for Pomona teachers

POMONA — As mandated by the state Education Code, Pomona schools will offer — probably next fall — teacher inservice training in the history, culture and current problems of racial and ethnic minorities.

Sidney G. Moses, assistant superintendent of educational services, last week told the school board the program has one unique feature.

"At present, we are required to offer this training to teachers. However, they are not required to take it," he explained.

Under sections 13345 through 13349 of the code, such training must be provided personnel working in public schools with 25 per cent or more minority student population. This affects one-third of all California public schools.

"Twenty-two of our district's 30 schools qualify as participating schools for such inservice training,'," said Moses.

The statewide goal is completion of 60 to 90 hours of instruction by certificated staff of mixed and minority schools by the end of the 1975-76 school year.

"In our program design, we must establish goals for district inservice and recommend the curriculum that would accomplish the intergroup needs of participating schools," Moses continued.

He said he would be prepared in a month or six weeks to bring back to the board "a plan we recommend."

The state Department of Education must approve district programs.

Moses said that such inservice training, to be conducted either by school districts or colleges and universities, would offer information and learning experiences regarding minority groups and majority-minority relations in order to improve the ability of staff "to provide relevant and effective instruction in schools with 25 to 100 per cent minority enrollment."

Goals, he explained, would include preparing teachers and other school staff members to understand and effectively relate to the history, culture and current problems of students of diverse ethnic backgrounds and their environment.

Film techniques are demonstrated

POMONA — Different films on the art and techniques of film-making are being shown each Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Pomona Public Library as part of a special summer program.

Showings are open to both adults and children free of charge

Toastmasters Club installs new president

POMONA — Alan Carlisle has been installed as the president of Pomona Toastmasters Club 12.

Carlisle, a resident of 1275 Colony Drive, Upland, is the claim department manager of the Kaiser Steel plant in Fontana.

Other officers installed at the meeting were Arthur Sutton as educational vice president, James Dale as administrative vice president, Donald Oberta as secretary, William Kirke as treasurer, and Richard Hermsen as the sergeant at arms.

Toastmaster for the installation meeting at Griswold's in Claremont was John Ball, with Thomas Samaras conducting table topics and Wilson Gillingswaiors serving as chief evaluator. Speakers were Louis Carscaden, Dale, Robert Haage and Sutton.

Haage was judged as top speaker, while Carlisle won the table topics and was judged as the best evaluator and winner of the spark plug.

Rowland plans summer events for teen-agers

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — A special recreation program for teen-agers that includes beach trips, dances and athletic events is being offered by the Rowland Recreation Department's evening program.

The teen program will be held at Alvarado Junior High School and Rincon Junior High School.

Alvarado will be open on Monday and Wednesday evenings and Rincon will be open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings, both from 6 to 9:30. Both schools will be open on alternate Fridays for a dance.

The teen program includes beach trips, crafts, modern dance instruction, table tennis, weight lifting, swimming, dances, drama instruction, Los Angeles Angels ball games, games and tournaments, talent shows and tennis and golf.

Only junior high and high school age students will be allowed to participate in the program. For further information persons may contact the recreation department at (213) 965-2541.

Palomares post goes to Barker

POMONA — E. David Barker, 35, has been named assistant principal at Palomares Junior High School by the school board.

He will assume duties of that position Sept. 1. He will be paid an annual salary of $17,940 on a 10-month basis.

Barker, married and father of one child, has been employed as an assistant boys' vice principal in Los Angeles since 1971. From 1965 to 1971 he taught junior high school in Los Angeles, and in 1962-63 was a high school teacher in Syosset, N.Y.

He earned a B.A. degree in education at Arizona State University, and an M.A. in education at Cal State Los Angeles.

His credentials include a standard secondary, general secondary, standard supervision (principalship 7-12) and secondary school administration.

Boat and trailer stolen in Ontario

ONTARIO — Charles Sylvester of 935 Merced St., reported a $3,500, 18-foot inboard motorboat and a trailer were stolen from in front of his residence Sunday night, according to police reports.

Police said Sylvester described the boat as an 18-foot Tahiti with a 455 cubic inch Oldsmobile inboard engine, painted brown, with a beige top. The trailer is black with mag wheels.

Police said it appeared the boat and trailer were stolen between 9 and 11 Sunday night.

At Ganesha Park

Concert Band will begin new season

POMONA — The Pomona Concert Band will begin its 26th summer concert season with a program in the Ganesha Park bandshell at 8 p.m. Thursday under the direction if founding director, Stanton Selby.

Mayor Ray Lepire will be the guest of honor at the concert which will feature a variety of band selections including "Crown Imperial," "Overture 1812," "The Mosquito's Parade," highlights from "Finian's Rainbow," "El Relicario," and "The Gladiator."

A new fanfare, composed by Selby, will be used in the 10 summer programs.

Officers of the Friends if the Pomona Concert Band will be installed during Thursday's performance. They are Mrs. Harold Harts, president; Mrs. Carson Hawk, first vice president; Mrs. Walter Lawson, second vice president; Mrs. Elma T. Ries, secretary; and Mrs. Paul Schuergens, treasurer.

Commentator for the new season will be LeRoy Hughes, a member of the Friends of the Pomona Concert Band and a soloist for the band's winter concerts. Hughes has been associated with the Valley Community Theater and the Pomona Valley chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

Selby, composer-arranger and conductor, is a professor of music at Mt. San Antonio College. He holds a B.A. degree from San Jose State College and a bachelor of music and a master of music degree from USC.

The Pomona Concert Band, sponsored by the City of Pomona and the Pomona Adult School, was organized in November 1947. Besides its summer concert program, the band also performs at major civic events, at concerts in neighboring cities and at state institutions.

Concerts this year have included programs at the Pomona Cemetery on Memorial Day, the Four Arts Festival on the Pomona Civic Center Mall, Ruth Hardy Park in Palm Springs and at the Louis Phillips Mansion during the Historical Society barbecue.

Future performances will be given at the Pomona Firemen's July 4 fireworks show at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, Pearson Park in Anaheim, Covina City Park, in July; Constitution Observance program at Ganesha Park, Ruth Hardy Park in Palm Springs and the Los Angeles County Fair in September.

Deputy retires after 20 years with sheriff

LA PUENTE — Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess has announced the retirement of Deputy Ernest B. Kritzman of La Puente after 20 years of service with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

Kritzman entered county service in 1952 and has held assignments in the patrol, jail and detective divisions. He was an investigator in the major crimes bureau, auto-theft detail, upon his retirement.

"The diligence and efficiency with which Deputy Kritzman has conducted himself during his service with the county reflects a commendable dedication to duty and a willingness to serve this department and the citizens of the community," Pitchess said.

Ellison elected to Phi Beta Kappa

POMONA — Gregg A. Ellison of 1105 N. San Antonio Ave., a student at USC, has been elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

Ellison, a pre-med student, was among 89 students chosen for the honor on the basis of academic excellence.

Deputy district attorney Arthur Cabaniss retires

POMONA — Deputy Dist Atty. Arthur R. Cabaniss, 52, of the local office of the district attorney, is retiring after 24 years of county service as a deputy sheriff, court clerk and deputy DA.

Cabaniss joined the sheriff's department in February of 1949 and left five years later to become a Superior Court clerk. In 1965 he left that post to become a deputy district attorney. During those earlier years he attended USC and Southwestern University, where he obtained his law degree.

Cabaniss served with the U.S. Marine Corps from March of 1942 to March of 1946. He was recalled in 1950 and served another year.

He and his wife, Joanne Miller Cabaniss, have three children and live in Newport Beach.

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — Despite pleadings by a spokesman for the 138-member Pomona Police Officers' Relief Association, the City Council Monday night declined to become directly involved in salary negotiations and showed no signs of budging from its earlier offer of a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase.

The association through its attorney, Stephen Silver, pressed for assurances that the council's chief representative at future negotiations would not stick to the council's "firm and unbending position."

Unless the council's chief negotiator, personnel officer Sidney Simms, is allowed to exercise his own judgment, said Silver, future negotiations would be a waste of time and "would result in a much more serious morale problem."

Mayor Ray J. Lepire responded time and time again that Simms was authorized to negotiate according to terms set by the council.

Silver raised the matter during the audience communications portion at the end of the council meeting. A number of police officers and members of their families attended.

Silver said that at two formal meetings and at a session with a state conciliator, "the city has taken only one position and has not departed from it."

At one point, Lepire interrrupted Silver to ask if the latter had evidence to support the attorney's remarks that the city was not interested in the needs and problems of police officers who, put it, is Silver "each day wake up in the morning and put their lives on the line."

Silver repeated his earlier contention that the city had not met and conferred in good faith, a point later challenged by Lepire and Councilman Charles W. Bader.

Some members of the audience had already walked out when former Fire Chief Harry Williamson began talking about paying city employes wages comparable to county employes.

Williamson said he was speaking as a citizen and taxpayer and said the city tax rate should have been raised so that sufficient funds were available for adequate salary increases.

Williamson said in the past the city had trained public safety personnel only to lose them later to county government because of the higher county salaries.

Williamson urged cities in the county to band together and tell the "Board of Supervisors where the hell to get off."

Some of the persons who had left the meeting returned.

Bader agreed police, firemen and other city employes were doing a good job but disagreed that the council was "not interested" in the city's employes.

Bader said total compensation paid a patrolman had increased more than 15 per cent in 1970, 5.5 per cent in 1971 and more than 17 per cent in 1972, or about 40 per cent in the last three years.

In the last year, Bader continued, retirement benefits cost about one half million dollars "and you know we caught hell doing it."

"When one of the ploys is to attack our negotiator personally, I don't think that fair either," said Bader.

Lepire said this fiscal year's budget was up some $1.5 million from the previous year with almost $1 million going to the police and fire departments.

Of that $1 million, Lepire continued, about 75 per cent was earmarked for wages and fringe benefits, "so I believe we have been concerned."

E. J. Gaulding, a planning commissioner, praised the council for being thorough and considerate during the budget sessions.

Sure enough, ill wind blows good

Good old American enterprise is being tested but has not yet been found wanting in the current energy crisis. Or to put it another way, in adversity there is always opportunity, public relations-wise.

For example, the Highway Users Federation, which is not dedicated to the disuse of the nation's streets and highways, reports that according to a study it conducted, buses and cars carrying two or more persons provide the most economic means of commuting.

When all economic costs were considered, including the capital costs for purchases of the vehicles, parking costs and all costs related to construction, maintenance and operation of highways and facilities for bus and rail transit, rail transit trips were found to be the most expensive of all means of commuting (except for an automobile carrying only a driver).

Thus the best answer to the problem of traffic congestion, as well as the gasoline pinch, may be to "pool it."

Another organization, the Recreational Vehicle Institute, has also put out a release.

Disturbed at reports that many people are reluctant to plan summer vacations and weekend trips out of concern for the energy shortage, or are delaying purchases of recreational vehicles for the same reason, it claims that a family on vacation with a recreational vehicle uses less than one-fourth the amount of energy consumed at home.

"A family of four living in an average-size home normally uses around four times more electricity and natural gas than the same family on vacation," says the Institute's president Robert L. Stewart.

And as far as gasoline is concerned, he points out that with 1973 pollution control equipment, there is little difference between a 1973 sedan and a medium motor home or a car towing an average-sized travel trailer.

Where this leaves the person with a large-sized motor home or both a 1973 sedan AND a trailer is not quite clear.

Maybe we had better think about pooling our vacations, too.

Try state's way

If the federal government wants to provide an even higher quality environmental protection, conserve scarce oil resources, and cut very substantially the inevitable cost to the consumer, it should revise its 1975 regulations on gasoline to conform with the California code.

That seems to be the consensus of many oil company executives.

The federal rules demand production by 1975 of lead-free gasoline for all automobiles. This can be done, certainly, but at a huge cost in new plant and equipment and the monitoring of all fuel for traces of lead — costs that would have to be absorbed by stockholders and consumers alike.

Additionally, it is estimated that the 1975 federal regulations will force refineries to use an unbelievable 1.5 million more gallons of crude oil daily than they would need to without the lead-free rule. In a time when we are facing a high dependency upon risky imports such an increase hardly seems to be sound economic policy.

In contrast, according to oil men, the California code — a tough one — would achieve even greater environemtal protection than the federal plan, and do it at lower cost. Because it does not require catalytic converters or unleaded fuel the state's code "would mean a savings of $5 billion a year for consumers," according to Wayne E. Glenn, president of Continental Oil Company, in an interview with Motor Magazine.

R. B. Phillips, executive vice president of Gulf Oil believes an "economically feasible solution to automotive emissions could be achieved without requiring removal of lead from gasoline. The 1975 California standards are believed to be more realistic than the federal, and severe enough to meet the requirements of the state with the worst automotive emission problem."

In view of the high cost in money and oil, federal environmental protection standards should indeed be carefully studied before enforcement. As one oil man put it, if California — the most affected state —can live with its new, less costly standards, why can't the nation?

13th Friday

This year offers us two of those days dedicated to superstitious fear and trembling; those Fridays the 13th when black cats are especially to be avoided, broken mirrors presage an especially virulent ill omen and bad luck is expected to rule the day.

But who cares?

Not, evidently, the gal fliers. They'll start their annual Poweder Puff Derby on July 13 this year to see who can get from Palomar Airport at Carlsbad to Chemung County Airport, Elmira, New York the fastest.

While keeping our fingers crossed that Friday we'll wish them happy takeoffs and especially happy landings.

Navy's 'Captain Marvel' to rescue

WASHINGTON — In a budget-cutting spree this year, the White House came within a few million dollars of crippling the nation's first line of defense, the nuclear submarine fleet.

The story is detailed in bright red-striped and blue-bordered Pentagon security folders. Secret testimony has been taken by Rep. John Murphy's coast guard subcommittee, which saved the subs.

The hero of the piece is a mysterious Navy officer who called himself "Captain Marvel" and phoned from pay booths to alert Congress to a threat to the subs' navigational systems.

At issue was a worldwide network of transmitters run by the Coast Guard. These vital transmitters, called Loran-A and Loran-C for "long-range navigation," give ships and planes a radio beam to "home" on so they can establish their locations. More importantly for national security, the missile-bearing Polaris and Poseidon subs use the beams not only to determine where they are, but to target their ballistic bombs in case of enemy attack.

Drop in bucket

The Coast Guard asked for $24 million to repair and expand Loran-C and to keep sections of Loran-A going until December 1974, when the subs convert to Loran-C and other systems. This is a drop in the bucket compared to the Pentagon's $85-billion a year budget.

The budget boys at the White House, without understanding what they were doing, killed the $24 million.

The news panicked the airlines, which counted up 150 Pacific flights that would have to be cancelled or rerouted. There were anguished howls, too, from the governors of Hawaii and Alaska, as well as the Canadian government.

But the deepest shock was felt inside the Pentagon. The Air Force, for example, has 600 planes, including B52s, which operate in South Pacific areas and depend heavily upon the Loran system for navigation. In the Mediterranean, the targeting of U.S. missiles at Russian sites would deteriorate seriously without the money.

Main target

The Joint Chiefs, without informing the White House, quietly dispatched the mysterious "Captain Marvel" and three other top emissaries in civilian clothes to spread the alarm in Congress. Their main target was Murphy's coast guard committee which handles Loran authorizations.

During open hearings, Murphy spotted the four "civilians," looking agitated, in the back of the room. Finally, a subcommittee staffer checked out the odd quartet. "Just call me Captain Marvel," said their leader, using the name of a comic strip character who accomplishes miracles with the magic word "SHAZAM." But when pressed, he finally produced his Joint Chiefs of Staff "ID" card.

Once in contact with Murphy, "Marvel's" story tumbled out. The White House cuts would not only destroy the two Lorans, but would cripple Polaris and Poseidon subs and other warships in vast stretches of the South Pacific, leaving them vulnerable to attack.

The cuts would also endanger them in waters off the West Coast. Without at least $2 million, Murphy was told, the subs would have to bunch from time to time in the Pacific at least until December 1974, making them sitting ducks for a strike.

Feared exposure

Although "Captain Marvel" was unwilling to lunch openly with Murphy for fear the White House would learn of his mission, he agreed to cooperate with Murphy. When Murphy's staff left a prearranged name with "Marvel," the officer went to a payphone which he hoped would be free of the Pentagon's internal tapping. From there, he called back, using his comic strip nickname.

In such cloak-and-dagger fashion, Murphy was tipped off what information to request from the Joint Chiefs' staff. In response, he received a classified letter from the Defense Department's general counsel, Fred Buzhardt, stressing the need for a navigational system. "Curtailment . . . will have an adverse operational impact on the military user forces," wrote Buzhardt. "Designated missions" would be hampered, he said.

Armed with Buzhardt's powerful four-page message, Murphy was able to bulldoze the administration into restoring the vital $2 million for Loran-A operations in the South Pacific. Then, he summoned the subcommittee into secret session to restore the remaining $22 million. "The Department of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff have made very strong representations to me," he confided to his subocmmittee members behind closed doors. "The OMB, against the request of. . .Defense, did cut those funds. . ., it fell under the red pencil."

The subcommittee restored the money, then Murphy sought new ammunition to make sure it got through the full House Merchant Marine Committee headed by Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., a dedicated scrutinizer of spending.

PAUL HARVEY

Nader doesn't have to be right

Ralph Nader filed one of those class-action lawsuits seeking to shut down 20 of our nation's nuclear power plants. Anybody can thus shut down vast segments of our nation's economy — and they don't have to be right.

Under the questionable legal umbrella of the so-called "class suit," individuals, capriciously or maliciously, may cripple our country — and they have nothing to lose. Without risking a dime, they may press for injunctions and other blockages.

For example, at this moment dozens of nuclear power plants have been halted in various stages of completion because of environmental lawsuits. The value of these projects exceeds a billion dollars. The annual loss, because of the tie-ups, runs into hundreds of millions of dollars.

And the tie-ups further curtail potential power for 15 states which already face acute shortages of power.

Now along comes Nader seeking to shut down existing nuclear power plants — in the name of "public safety" — though not one mishap has harmed even one "public" in more than 20 years of operation.

Some of the suers paralyzing progress in the name of ecology are also in the forefront of those protesting our 5 per cent unemployment. They can't have it both ways.

It is their opposition which halted the $69 million Tellico Dam in Tennessee at a loss of thousands of jobs.

When the $100 million Cross-Florida Barge Canal project was canceled, thousands of jobs were lost.

When the multimillion-dollar Gilham Dam in Arkansas was scuttled, more thousands were put out of work.

Additionally, hundreds of other carefully engineered projects and programs have been brought to a halt throughout the 50 states. Never before have so few conspired to deny jobs to so many.

And while there is much castigation and condemnation of "big industry" for ignoring the rights and needs of workers, how about the "professional consumers" who are building big businesses for themselves by tearing others down?

Publisher Charles Gould of the San Francisco Examiner urgently recommends that the individuals and organizations willing to stop the clock and diminish further our already critical supply of power at least should be bonded so that those unfairly harmed by them could recover damages.

As it is, anybody can, without risking one dollar of his own money, jeopardize millions — billions — of yours.

Church in politics

Your article of June 21st quotes the Methodist League in its 123rd annual conference at Redlands, calling for "political awareness."

Church ventures into politics have had some sad results, for example the crucifixion of Jesus. More recently they have demonstrated how destructive "non violence" could be. Many feel our increase in crime is the result of improper church leadership.

Watergate has bugged a lot of us. As Christians we should avail ourselves of Scripture. The passages "judge not less you be judged" and "let him who is guiltless cast the first stone" come to mind. Common sense should lead us to discount hearsay.

During a prior program our pastor, preaching on hate, said we should love our enemies, even communists, but that an exception might be made for "Birchers." Probably said in jest, it did reflect some church thinking at the time.

To question the "integrity" of either church or state leaders is unrealistic. Misguided they may be on occasion. When such occasions arise we should offer our constructive criticism. Witch hunts are not the answer. — Ray O. Swanson, Pomona.

Gossip for today

Who says our legislators aren't concerned? Who can deny that they aren't courageously taking a definite stand in order to make certain that no more tax loopholes will creep into our State income tax rules and regulations? What better proof does one need of their noble efforts in this regard than the fact that Assembly Bill 870, which would have permitted dog and cat owners to deduct the medical expenses of their pets from their state income taxes, failed in committee by a vote of 5 to 3? After all this decision will undoubtedly cost those five assemblymen who voted NO a large share of the pet owners' vote come next election. — But how refreshing it is in these trying times to learn that, at the state level at least, there are some politicians who aren't about to let political leadership go to the dogs just for the sake of a few votes.

INSIDE REPORT

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — Before the Watergate scandal broke open this spring, the Justice Department's investigation of Nixon campaign "dirty tricks" in the 1972 Florida presidential primary either ignored or suppressed a key FBI report—possibilities under study by forthcoming Senate and federal probes of Nixon administration prosecution, or lack of it, of illegal political espionage.

On March 5, 1973, U.S. Atty. John L. Briggs of Jacksonville, Fla., wrote Sen. Henry M. Jackson that an investigation of a scurrilous letter about him had been completed without success. Yet, according to high FBI officials, a Feb. 6, 1973, FBI report provided enough information to lead to indictments. Indeed, once the Watergate scandal cracked, Nixon political espionage chief Donald Segretti was indicted in Florida May 5.

The Feb. 6 FBI report is now in the hands of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. Moreover, Sen. Sam Ervin's Watergate committee plans autumn hearings into the Segretti operation. Inevitably, both inquiries will judge political slanting of law enforcement.

Two opponents falsely accused

The Florida case involves a spurious March 1972 letter on the campaign letterhead of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, falsely accusing two Florida primary opponents, Jackson and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, of illicit sexual acts. A Florida Jackson supporter promptly supplied a copy to the U. S. Attorney's office.

But Briggs, an ardent Republican, did not request an FBI investigation until last October when a column by Jack anderson revealed Jackson's request. Even then, Briggs declared it "absurd" to connect the letter with Republicans or the Nixon administration (a judgment he now admits was based on no facts).

On Feb. 8, Jackson wrote Briggs jogging him about the investigation. Briggs's original reply was so insulting, according to Justice Department sources, that it was "cleaned up" in Washington before delivery to the Senator. The sanitized version, dated March 5, informed Jackson the investigation "has now been completed and we have been unable to establish the identities of" who wrote the letter.

An enclosed eight-paragraph investigative summary dealt mostly with Briggs's inability to pin the letter on a right-wing extremist. After disposing of this red herring in seven paragraphs, Briggs's eighth paragraph asserted that Patricia Griffin, a Muskie headquarters employe, was questioned and "denied any knowledge" of the letter.

But strangely, as Watergate unraveled, Briggs's office stepped up prosecution of the Florida case so successfully that on May 5 a grand jury indicted Segretti and another man. Two Nixon operatives directly involved, Miss Griffin and young Republican leader Robert Benz of Tampa, testified before the grand jury (Benz under immunity) and were not indicted.

Why so fruitful in May when the investigation was so barren in March? Biggs told us he received unspecified new information.

Report lacked evidence

In fact, high FBI officials have informed us their investigation, begun Oct. 21, 1972, was essentially completed in late January. The "final" report was dated Feb. 26, 1973, although there were later supplementary reports. According to these sources, the report by itself did not provide sufficient evidence for indictments but did give any self-respecting prosecuting attorney obvious paths to follow.

The FBI report contained much material about Benz and Miss Griffin. The implication, according to FBI sources, was that if these two young people were summoned before a grand jury, they probably would tell all. Indeed, most details of the case were reported in newspapers the previous October—duly noted in the FBI report. But nine of this was in Briggs's report to Jackson. Nor did Briggs reveal that Miss Griffin, on advice of counsel, refused to answer FBI agents' questions.

Justice Department sources told us they "believe" the FBI sent its report to Briggs. However, FBI sources told us the Bureau sent it to the Justice Department's criminal division, headed by Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen, but not to Briggs. A source close to Briggs denied that Briggs has seen the Feb. 6 report—or any "final" FBI report—to this very day.

This leaves two possibilities: Briggs saw the Feb. 6 report and ignored it until Watergate erupted; or he never saw it at all. In either event, the Justice Department, which deleted rough language from Briggs's March 5 letter, went along with his barren investigative summary, omitting vital information developed by the FBI.

This one aspect of the Justice Department's investigation of Segretti's nationwide operations suggests many things: blind partisanship, stunning incompetence, a possible cover-up. The story of how the Nixon administration enforced the law is still unfolding.

Berry's world

"His solution to the Watergate problem is so obvious — shoot all suspects, and put all investigators into insane asylums."

Walnut councilmen adopt record $721,087 budget

WALNUT — Councilmen have adopted a record $721,087 city budget here providing a 10 per cent salary hike for city employes, $85,000 for park development and maintenance and a continuation of last year's 87 cents per $100 of assessed valuation tax rate.

In Friday's final budget study session the council also cut funds for a full-time city planner, deciding to continue with the $15,240 a year county planning service.

The $85,000 budgeted for park development is in line with recent council action placing strict park development requirements on all Walnut subdivisions.

The city anticipates more than $50,000 of the $85,000 total to come from park dedication fees levied on all new subdivisions here. Builders are required to donate land or money for park development. With several large housing tracts now under construction and others in the planning stages the park development fund has swollen in recent months, officials said.

The park fund would cover park development, maintenance and equipment.

Councilmen have also provided funds under the planning portion of the budget for general plan studies for a Walnut Civic Center, City Manager Andy Lazzaretto said.

The full-time planner was on top of Mayor Richard Laughter's list of budget priorities. Councilmen said they could not warrant a full-time planner at this time, however.

Also cut from the budget was $6,000 for the city's first garbage collection franchise, another Laughter proposal. Councilmen recently adopted an ordinance permitting the issuance of a franchise but didn't award it to any contractor.

The salary hike for Walnut's eight employes was tagged on the budget just before Friday's fourth and final study session. "We have lagged in city employe salaries in the last couple of years," Lazzaretto said. The employes were also seeking increased medical benefits, but dropped that request because there are few group medical plans for small organizations.

In Rowland District

5 teachers dubbed outstanding

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Five teachers in the Rowland Unified School District have been selected as outstanding elemntary school teachers of America for 1973 and have been nominated to compete for one of five national awards.

Selected by the outstanding educators association for talents in the classroom, contribution to research, administrative abilities, civic service and professional recognition were teachers Bonny Gardner, Anne Hogan, Robert Rice, Roy Pringle and Al Murguia.

Honored for their "exceptional service, achievements and leadership in the field of elementary education," the teachers are now eligible to receive the Outstanding Elementary Teacher of the Year trophy.

In addition to the national trophy, a $500 unrestricted grant will be awarded to the schools represented by America's five outstanding elementary teachers.

Miss Gardner said the "realization that students at the intermediate school level have unique social adjustments" has helped her relate to her students in a positive way. A nine-year teacher, Miss Gardner teaches language arts at Rincon Intermediate School.

Miss Hogan feels a teacher "should get each child involved in his own education rather than to simply talk at them." She has taught language arts for three years at Rincon.

Rice, who says he "enjoys the public service aspect of education," has been named principal at Silvey Ville Elementary School in the Dixon Unified School District in the Davis area. At La Seda School for five years, he has taught fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Pringle, in his fourth year at Alvarado Intermediate, has also been named Industrial Arts Educator of the Year by the Los Angeles County Industrial Education Association. A woodshop teacher, Pringle feels industrial arts classes permit students to "work with their hands."

Murguia is a team teaching leader in math at Alvarado Intermediate School. As a seventh and eighth grade teacher, he coordinates the learning program of eight other teachers at the school.

3 board members to take oaths in Rowland Heights

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Dean F. Anderson, John M. Blackburn and Mrs. Donna N. McGee will be sworn in as school board members by acting chairman Phil Anderson when the board meets tonight at 8.

Immediately following the oath-taking ceremony, a board president, vice president and clerk will be sleerted.

Agenda items for the meeting to follow include discussions on the sale of the Blackman school site and the paving of the district parking lot.

Board members will be asked by the administration to adopt a resolution opposing the concept of collective bargaining for public employes in California.

They will be asked to approve a field trip for approximately 60 educable mentally retarded pupils and their chaperones to the Queen Mary in Long Beach on July 11 at a cost of stme $75.

Pomona High class planning reunion

Additional information may be obtained by calling 629-5850 or 623-2891.

County fire station scheduled for R.H.

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Within the coming year a county fire station will be erected in this community.

County Fire Chief Richard Houts said preliminary plans have been drawn for an approximately $180,000 single-story station to be built on Nogales Street nearly 600 feet north of Colima Road.

Architects were appointed in May, Houts said, and as soon as plans are approved, the project will go to bid. The tentative timetable calls for construction to begin around Nov. 1, and for the station to be ready for occupancy the spring of 1974.

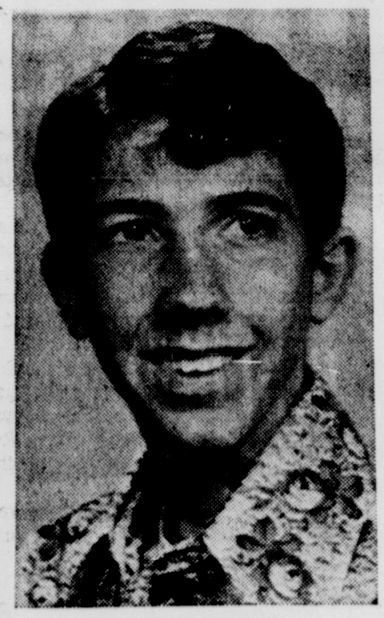
A 5,000-square-foot station is planned to house two pieces of fire-fighting equipment and 12 firemen per shift, Houts said.

This will be Station No. 145 in Los Angeles County.

It will be of architecture comparable to that of the surrounding area, probably of masonary construction.

The Board of Supervisors, at its meeting today was to consider hiring an appraiser to determine the value of the proposed site.

Presently Rowland Heights residents receive fire protection from county Station 43 at Valley Boulevard and Stimson Street and 61 at Valley Boulevard and Fairway Drive in Walnut.



PATRICK STALEY

Student visits family in France

DIAMOND BAR — Patrick Staley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Staley of 24123 Palomino Drive, is spending an American Field Service summer in France.

Staley, who will be a senior at Ganesha High School in Pomona next fall, spent two days in New York City with other U.S. AFS students for orientation meetings.

He left June 25 on a charter flight from New York City to Brussels, then flew to France, where he is living with the Yves Caffin family.

They have four children, Jean, 23, Anne, 18, Claire, 17, and Michel, 16.

The father is a society executive. The family has a home near Paris, a vacation home at the seaside in Britain and a country home in Aisne. Family members enjoy tennis, swimming and horseback riding.

They speak very little English, and Staley does not speak French.

Staley is due to return home in September.

Pomona AFS Chapter has another student abroad. Carol Rusler of Pomona High School is in Brazil.

Fireworks sale to benefit parks

WALNUT — Profits from the sale of fireworks will be used to purchase playground equipment for city parks here if the Walnut Junior Women's Club has its way.

The club is urging Walnut residents to purchase fireworks from the stand it is operating at the intersection of Pierre Road, Carrey Road and Valley Boulevard.

The stand will be open until Wednesday, according to President Ruth Cartwright. Special sale tickets may be purchased from any club member for added discount on the firework assortments from Freedom Fireworks.

50 professional artists preparing for weekend Diamond Bar exhibit

DIAMOND BAR — Art takes the spotlight at Vons Plaza in Diamond Bar with over 50 professional artists exhibiting their art works Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. until sunset.

Each exhibitor has been evaluated by festival coordinator Lynn Weber as among the most important artists in the West.

This festival represents a returning desire among artists to meet the public in person and to escape the commercialism of art galleries.

Foremost among these exhibitors is Bud Rickert, known to millions of moviegoers for his work with Walt Disney on such well-known films as "Pinocchio" and "Fantasia."

TO EXHIBIT ART WORKS

Etcher-engraver Bud Rickert, a native of San Bernardino, will display his art work at Vons Plaza in Diamond Bar Friday through Sunday. Formerly with Walt Disney Studios, Rickert is known for work in classics.

Rickert is a native of San Bernardino, and he is considered among the finest etchers and engravers alive today. Like Durer, Rickert's style runs the gamut from oil and watercolor to pen and ink, but his preference goes to the engraved line.

Rickert's engravings are known for great line control and he brings to Diamond Bar Fine Arts Festival not only his copperplate work, but a collection of new and recent watercolors gathered especially for this event.

Rickert's admiration for Western subjects is much in evidence in his work. He roamed the desert as a young man and rode as a cowboy on ranches from the great California desert to the ocean. His works display keen maturity and his thorough knowledge of the American West has made him one of the finest genre painters of the American tradition.

Rickert has had a long series of one-man shows throughout the West and he has most recently exhibited his works at the Edward Dean Museum.

Riley is a member of the National Society of Art Directors and has produced award-winning works for the Ambassador Coconut Grove and the Ice Capades.

Riley began to paint as a youngster and has done commissioned works for such collectors as TV producer Michael Grilikhes, actress Laraine Day, and Cliff Lewis of Paramount. Riley's work is considered a visible evidence of our American heritage.

Riley's oil paintings have been displayed nationally by the Paulson Galleries and the International Artists Galeries. Because of his flair and use of color, Riley has been called "California's Matisse." His paintings are displayed at Cory Galleries in New York, San Francisco, Honolulu and Paris.

Kruse-Russell vows repeated in church

Miss Karen Lee Russell and Raymond John Kruse Jr. were united in marriage in a Nuptial Mass at Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church in Irwindale.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ruby Russell of Covina. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kruse of Covina.

Miss Pamela Russell was maid of honor and Miss Kathleen Russell was bridesmaid.

Laren Manthy was best man. The usher was Bob Strattan.

A reception at the home of the bride's mother honored the couple. Mrs. Dale Lint handled the guest book and Mrs. Ernest Kruse assisted with the serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Kruse are making their home in Glendora.

The bride attended Northview High School and works at Glendora Hospital.

Mr. Kruse also attended Northview High School. He is employed at Williams Waterproofing and Painting.

Emotions and obesity studied

Psychological factors no doubt bring about obesity in some individuals, says Henry A. Jordan, MD, assistant professor of psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania. However, in all studies done with obese individuals and in all batteries of tests performed, no characteristic personality or problem personality emerges that applies to fat people. In addition, the incidence of psychopathology is approximately the same in obese and normal weight individuals.

Writing in "Obesity and Bariatric Medicine", Dr. Jordan concludes that to date a clear cut relationship between the emotions and obesity has not been adequately demonstrated.

Ask Dr. Brothers

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: This past year, because of my husband's job, we had to move in the middle of the school semester. I think she may have missed something because of this disruption. I would like my 10-year-old daughter to repeat the fifth grade, but her father thinks this would simply slow her down needlessly. Her teachers feel she is an unusually creative child and we have great expectations for her. She is already taking dancing, violin and piano lessons in addition to her regular school work so she has plenty to keep her occupied. — R.G.

Dear R.G.? I don't quite understand why you feel your daughter should repeat a grade. If she is having trouble, it might be wiser to drop some of her extracurricular work for a while so she can use the extra time to catch up, if you feel she's missed out on something.

There's no doubt that moving from one school to another, particularly in mid-term, can be jarring, but I should think that holding her back might be even more disturbing. There are some indications that repeating grades for children does not serve the intended purpose.

A research team from the University of Virginia made a study of 85 repeaters and compared them with children who had been promoted despite inferior grades. They found that even though the repeaters started out with a higher average on the first-grade Metropolitan Readiness Test, their achievement and intelligence deteriorated steadily. By the fourth grade their men I.Q. was 7.7 points below the promoted group and by the sixth grade it was 11.2 points behind. Their research indicates that the long-term effects of holding children back can be very da-

If your child is creative this might have an even more damaging effect. The creative child is usually highly imaginative and highly sensitive to his environment. Being with younger children might give your daughter a feeling that she had suddenly failed in some way. These children might also not offer as much stimulation as she needs.

Studies conducted at the University of Chicago show that creative people are usually very flexible in their thinking, they are able to produce a large number of ideas in response to any problem, they are original thinkers, and able to concentrate in adverse circumstances. If your daughter is creative, she will undoubtedly catch up in a relatively short time if she has missed anything of importance.

Many parents are apt to pressure their children, especially if they show talent or any ususual aptitude. They may try to relive their own lives through their children. This prevents the children from developing at their own pace and in their own way Some children rebel, becoming school dropouts or highly reluctant learners.

Parents who really want to help their children develop potential allow them a certain freedom of choice, respect them as individuals separate from their parents and while interested in the child's learning they do not dictate the path.

Remember, every child has only one childhood. Don't overcrowd your daughter with too much discipline and too many assignments. The creative child, like any other child, needs time to enjoy and to observe the world around him.

MRS. GUY EISENBREY

Eisenbrey, Tuscher rites read

Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Montclair was the setting for the marriage of Miss Angela Christine Tuscher and Guy Edward Eisenbrey.

The Rev. Joseph C. Mackey and the Rev. Charles Sinatra concelebrated the Mass uniting the daugher of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Tuscher Jr. of Montclair and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Eisenbrey of Montclair.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore an A-line gown of chiffon trimmed with venise lace and a pleated ruffle. A Juliet cap of matching lace held the bride's veil which was trimmed with daisies.

Daisies, baby roses and baby's breath were arranged in the bridal bouquet.

Miss Sue Tuscher was maid of honor for her sister. The junior bridesmaid was another siter, Marianne Tusher. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Irene Bower, Miss Nancy Eisenbrey, sister of the groom, Mrs. Patricia Betts and Miss Donna Anderson.

A brother and sister of the bride, Joanna Tuscher and Stephen Tuscher, were flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

Serving as best man was Chuck Bower and as ushers, Gary Godsil, David Eisenbrey, brother of the groom, Bert Karrer and Kenneth Sperry. John Tuscher, brother of the bride, was junior usher.

After a honeymoon in San Diego and San Simeon, Mr. and Mrs. Eisenbrey will reside in Montclair.

Important hats

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I have rarely worn a hat in my adult years, except in very cold weather or hot sun. Hats have never been a part of my life. I am tempted for the first time, however, to change my hair styling so I can wear the attractive hats I now see—the soft cloches and even the Panamas—offered by smart stores. Somehow hats look right again, and those flower-covered matronly jobs are gone. Hats look young. What's going on? — Mrs. G.F., Boston, Mass."

I saw the Guy LaRoche fashion show at the newly redecorated Starlight Roof at the Waldorf on Palm Sunday, and virtually every costume had its own hat. Even the turban has returned.

The hairstyles, of course, make the difference. You could not wear hats like these on top of bouffant hair. Although many women cannot wear their hair flat to the scalp, but must have a little back-combing, bouffant is definitely "out."

What is "in" is the Great Gatsby look—the cloche, pleated swinging skirts to the knee and the broad-brimmed felts (for men, also). A good, fresh and definitely young look.

The new hats are not worn over wigs or teased hair. So if you are tempted to try a hat, have a heart-to-heart talk with the best hairdresser in town.

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am going to Boston for quite a few social functions. Can you describe the best choice of dress styles (especially sleeves, colors and fabrics) for summer luncheons, teas and restaurant dining. The proper sleeve length has always puzzled me—summer or winter, East or West.—Mrs. W. S., Toledo, Ohio."

If your arms are firm, sleeveless dresses, particularly in the smmer and spring, are certainly all right in Boston or elsewhere for the functions that you mention. Sleevelessness is also possible in the winter months, especially with wool dresses, and many women like them. If your arms are a problem, however, stick to short, three-quarter lenth or long sleeves.

Wear colors that are becoming to you and with which your accessories can be co-ordinated. There are few hard and fast rules any more about fabrics: cotton for summer, for example, and wool for winter. These fabrics are worn year around, so in this you should suit yourself.

DEAR MISS VANDERBILT: I am going out of my mind trying to find support pantyhose for my figure. I am a petite size with very large hips caused by water retention. I cannot wear anything tight or my legs burn. I'm under a doctor's care. Does any firm make pantyhose for the odd-size figure?—E. A., Hartford, Conn."

I called Hanes for you. Their "Alive" support stockings come in a Plus E for women 4-11" to 5'3", 145 to 175 pounds, and a Plus F for women 5'3' to 57, 160 to 190 pounds. Most shops which sell this brand have these special sizes.

It is important that you get the size that you need. If necessary, most stores will special order for you, especially if you want more than one pair. Your problem is very common. I would be interested in hearing from other manufacturers who can supply sizes which has these in support pantyhose.

LET'S ASK THE COOK by Nan Wiley

DEAR NAN:

We were visiting some friends in another city recently and our hosts served a perfectly elegant dinner which was charcoaled on the grill. This was not unusual, but the "meat" was seafood. I never knew you could grill seafood!

Mrs. McAvoy

Dear Mrs. McAvoy:

Holy mackerel! Have you ever been missing something. Grilling seafood outdoors is not really new, but it is naturally not as popular as grilling steaks and other meats. After all, do you think the American Indians cooked their fish on electric ranges?

The next time you have friends over for a cookout try this for size: Grilled frogs legs and prawns or shrimp. (Prawns are really big shrimp with bigger tummies.)

The real secret to this job is the preparation of a marinade. After you have shelled and deveined the prawns, stripped the skin from the legs of the frogs and clipped the feet if they are still attached, submerge the entire collection in this.

1 cup butter
4 tablespoons olive oil
4 tablespoons steak sauce
8 to 12 crushed garlic cloves
2 tablespoons chopped onions
2 teaspoons each of crushed celery seeds, tarragon, basil
5 tablespoons white wine (I use vermouth)
1 tablespoon fresh lemon.

Let it all marinate for a couple of hours before grilling.

Listen carefully now or you'll be trying to pick up your dinner from the charcoal rather than from the grill. Use a steak basket. One of those long-handled deals that people use when cooking hamburgers or hotdogs or steaks over an open fire in the woods. Open this gadget and place the legs and prawns side by side. Do not pile on top of each other or they won't get the same amount of heat, will they?

When your fire is hotter than the desert floor in August lay the basket on your grill. It should flame like mad. Turn the basket in a minute or so. Repeat for about five or six minutes. It won't take long to cook this as the prawns or shrimp and frogs legs are very delicate.

The basket is important for the above reason, but also because you can turn the entire dinner at one time. Imagine having to handle a couple dozen little frogs legs and shrimps individually.

And the reason for cooking frogs and shrimp is that some of your guests may turn up their noses at one or the other. This way they have an alternative and you have a table of happy eaters.

Nan Wiley regrets that she cannot provide personal answers to your cooking questions, but questions of general interest will be answered in her column. Address your questions to Nan Wiley in care of Progress-Bulletin, 715 Locust St., Des Moines, Iowa 50304

Two trees used

BERKELEY (UPI) — The average American family now uses the equivalent of two Douglas fir trees a year for lumber, plywood pulp and paper products.

Dr. John A. Zivnuska, forestry dean at the University of California, made the estimate. He said the trees would each be 20 inches in diameter and 150 feet high.

Osteen surprised by Dodgers' start

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Claude Osteen, the third $100,000 pitcher in Dodger history, admits it.

He's surprised.

"This isn't what I thought was ahead for us in spring training," the 33-year-old lefthander said with a grin. "Just put down I'm pleasantly surprised."

In baseball's fourth month, with the All-Star game three weeks away, the young Los Angeles Dodgers find themselves with the best record in either league and in first place by a comfortable margin in the National League West.

A 20-game winner in two of the last three seasons, Osteen is 10-3 with seven straight wins as the Dodgers launch a two-week home stand against the San Diego Padres tonight.

"Because of our age, I thought it would take us longer to get going," said the senior member of the five-man Dodger starting rotation. "There's a lot of pressure when you're a young player and we might have been nervous when the season started but we don't act nervous any more."

A member of the Dodgers since 1965, Osteen suffered along with Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale when the club lacked a run-scoring punch. Last season the Dodger pitching was hurt by a defense which led the National League with 162 errors.

It's different now.

"Our defense has been outstanding," the veteran southpaw said. "Particularly the infield. The kids have just made up their minds to relax and that's the way it's been.

"It's a great feeling to know that you're going to go out and get the runs now. This is the first time this club has been able to explode like this since I've been here.

"When we get three or four runs down this year, it's not impossible for us to come back. We've been doing it all season, in fact. It's sure different from the years when we relied on a walk, stolen base, sacrifice and sacrifice fly for a run and a win."

The rapport between the young players and the veterans is good, he said.

"I think the kids look up to us and depend on us to keep things going," Osteen declared. "That's not to say they're not confident. They are. This is a very good blend of youth and experience."

The 16-year big league veteran is a craftsman who wins with finesse.

Now 174-160 in a career that began with the Cincinnati Reds, he isn't surprised at one facet of the 1973 Dodgers—the pitching.

Of his own record, a mark which figures to put him in his second All-Star game, Osteen said:

"I've pitched well but I've also had a lot of offensive support. My control has been good and that's the big thing as far as I'm concerned."

Although he played in two World Series (1965 and 1966), he considers the 1970 All-Star game as his biggest moment in baseball. He shut out the American League for three innings and got the win.

The Tennessee native will be 34 next month but is shooting for a career total of 200 victories before he leaves the game.

"Generally," he added, "I like to think in terms of 20 wins a season but if I don't get 20 I'm not going to cry. Right now I'm not thinking beyond my next start and my next win."

BACK SAFELY

First baseman Dave Alexander of La Verne Post 330 can't get Palo Alto's Randy Rhodes in time in pick-off play at first base. La Verne won, 8-1, to win Upland Tournament championship.

Perez pays back Brewer, Dodgers greet Padres

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Jim Brewer, the Los Angeles Dodgers' lefthanded relief ace, has been one of Tony Perez's No. 1 tormentors ever since the Cincinnati Reds slugging first baseman made the major league scene nine years ago.

Perez gained partial revenge against Brewer Monday night when he tagged the veteran lefty for a two-run homer in the ninth inning to give the Reds a 4-2 victory over the Ddogers.

It was the Reds third victory in the four-game series and left them eight games off the pace of the leaders in the National League West as they open a three-game home series with the San Francisco Giants tonight.

The league-leading Dodgers return to California for the start today of a three-day stand in San Diego against the Padres, who beat Houston 8-5 Monday night.

"Just like old times," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson. "That is the way we came from behind in 1970 and '72."

Anderson isn't ready to say that the Reds are off and running toward their third pennant in four years.

"But, at least we've got the feeling we are back in the race," Sparky said. "If the Dodgers had swept four in a row, it would have been awfully tough to come off the floor."

The Dodgers only victory came in the series opener last Saturday when the Reds squandered a 5-1 lead.

"I have to think that after that game, some of those Dodgers thought they would polish us off four in a row and it would be all over for us," said Anderson.

But Perez can remember only a couple of hits off Brewer and none was a homer.

"Tonight is the first time I can ever remember Brewer hanging a screwball for me," Perez said.

The victory went to Don Gullett, who blanked the Dodgers with two hits the last three innings.

The victory was the eighth against seven losses for Gullett, who, according to Anderson, will now become a permanent member of the Reds' bull pen.

"I have to believe that Don is still suffering from the after effects of his bout last year with subsiding hepatitis," Anderson said. "Pitching in relief, he can go all out without fear of tiring."

Tommy Hall will replace Gullett in the Reds' starting rotation.

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND— Jim Vallone took the mound at Upland Memorial Park Monday night looking like anything but a sure-fire winner.

Ranney's control problems had left things in a state of disarray.

Vallone inherited a bases-loaded, nobody out situation and, what's more, a two-ball count on Palo Alto's clean-up hitter Don Briggs.

Briggs managed a sacrifice fly to score Randy Rhodes, but Vallone shut the door on any further Palo Alto scoring by striking out Tom Vignaw and getting Greg Samcier to fly to right.

That should have been enough to impress any opposing team, but Vallone wasn't through. He lasted five innings, gave up no more runs, yielded only three hits, and struck out eight.

And that's only half the story.

The other half is Vallone's two-run home run in the fifth inning that put La Verne ahead to stay in what eventually became an 8-1 rout.

Of the four victories Post 330 needed to take the tourney, Vallone won three.

All of which was good enough to earn the former Glendora High star the tournament MVP award presented after the game.

Earlier in the evening, Lafayette drubbed Arcadia, 11-3, to win the consolation title.

Gregg Thompson, who caught the first five innings of the game, preserved the victory for his teammate after Vallone had pitched maximum allowable innings under tournament rules.

Thompson pitched the last two frames and gave up two hits, while striking out another pair.

Post 330 shortstop Mark Bumstead picked up two hits in four trips to the plate and scored a run while driving in one. Thompson singled once, walked twice, and scored two runs.

Al Acosta singled in the fourth inning, and scored on a hotly disputed balk call charged to Palo Alto starter Grant Olson. Harold Drake singled and scored in the sixth for La Verne.

Rick Ortega set up Vallone's shot by walking in the fifth and coming in on the home run.

Vallone admitted after the game that he really didn't expect to pitch as early as he was forced to. "I hadn't warmed up," he said. "I wasn't supposed to come in until sometime after the second because I only had five innings left to pitch."

Despite the dire straits Post 330 was in during his walk from right in the first, Vallone wasn't too worried. "I felt good. Maybe it was the air. It's harder to hit the ball at night, and it helped knowing that."

Though Thompson's relief efforts were appreciated, Vallone was sure he could have gone the full seven. "Yeah, I could have pitched the whole game. I felt real super, and real loose."

La Verne scored twice in the sixth when Thompson and Drake were sacrificed home by Dave Alexander and Carl Davis, respectively. Post 330 put the game away in the top of the seventh on singles by Vallone, Bumstead, and Thompson. Drake got on by virtue of an error, and Alexander singled for another RBI.

The weekend's activities boost La Verne's season record to 21-9 overall. Among the four victories were a 6-4 victory over Upland Friday night, a 5-2 win over Ontario Saturday and a 3-1 decision over rival Pomona Post 30 Sunday evening.

Ken Berry buries West leading A's

OAKLAND (UPI) — If you scan the lists for this year's all star game you'll be hard pressed to find many votes for Ken Berry of the California Angels.

Yet the veteran centerfielder, twice a Golden Glove winner, is enjoying one of the best seasons of his 10-year major league career and currently is hitting at a .301 clip.

Monday night, before a fine turnout of 33,407 in the Oakland Coliseum, Berry drove in all of his team's runs in leading the Angels to a 4-2 victory over the A's and to within two games of first place in the A.L. West.

Three of the runs came on Berry's third homer of the year, a towering blast to right in the second inning which pitchers Clyde Wright, Dave Sells and Steve Barber made stand up as the Angels snapped a four-game losing streak and knocked the favored A's out of first place in the bargain.

Berry was an alternate pick to the 1967 All Star game after Frank Robinson and Al Kaline suffered injuries just before the mid-year classic.

He knows he can't get to this year's game in Kansas City by vote of the fans but he says he'd be tickled to death if he is named by A's skipper Dick Williams, who will lead the A.L.

"It would be nice if I could get to play in this year's game," said Berry, whose home is in Topeka, Kan., about 60 miles from Kansas City. "But I don't kid myself, the only way I'll get there is if someone picks me. The super stars are getting all the votes, not me."

Vida Blue walked Bob Oliver and Richie Scheinblum in the second and Berry leaned on one of Blue's outside fastballs and sent it far over the right field fence.

"It's unusual for me to hit a homer," Berry said modestly, "but it's not unusual for me to hit the ball to right. I like to go with the pitch. In this case Blue provided all the power. He really threw me a helluva fastball and I just leaned on it."

In the bottom of the second, Deron Johnson hit a homer to center on which Berry made a futile leap against the fence. In the process he hurt his right ankle and may have to sit out a game or two.

"I seemed to work out the problem with my ankle," Berry said, and he stayed in the game until the top of the ninth. Then, after singling Scheinblum across with California's fourth run, he was removed by manager Bob Winkles.

"He was limping pretty badly by then," said Winkles, "so I took him out. I don't think he's hurt seriously. At least I hope he isn't."

Back-to-back seventh inning doubles by Joe Rudi and Ray Fosse finished Wright but first Sells and then Barber snuffed out A's rallies to lock up Wright's seventh victory in 17 decisions. Blue took his fourth loss compared to seven victories.

Nolan Ryan (9-9) pitches tonight against Ken Holtzman (11-8).

Joe Frazier ends rumors about fitness

LONDON (UPI) — Joe Frazier is back in business.

The former world heavyweight champion from Philadelphia scored a hard-fought 12-round decision over European champion Joe Bugner of Britain Monday night in his first bout since losing his crown when he was stopped in the second round by George Foreman in Jamaica six months ago.

Frazier's was a comeback in the style that first made him champion and put an end to rumors of his lack of fitness.

"I'm in peak condition," said Smokin' Joe, who had slimmed down to 208 pounds, six lighter than the weight at which he suffered his only defeat. "I feel as though I could go in with Foreman tomorrow and beat him."

Foreman, who was at ringside, called it "one of the greatest fights I have seen," but would not talk about a return and Yancy Durham, Frazier's manager, said there were "no plans yet" for a fight with either Foreman or Muhammad Ali.

British referee Harry Gibbs gave six rounds to Frazier, three to Bugner with three drawn but only once did the Briton manage to jolt Frazier — in the 10th round after coming up from the canvas he surprised him with a left uppercut which momentarily buckled Frazier's knees.

Otherwise, it was all Frazier and the only thing Bugner could raise on the American's face seemed to be a smile as Frazier shrugged off the Briton's left jab and bored in to pound away at the body.

Three lead list; one week left

NEW YORK (UPI) — With only one week left in the balloting for starting berths on the American League All-star team, first baseman Dick Allen of Chicago, catcher Carlton Fisk of Boston and third baseman Brooks Robinson of Baltimore appear to have won starting berths.

Allen, sidelined with an injury, is a doubtful starter but has received the most votes for any player, 436,863. The total is 135,000 more than his likely replacement, John Mayberry of Kansas City.

Fisk and Robinson also enjoyed leads in excess of 100,000 over their nearest competitors. Other leaders include Cookie Rojas of Kansas City at second, Bert Campaneris of Oakland at shortstop and Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Bobby Murcer of New York and Amos Otis of Kansas City in the outfield.

The only doubtful position is second base where Rojas leads Rod Carew of Minnesota, 363,527 to 356,839.

Balloting ends on July 8 and the starting teams will be announced the following week.

Roger Taylor shows sportsmanship

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI)—Roger Taylor of Britain advanced to the men's singles semifinals of the Wimbledon Tennis Championships today after an extraordinary display of sportsmanship in which he insisted on replaying a disputed match point.

In effect the 32-year-old Briton won two match points in beating 17-year-old Bjorn Borg of Sweden 6-1, 6-8, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

On the neighboring no. 1 court, second seed Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, the forgotten man of the tournament, struggled to put out unseeded Indian Davis Cup player Vijay Amritraj 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-4, 7-5 in two hours 45 minutes.

Kodes, twice winner of the French championships and losing finalist at Forest Hills in 1971, will play Taylor for a place in the final.

The two hour and 40 minute center court match between Taylor and Borg was so dramatic no one missed the 70 professionals boycotting the tournament. The high point came in the last game after Borg had saved two match points at 1-5 and then had run four straight games to tie the match 5-all.

There were seven service breaks in the hectic final set and a capacity center court had thunderously applauded both men many times. Taylor served the 12th game and went to match point at 40-15. To the groans of the hometown crowd which hasn't had a Wimbledon champion since Fred Perry in 1936, Taylor committed his 20th doublefault of the match.

Then came a second match point. Taylor served, Borg lunged for the ball and netted it. The crowd erupted but Borg, who believed the serve was out, angrily accused an elderly linesman of a bad call. Suddenly Taylor shouted to the umpire that he, too, thought the ball was out.

"You thought it was out?" the umpire repeated.

Taylor nodded and served again.

This time Borg rifled a two-handed placement and it was deuce.

The young Swede, frantically cheered by schoolgirls, some of whom carried Swedish flags, rifled another service into the net and it was match point again.

Borg then ran wide for the service and banged it into the net.

The crowd burst into the greatest ovation of Taylor's career, as much for his sportsmanship as for his play.

Peter DePaolo will be toasting Ontario

ONTARIO, Calif. — Peter DePaolo, winner of the 1925 Indianapolis 500 and twice national champion, has been named "Official Toastmaster" of Ontario Motor Speedway, it has been announced by Speedway President Parnelli Jones.

DePaolo was acclaimed the "golden man" of racing when he became the first driver to top the 100 m.p.h. mark for 500 miles when he won at Indianapolis in 1925. He was national champion that year and again in 1927.

"We are very happy to have Pete join us as our 'official toastmaster'," said Jones in announcing the appointment. "He is one of the great personalities and premier speakers of auto racing and will be tremendously valuable to us in spreading the word about the California 500 and Ontario Motor Speedway."

DePaolo was recently inducted into the Racing Hall of Fame of the American Auto Racing Writers and Broadcasters Association.

"I'm especially pleased to be associated with Tony Hulman of Indianapolis and Parnelli Jones of Ontario," said DePaolo. "The California 500 draws more people than any other sporting event in the state, and is second only to Indy in the nation, and I'm proud to be associated with both fine Speedways."

In addition to his speaking duties, DePaolo will also be involved in coordinating the pre-race pageantry for the 4th annual California 500, Sunday, Sept. 2.

Casper ninth on money list

NEW YORK (UPI) — Billy Casper's victory in the Western Open had him soar from 25th to ninth place on the pro golf money won list, and Bruce Crampton's tie for fourth kept him in the top spot and also gave him over $1 million in career earnings.

Crampton, pocketing $7,445, eased his season total up to $211,654, his career bankroll to $1,003,097.

Youth baseball player dies

NEW ALBANY, Ind. (UPI) — Mark Atkins, 14, of New Albany, died Monday from injuries suffered during Babe Ruth League baseball practice when struck in the head by a baseball.

The youth died in Kentucky Baptist Hospital where he was taken Sunday evening following the accident at a little league field on the 4-H fairgrounds.

Atkins was at bat during the practice of a Babe Ruth all-star team when the accident happened. Authorities said the catcher was throwing the ball back to the pitcher when Atkins stepped into the line of the throw and was hit.

Mabel receives Redbook's '73 Track and Field Award

POMONA — Olympic star Mabel Fergerson of Diamond Bar can add another prize to her rapidly-expanding trophy case.

The 18-year-old Ganesha High graduate has received the 1973 Redbook Women's Track and Field Award from Redbook Magazine.

Miss Fergerson, who won the 220 yard dash and the 440 yard dash at the AAU Women's Outdoor National Championships at UC Irvine recently, was judged the meet's outstanding performer.

The award is given, according to Redbook publisher Carlo Vittorini, to recognize young women who are working individually to prove their abilities because this was the way most favored by Redbook readers for women to overcome discrimination.

"What better example of this attitude could we find than the individual discipline and dedication exemplified by more than 800 young women who participated in the AAU National Track and Field Championships," he commented.

"As these young women athletes gain recognition for their aggressiveness and independence, they perform a great service for future generations of both men and women by dispelling the traditional belief that these traits are more common in men than in women," Mr. Vittorini said.

Redbook advertising director John J. Beni, chairman of the AAU Women's Track and Field Committee and of the Women's Olympic Track and Field team, Mrs. Pat Rico, and Ms. Marsha Smelkinson, editor of the AAU News, were judges for the award.

Sports news in brief

MEMORIAL SERVICES were scheduled in Indianapolis tonight for Swede Savage, who died Monday of burns and injuries suffered in a flaming crash into the wall during the Indianapolis 500 May 30. Funeral services will be held in San Bernardino, his home town, at 1 p.m. Friday at Bobbitt Memorial Chapel, 1299 E. Highland Ave. His body will be flown to Ontario International Airport after tonight's service in Indianapolis.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC GROUPS in the United States, upset by proposed federal legislation that would subvert them to government control, threatened today that such a move might result in the exclusion of this country from future Olympic games.

ARTHUR ASHE, speaking for the Association of Tennis Professionals, said Monday he believed the Wimbledon bitterness would be over by the time the U.S. Open is played in late summer at Forest Hills.

USC shortstop Roy Smalley Jr., leading batter in the recent Japan-United States college baseball series, was named the competition's Most Valuable Player Monday.

THE LITTLE LEAGUE brought out its physiologist Monday to testify against unisex baseball on the grounds of differing bone structures in the suit filed by 12-year-old Carolyn King of Ypsilanti, Mich. seeking to overturn rules barring girls.

RON SANTO of the Chicago Cubs and Darrell Evans of the Atlanta Braves shared the National League's Player of the Week Honor for the period of June 25 through July 1.

After running mile

Jipcho seeks mark

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Ben Jipcho of Kenya, who became the world's second fastest miler Monday, had a good chance tonight to lower his own world record in the 3,000 meter steeplechase.

"Ben is good for 3:52.0 on the mile, he should be able to win tonight's 3,000 meter steeplechase in something like 8:10.0," Finland's ace runner Tapio Kantanen said.

Jipcho, who won Monday's mile race at the Stockholm Olympic Stadium in 3:52.0 and missed Jim Ryun's world record by only nine-tenths of a second, will be seeking to eclipse the mark of 8:19.8 he set last week in the 3 000 meter steeplechase which bettered the old mark by one second.

Jipcho, a Kenyan prison guard, refused to speculate.

"All depends on the weather, the track and other circumstances," he said.

Filbert Bayi of Tanzania was one of those other circumstances Monday when Jipcho was timed in 3:52 for the mile.

Bayi set a furious pace in his first mile race ever and finished second in 3:52.6 after leading most of the race. Jipcho, at one stage, was 25 yards behind and passed him on the final stretch.

Four other runners finished in under four minutes, including American Leonard Hilton who was third in 3:56.0.

L. Alworth announces retirement

DALLAS (UPI) — Following 11 seasons of professional football, one all-time pass receiving record and lodged in second place in career receiving yardage, Lance Alworth Monday announced his retirement from professional football.

Alworth, a collegiate star at the University of Arkansas played for nine seasons with the San Diego Chargers and two seasons with the Dallas Cowboys.

The 6-foot, 180 pound Alworth set his records during the years with the Chargers in the American Football League. Most spectacular were his dangerous, leaping catches from Charger quarterback John Hadl.

He was traded to Dallas for Cowboy flanker Lance Rentzel, and had his most satisfying year, and then his most disappointing year.

In 1971, he was a part of the Cowboys' drive to win Super Bowl VI, and it was during that game he made what he called the "two most important catches I ever made."

He snared a crucial third-down 21-yard toss from quarterback Roger Staubach to keep Dallas' opening touchdown drive alive in the second quarter of that game. Moments later he caught a seven-yard scoring pass from Staubach in the corner of the end zone.

During that year, he caught 34 passes for 487 yards, but last year caught only 15 passes. Both years —even 1971 —were far below what he had come to expect during his years with the Chargers.

Alworth holds the pro record for having caught at least one pass in the most consecutive games, 96.

Lakers sign 2nd choice

Perry, 6-foot-10 ½, 220 pounds, signed a multi-year contract but the terms were not disclosed. He had also been drafted by Virginia of the American Basketball Association.

Perry averaged 20.1 points, had 388 rebounds and blocked 120 shots in 26 games last season.

Jets' girls impressive at Olympics

POMONA — Six members of the West Coast Jets Track Club combined efforts to give the club two second places, four thirds, one fourth and a fifth Sunday at the Jr. Olympics at Golden West College.

And while the young girls were turning in fine performances at GWC, two of the Jets Club's male members were qualifying for the State Meet.

At Golden West, Stacy Granger placed second in both the 100 yard dash in 13.6 seconds and the 50 yard sprint in 7.3 seconds, while also helping three other team members in giving the Jets a third place in the 440 relay.

Nichie Granger, who also competed on the relay team, grabbed two third place finishes in the 50 in 7.4 seconds and the 200 in 31.1 seconds.

Little Tonia Granger was clocked at 15.4 seconds in the 100 to place fifth, while providing the third leg on the relay team.

Tina White was the fourth West Coast Jets member on the third-place relay quintet.

Janet Ballard ran a 28.8 second 220 yard run for third place, while Jackie White finished fourth in the 50.

At. Mt. San Antonio College where the boys were competing, Vernon Fergerson finished second in the 440 yard run in 51.3 seconds, and Vinell Fergerson copped a first place in the 220 in 22.0 seconds and a second in the long jump in 20-feet 5-inches.

Both boys qualified for the State Meet, which will be held at Balboa Stadium in San Diego on July 14.

Walnut plays to deadlock fourth time this season

WALNUT — Shortstop Marty Shephard singled home pitcher Bobby Veselic in the ninth inning Monday evening to give Walnut Connie Mack its fourth tie of the season in a 4-4 deadlock with Whittier Post 51 American Legion.

Whittier scored two runs in the top of the ninth to take a 4-2 lead but Walnut bounced back. Lance Parrish opened the rally by drawing a walk. He scored on a Whittier error after Veselic singled.

Veselic pitched the distwnce for Walnut, striking out seven battors. Danny Munoz paced Whittier with a home run and triple.

Walnut, 8-7-4 for the season, returns to action Friday evening by hosting Montclair Post 616 at Mt. San Anttonio College.

Aaron's shots worth a mint

ATLANTA (UPI) — When, and if, Hank Aaron hits his 714th and 715th home runs, those baseballs are going to be worth their weight in diamonds.

Aaron says it's news to him, but there is a story going around that an offer of $50,000 has been made for home run ball No. 714 and an offer of $100,000 for home run ball No. 715.

"If I hit either one of those up into the seats," said Aaron, "there are going to be more than a dozen people out there who will pull baseballs out of their pockets and swear it's the one I hit.

"I remember what happened when I hit the home run that won for us in 1957," Aaron recalled. "Mr. Perini (then Braves owner Louis Perini) offered to buy the ball and four different people showed up at his office claiming they had it."

This may not sit too well with the folks at Cooperstown, N.Y., but Aaron says that if he does gain possession of either ball,

Texas 'Clyde impressive in second appearance

By United Press International

Young David Clyde's blazing fastball was shunted aside by a trait not usually found in a rookie —poise.

Texas' brilliant 18-year old lefthander wasn't around at the end Monday night when Ed Herrmann doubled home the winning run in the ninth to lift the Chicago White Sox to a 5-4 win over the Rangers but Clyde looked impressive as he spaced four hits in a six-inning stint.

Clyde, the number one pick in the recent free agent draft, jumped straight to the major leagues after being a high school phenomenon. He made his second major league start and drew a near capacity crowd of 33,010 striking out six and allowing only one earned run before a blister on his pitching hand forced him to leave early.

Clyde didn't allow a hit over the first four innings and left in the sixth with Texas ahead, 4-3.

Bill Melton ruined Clyde's chance for a second major league victory with a run-scoring single in the eighth. Clyde, like last week in his debut against Minnesota, pitched well but Melton said afterwards that what struck him was the poise shown by Clyde and his assortment of pitches.

"I don't believe that he's just 18 years old—he's just too good for such a young pitcher," said Melton. "I think Clyde is more developed than Vida Blue was when he won 20. He doesn't throw his curve with the same speed that he throws his fastball like most young pitchers."

In other American League games, Minnesota downed Kansas City, 5-2, Boston nipped New York, 1-0, Detroit shaded Cleveland, 43, Milwaukee stopped Baltimore 5-3 and California edged Oakland, 4-2.

In the National League Cincinnati beat Los Angeles, 4-2 Montreal edged New York, 2-1 in 10 innings, St. Louis topped Philadelphia 7-4, San Francisco trounced Atlanta, 9-5 and San Diego whipped Houston, 8-5.

Fritz Peterson only allowed two hits but one of them was a homer by Dwight Evans in the fifth inning and that's all the Red Sox needed to edge New York, snapping the Yankees' string of 13 consecutive wins at home.

George Scott, Pedro Garcia and Darrell Porter slammed home runs as Milwaukee sent Baltimore down to its fourth straight defeat. Scott, who had driven in the first Brewer run in the second inning with a sacrifice fly, rapped a two-run drive in the eighth inning that snapped a 3-3 tie and gave reliever Bill Champion his second victory against three losses.

Dick McAuliffe scored the winning run on John Ellis' passed ball in the sixth inning and Mickey Stanley cracked a two-run homer to pace Detroit's victory over Cleveland. It was the eighth victory in nine games for the surging Tigers who had dropped eight straight before their current winning streak.

Hank Aaron's 694th home run gave the Braves a 3-1 lead in the sixth inning but the Giants scored eight runs in the last three innings against the ineffective Atlanta bullpen. Homers by Gary Mathews and Bobby Bonds in the seventh and Chris Speier in the eighth were the key blows as the Giants took a 6-5 lead and they added three runs in the ninth with the help of Mathews' two-run triple. Don McMahon made his first appearance since being reactivated and pitched a hitless eighth and ninth for the Giants.

Ted Simmons drove in five runs for the second time in a week —three of them with his sixth homer of the season —as the Cardinals rose back to the .500-mark.

Clarence Gaston's three-run homer in the ninth enabled the Padres to hand the Astros their fifth loss during an eight-game home stand. Jerry Morales hit a three-run double in the third inning and set up two other runs.

YOU'RE THE TOP — Tina Estupinian as Hope and Marshall Brewer as Billy head the large cast of "Anything Goes," to be presented by the youth group and choir of the Claremont United Methodist Church Thursday through Sunday. The Cole Porter musical, with such songs as "You're the Top" and "I Get a Kick Out of You," will be staged in the Communications Building of the School of Theology at Claremont, Foothill Boulevard and Harvard Avenue, at 8 p.m.

'Anything Goes'

Church group to stage musical

CLAREMONT — The youth group and choir of the Claremont United Methodist Church will present the Cole Porter musical, "Anything Goes," in the Communications Building of the School of Theology at Claremont at 8 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

Tickets at $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for children under 12 can be reserved at the church, 211 W. Foothill Blvd., 624-2342, and will be on sale at the door.

"Anything Goes" was a hit on Broadway in the '30s. The adventures of some shady but endearing characters on board a luxury liner in the Atlantic are related in lively dialogue, exuberant dancing, and such songs as "It's D'Lovely," "You're the Top," "Friendship," "I Get a Kick Out of You," and "Blow, Gabriel, Blow!"

Heading the cast are Marshall Brewer, as Billy Crocker; Tina Estupinian as the romantic lead, Hope Harcourt; Ruth Trotter as Reno Sweeney, nightclub singer and evangelist; David Nimmons as Sir Evelyn; Marty Baum as Moon Face Martin, public enemy No. 13; Kathy Kilsby as his gun moll, Bonnie; Gary Ardrey as the Purser; Renatta Bratt as Mrs. Harcourt; Lindsey Brewer, the Bishop; and the five comic Heavenly Angels, Gayle Newton, Shelley Waldman, Lynni Gilfry, K.T. Little and Cheryl Ford.

Others in the cast and in the two dance choruses are Matt Rosen, Carolyn Skeen, Hans Weidhofer, Rich Applebee, Liz Estupinian, Sue Bechtel, Shirley Wray, Pat Graham, Julie Waldman, Joni Baum, Chandra Holum, Mary Cadman, Alisa Allen, Sara Cole, Susie Wray Christie Allen, Sara Cadman, Rod Gilfry, David Ardrey, Phil Wray, Dan Cole, Eddie Bratt, Steve Prancevic and Rich Hall. Gayle Newton is dance captain. Production assistants are Shirley Wray and Christie Allen. Wayne Atwood is director of state crew and sets.

The show is choreographed by Pat Pilkington. Mrs. Pilkington, a Claremont resident, has studied with Nico Charisse, Zila Zali and Bella Lewitzsky. She studied with and managed the studio of Tony Charmoli, the choreographer for the Dinah Shore and New Julie Andrews Shows.

Gania Trotter, director of music at Claremont United Methodist Church, is general director of the production. She organized the Youth Choir three years ago. The choir, with about 40 members of high school and junior college age, sings everything from the music of the traditional classical composers to the modern rock musical "Godspell."

Other professionals assisting in the production are Betty Biskey, singer; vocal coach and music educator; and Bob Burgan, public school teacher and drama coach.

Music festival to open Friday

CLAREMONT — The fifth annual Claremont Music Festival will open with a concert in Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College, at 8:15 p.m. Friday.

Gloria Bernstein, founder-conductor of the Festival Orchestra, will conduct.

The program will open with four French horns featured in Haydn's Symphony No. 31 in D Major, "Horn Signal" (1765). Also on the program will be Stravinsky's ne-classic Concerto in E flat-"Dumbarton Oaks" (1938) for 15 players and Richard Strauss' rarely-heard suite of "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" (1920). A new narrative based on the original Moliere comedy and on a libretto by Strauss' collaborator Hugo von Hofmannstahl, has been written for the Claremont Music Festival by Derrick Henry. It will be read by actor Norman Belkin, who has worked extensively in radio, television and such films as "The Hustler," "The Last Angry Man" and "Butterfield 8."

The season's first chamber music concert will be presented on July 11 with the Woodwind Quintet, Op. 43 (Nielsen) performed by new members of the CMF Institute resident faculty: Carol Wincenc, flute; Sara Watkins, oboe; David Shifrin, clarinet; Robert Williams, bassoon, and David Kappy, horn.

Pauline Oliveros' 1963 composition, "Outline," will be played by Bert Turetzky, contrabass; Hal Rees, percussion and Miss Wincenc. Dvorak's Quintit in A, Op. 81, will be performed by violinist Charles Libove and pianist Nina Lugovoy, both returning for their third season, and new faculty members Joanne Zagst, violin; Raymond Page, viola, and cellist Leonard Feldman, all members of the Alard Quartet.

All concerts through Aug. 4 will be at 8:15 p.m. Season subscriptions and series tickets are available at the Thatcher Music Building of Pomona College, Fourth Street and College Avenue, and at most agencies. Reservatioss and information can be obtained at 621-1112 or 626-8511, ext. 2242.

$11.3 million grants

Race relations TV projects OK'd

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Office of Education Monday awarded five grants totaling over $11.3 million to develop race relations television programming. One of the funded projects still has not received $600,000 from an earlier grant because of questions raised in a federal audit.

The award recipients are Education Development Center, Inc., Newton, Mass., $4,023,037; Bicultural Children's Television Inc., Oakland, Calif., $3.5 million; noncommercial WNVT Television in Annandale, Va., $1,762,298; non-commercial television station KLRN in Austin, Tex., $1,268,730, and non-commercial TV station WTTW in Chicago, $811,878.

Television shows and spot announcements produced under the grants will be aimed at elementary and high school children and will focus on bilingual, bicultural education, mathematics, ethnic differences and a reduction of interracial tensions among students, the Office of Education said. The spending was ordered by Congress in the newly awarded funds scored second highest on technical aspects among 52 applicants, must meet an unusual set of special management terms and conditions before the grant money can start flowing, an aide to the education commissioner said.

The special conditions were applied to the BCTV contract because of an interim federal audit which alleged misspending under a 1972 BCTV Spanish-speaking television project similar to the one for which new funds have been awarded, the aide said.

Because of the allegations, $600,000 in office of education funds is being withheld from the Berkeley, Calif., School District, which sub-contracted with BCTV.

A widely leaked incomplete audit alleged misspending on restaurant and hotel bills, executive-type life insurance policies, "extravagant" office furniture, and fees to a public relations firm for representing the project in Washington.

The aide said the new grant could not cover any spending error that occurred under a previous grant, if the spending errors are proven in the final audit in August.

He said the special conditions include adding a person with background in financial management to the project and remaining financially solvent. Office of Education sources said the BCTV project also is receiving private funds from the Ford Foundation and the Exxon Corp.

COMPTON, Calif. (UPI) — A funny thing happened to Wesley Sanders Monday on his first day as treasurer of the city of Compton.

According to city records, Compton should have $1.1 million in its general fund. But when Sanders checked Monday all he could come up with was $69 000 in cash. And the town has a payroll and bills of $37,000 coming due Thursday.

Sanders said his predecessor, outgoing treasurer John Chapman whom he defeated in the June 5 runoff election, had placed $450,000 with banks in certificates of deposit —payable in December.

The new treasurer said he was unable to account for another $425,000 and that $200,000 in city money was tied up elsewhere.

Sanders said he thought things could be straightened out and that nothing illegal was going on but added that he had been unable to arrange a meeting with Chapman.

"I think he's very bitter and is trying to do everything to make it impossible for me to have a smooth transition," Sanders said.

Tahoe zoning impact stirs court fight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A real estate investment firm has filed a $4 million lawsuit, claiming its property at Lake Tahoe had been rendered worthless by zoning changes.

Perini Lake Tahoe Properties, Inc., said in its superior court suit filed Monday it had purchased property in 1968 seven miles south of Tahoe City at Chmbers Landing for residential or hotel use.

But in 1971, the suit asserted, the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency designated the Perini property as part of a recreation district and "decreed that only 'recreational uses' could be made of the land."

The agency said use of the land for residential or commercial purposes was prohibited, the suit said.

This action rendered the property valueless and destroyed its economic worth, the suit said.

Ustinov honored

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peter Ustinov has been named chairman of a special delegation on the Arts and Society for Congress of Europe.

Transit views quote checked out

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The mayors of California's three largest cities want Gov. Ronald Reagan to let the state's congressmen know his position on the use of federal highway trust funds for mass transit.

Mayors Thomas Bradley of Los Angeles, Pete Wilson of San Diego and Joseph L. Alioto of San Francisco Monday telegrammed the governor concerning the role of Reps. Don Claussen and Harold Johnson in the defeat of a measure to divert limited trust fund monies to urban transit programs.

Newspaper reports indicate their vote in a joint congressional committee was decisive and quoted Johnson as saying he voted against the measure because "it is contrary to our state position ... to the position of our governor and state highway department," according to the mayors.

"We believe the congressman was mistaken and recall that you supported Proposition 18 in the 1970 election, which would have opened California's own gas tax fund for mass transit uses," they told Reagan.

"We respectfully request that you convey your position to our congressional delegation, particularly Congressmen Clausen and Johnson," said the telegram sent from Alioto's office with the approval of Bradley and Wilson.

U.N. group reports

World responds to meat shortages

ROME (UPI) — A report to the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) predicts some relief soon from the short supply of meat which has sent prices rising sharply throughout the world.

The report to the intergovernmental group on meat of the FAO Committee on Commodity Problems Monday blamed the price rises on the slowing in the growth of meat supplies to one per cent in 1972. This compared to a 3.8 per cent growth in 1971.

World trade in mutton and lamb may fall even below last year's volume because drought has reduced supplies from New Zealand and Australia and the rebuilding of flocks to meet high wool prices, the report said.

Otherwise, it said, the short term outlook indicates an improvement in the supply and demand balance.

"Beef and veal production is expected to increase in the major importing areas from the second half of 1972 and output of pig and poultry meat will also be generally larger although high feedstuff prices could cause this expansion to fall short of current expectations," the report said.

The total production of the four major types of meat — beef poultry, mutton and lamb and pigmeat —last year was 90.5 million tons worldwide, the report said.

It said a record 16.4 million ton poultry production accounted for the small overall increase while mutton and lamb production decreased and pigmeat was stagnant.

The report said herd expansion was likely to mean more beef production in the enlarged European Common Market in the second half of 1973. It also forecast beef production increases in Australia, New Zealand, Latin American, Eastern Europe and Canada but a slight decline in the United States.

Armenian guilty in murders of 2 Turkish envoys

SANTA BARBARA (UPI) — Gourgen Yanikian, 77, was found guilty of first degree murder Monday for shooting to death two Turkish diplomats Jan. 27 to avenge the massacre of Armenians by Turks more than half a century ago.

Yanikian, an author of religious plays and novels and once a wealthy land developer and international engineer, admitted killing Mehmet Baydar, 49, Turkish consul general in Los Angeles, and Baydar's assistant, Bahadir Demir, 30. He testified he thought of it as "destroying two evils." Letters signed with Yanikian's name were sent to newspapers, calling for a "war on Turkish diplomats."

Yanikian testified that he was involved in the massacres during his childhood, lost many relatives, and had seen his brother's throat cut. The Jewish prosecutor countered that history could not be used to condone such killings, or it would be justifiable for him to kill Germans.

State guard enlistment is at high level

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Army National Guard is at 90 per cent of its authorized manpower despite the all-volunteer Army and abolition of the draft, it was reported Monday.

The California Guard has an authorized strength of 22,500 persons and reached 90 per cent of that level last week, a reversal of the trend nationally, reported Lt. Col. Andrew G. Wolf Jr., public affairs officer.

He said 15 months ago when debate raged over abolition of the draft and the move toward an all-volunteer Army, the California Army National Guard was at 80 per cent of its full authorization.

Wolf said officers credit the bounce-back to the establishment of three "recruiting commands" in California staffed by 70 full-time National Guard recruiters.

They stress training a man or woman for a skill that would help him obtain employment in a civilian career, he said.

The guard also announced a new program for non-prior military service youths that will enable them to enlist for four years of drills and annual field training plus two additional years of attending the two week annual encampment only without more weekend drills.

Up to now, guardsmen must have enlisted for six years of both weekend drills and the annual 15-day field training encampments.

California was one of 13 states approved by the National Guard Bureau in Washington to test the so-called "four - plus - two" year enlistment program.

Whittier man acting boss of OEO office

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Eugene Gonzales, 47, Whittier, has been named acting regional director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Gonzales served the past year as deputy regional director under Thomas H. Mercer, who is currently on leave from the agency.

Before joining OEO, Gonzales was assistant to the president of Santa Ana Community College.

Skating boy hit, hurt by motorcycle

POMONA — An 11-year-old boy, hit by a motorcycle when he roller skated into Vassar Avenue Saturday afternoon, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

Gregory Watson, 1053 Del Norde Ave., suffered a head injury in the accident and was treated for a time in the hospital's intensive care unit.

The driver of the motorcycle was Joe Brown, 37, 1116 Vassar St. He was westbound on Vassar when the accident occurred west of Alder Street.

Joseph G. Rudolph, 18, 1360 E. D St., La Verne, escaped injury Sunday afternoon when his small car left McKinley Avenue and over turned east of E Street. Police said the car landed on its top but Rudolph wasn't hurt.

For Wednesday, July 4

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today you can draw upon greater support from your co-workers. Others are willing to co-operate. Spend the day productively.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Keep your plans as flexible as possible. You're going to be entertaining someone you didn't count on.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) The means are now available. Today is the day you will buy something that will be useful for the family as a whole.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Trips that are planned or made today will provide you with a great deal of personal pleasure. Get going.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Resources will become available to you today through a source you didn't expect. Later, they'll be put to good use.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's one person in particular that you'll meet today. He'll make as powerful an impression on you as you do on him.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A problem that you're harboring and are reluctant to tell others about will be anticipated by one who will clear things up.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) New hopes and interests will be stimulated today. Begin new projects with small steps for best results.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Joint ventures are presently your most promising area. Develop any shared opportunity fully while conditions favor you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's important that you let the one who is most closely associated to you know you're in complete accord today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will find that whatever you sell or work on today will have more value to others than usual.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll come out very favorably today in situations where you deal with individuals on a one-to-one basis.

Your Birthday
July 4, 1973

Ideas that may appear to be of small promise are worthy of working on this year. They'll grow nicely in proportion to your dedication.

CTA leader raps merger for teachers

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Teachers want unity but not at the expense of losing their independence to the AFL-CIO or any other national labor organization, Bryan Stevens, leader of the California Caucus, said today at the National Education Association (NEA) convention.

Stevens accused some leaders of the American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO), of hiding their real intentions as delegates attending the convention with dual membership in NEA. "They are hiding their real intentions," he said, "under a God and motherhood cry of teacher unity, when in reality, they seek to further their own personal ambitions by attempting to railroad a merger of the two groups under the banner of the AFL-CIO."

Stevens said David Selden, president of AFT and Albert Shanker, president of the United Federation of Teachers of New York City, were the leaders behind the merger push at the convention. Stevens is president of the 150,000-member California Teachers Association (CTA), and is the teacher who in 1968 drew attention when he challenged the assessed value of Gov. Ronald Reagan's Malibu Hills Ranch.

"The merger push by Selden and Shanker," he said, "is a power play to gain further recognition in the hierarchy of the AFL-CIO by putting some two million teachers under the union banner. They both know that delivery of the teachers to the AFL-CIO, which is desperate to boost its membership, will result in life-long power positions for themselves in the union."

Stevens said, "Teachers will not be fooled by this guise of merger and unity and permit themselves to become pawns in this power struggle involving these two men. If these gentlemen want unity in the teaching profession, they should urge a merger of all teachers without the AFT requirement of AFL-CIO affiliation. It is the struggle between Selden and Shanker which is the real cause of the infighting by teachers and teacher organizations at the state and local as well as the national levels, and it is this struggle which is diverting teachers from their responsibility to the children in the classrooms."

Stevens maintains that more than 90 per cent of the organized teachers are now outside of the AFL-CIO and he said NEA polls indicate they want to remain that way.

Stevens said the polls "indicate without a doubt that teachers do not want to be unionized, but they do want to unify into an independent teaching profession. However, we do support the labor movement, which is an absolute necessity in our modern industrial society to protect the rights of workers."

Bridge

Stayman OK, play is wrong

By Oswald & James Jacoby

The Stayman convention has reached rubber bridge players. North used it correctly and South found himself in a good game contract.

West opened the king of diamonds. East played the deuce. He wasn't going to waste his ace or jack and West shifted to the jack of clubs.

	NORTH 3 ♠KJ93 ♥Q9876 ♦75 ♣Q6
	SOUTH (D) ♠AQ108 ♥K4 ♦1084 ♣AK32

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
			1N.T.
Pass	2♣	Pass	2♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	Pass Pass

Opening lead—♦K

This gave South a chance to make an overtrick. All South had to do was play three rounds of clubs in order to get rid of dummy's last diamond, start the hearts and wind up with a cross-ruff for 11 tricks.

South didn't quite get around to that. He won the first club in dummy; played three rounds of trumps; did discard that last diamond on his good clubs and then attacked hearts. Unfortunately it was too late. East took his ace of hearts and led his last club. South had to ruff in dummy and eventually lost his last two diamonds.

Incidentally, while South could have made an overtrick he should have settled for four after the club shift by attacking hearts immediately. He couldn't be sure that clubs would go around three times.

Toy firm sues oil co. over sale of cars

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mattel Inc. has filed suit in Superior Court to prevent Shell Oil Co. from distributing 4.2 million of the toy manufacturers miniature "Hot Wheels" cars through toy stores.

Mattel said Shell bought the cars at a discount last fall to be used as premiums at service stations but due to the alleged shortage of gasoline it has discontinued promotional premiums.

The toy makers said the miniature cars should only be distributed as service station promotion premiums because the plan for distribution in stores would unfairly compete with Mattel's own marketing program.

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate terest rates. NOW is a good time to buy! than can be gained by any lowering of in-

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

CAREER OPPORTUNITY
Are you in a job where your earnings are not adequate? Where the conditions are not pleasant or you don't see an opportunity for growth?
We have an opportunity for you to accomplish all three of these things in our organization. Our most successful men never sold anything before becoming associated with us, but are now making substantial incomes and some of them have become managers.
We will give you carefully planned, personalized classroom and on-the-job training to assure your success.
Why not let us talk with you. We will not employ you unless we both agree that you have a better-than-ever chance of being successful at Forest Lawn. Help people make arrangements in advance of need.

Fourth of July girl Judy Strangis, who portrays student Helen Loomis in ABC's Room 222 (Fridays at 9PM), is a member of one of Hollywood's largest, most prominent families. Her brother Sam is a production executive at one of the major studios. Her sister Cindy, an actress-singer, is the wife of Bob Williams, associate producer of Love, American Style on which Judy and Cindy once appeared as Siamese twins. Aunt Helen, Judy's mother's sister, is singer Helen Grayco, widow of the late Spike Jones. Judy entered show business at the age of six when she was signed to do a sketch with Charlton Heston on a network special. Now 21, Judy is one of Hollywood's busiest actresses. Before reaching the age of 18, she had appeared on such shows as Twilight Zone, Westinghouse Playhouse, The Untouchables and Playhouse 90. Her "after 18" credits include the feature film, "Like It Is" and a starring role with Robert Young in the ABC Movie of the Week, "All My Darling Daughters."

'ROOKIE FROM MOUNTIE COUNTRY'

Michael Ontkean, who turned 24 last January, is the youngest of The Rookies, ABC's highly successful Monday night cops-and-drama series which goes into its second season this fall. He is also the most popular of the three young policemen among teenage girls. His handsome face and curly brown hair currently adorn the covers and inside pages of virtually all the fan magazines. Unlike some teenage idols, Michael Ontkean is a serious actor, somewhat embarrassed by the hysteria of fans and the passionate mail that has been pouring in since "The Rookies" went on the air last year. While he is delighted with the high ratings the series has been getting in a time slot once considered hazardous, he is baffled by fame.

"My parents, Muriel and Leonard Ontkean were well known actors throughout Canada," says Michael, who was born in Vancouver where he made his theatrical debut at the age of five on the stage of a local theatre.

"I've been performing all my life, as an actor and on the hockey rink," Michael told TV Week, "so I'm more or less conditioned to audience reactions—favorable and otherwise. But man! This business of being an American TV personality is something else. I jump about a foot off the ground when I pass a magazine rack and see my picture and the crazy titles they hang on the stories they write about me. It's too much!"

Michael is probably more relaxed on The Rookies set at 20th Century-Fox studios than anywhere. There, he works with co-stars George Stanford Brown, Sam Melville, Gerald S. O'Loughlin and Kate Jackson in an atmosphere of good natured professional discipline. "We have a lot of laughs on the set," says Michael, "but it's a pretty straight scene. Every member of the cast is serious about the acting profession. None of us is an overnight success. We've all worked hard to get where we are. Georg Stanford Brown has a background as a Shakespearean actor in New York. Gerald O'Loughlin is from the New York stage and he's been a television actor since 1950. Sam Melville really had to struggle to get to where he is. He came to Hollywood more than ten years ago, but few people ever heard of him until The Rookies. A lot of people think of us as guys who just came out of nowhere and landed a hot series because we're lucky."

Michael started as a television actor when he was 9. This was when he and his parents were living in Toronto and were working regularly for the Canadian Broadcasting Company, the National Film Board and in the theatre. "There are no movie, TV or stage stars in Canada," says Michael, "only hockey stars. Hockey is the sport up there. It's not just Canada's top sport. It's the number one entertainment. If I ever felt like something special as a kid, it wasn't because I was an actor. It was when I played hockey." Michael was attending high school in Montreal when he won a hockey scholarship at the University of New Hampshire.

"I was a theatre-arts major at New Hampshire and I used to rush from one dressing room to another—from the hockey rink to backstage of the campus theatre. I'd been offered contracts to play professional hockey, but one day I decided I liked the theatre campus dressing rooms better than the locker room."

It turned out to be a good choice. Michael had graduated from New Hampshire and was back in Toronto appearing in a stage production when Canadian-born movie director Norman Jewison saw the young man and brought him to Hollywood to test for a role in his film version of "Fiddler on the Roof." Michael did not get the part, but through Jewison he met a number of producers, directors and casting executives. He soon went to work in the Disney movie, "Bayou Boy" which led to guest star roles in such TV shows as Ironside, The Bold Ones, Dan August and The Partridge Family.

"One of the first important people I met in Hollywood was Aaron Spelling, executive producer of The Rookies," recalls Michael. "I remember he told me to stick around, get more experience and come back in a couple of years. That's exactly what I did. That's why I'm in The Rookies."

'A CANDID PORTRAIT'

Their job is to sell the Word of God. Their product, gilt-edged fabricoid plastic-and-nylon-bound Bibles selling for $49.95 . . . "they're washable and outlast leather 4 to 1." Four hard-driving, success-seeking Bible salesmen armed with their aspirations and all the tricks of the game, are captured at their trade in the Maysles Brothers' classic documentary, "Salesman," which will have its American television premiere on KCET's Verite series Monday night at 10PM.

Filmed in cinema verite (described as "direct cinema" by producers Albert and David Maysles, "Salesman" is the portrait of four Bible hucksters and the personal crisis of one, Paul Brennan, who is frustrated in a world where success is the measure of a man. From snowbound New England territory, to the streets of Miami, Florida, the film candidly records the quartets' spiritual door-to-door carney-barking and their motel room strategy meetings.

Be it a subtle approach or hard-sell, "the pitch" makes little difference to Brennan as his sales plummet. Turndowns increase and breed in him a lonely, depressed and antagonistic feeling. He now is guilty of the cardinal sin among Bible salesmen, "negative thinking." Brennan, known as "The Badger," says the film created a tremendous change in his life and regards all salesmen as actors.

The other salesmen include Charlie McDevitt, dubbed "The Gipper" from Knute Rockne's famous exhortation, "Let's win this one for the Gipper!" Of the four he is the most successful.

James Baker, alias "The Rabbit," claims his chief satisfaction in selling Bibles is "the pay." He says salesmen are, in general, "more honest, more sincere, and act more naturally than just about anybody." Brennan describes Baker as "having the face of a choirboy and the heart of a barracuda."

The last member of the foursome is Raymond Martos "The Bull" who says that selling is his life. Brennan calls Martos "The inscrutable sphinx; A frustrated ballet dancer."

"Salesman" was produced in 1969 and is the culmination of five months of searching for the right men, six weeks of filming, and 15 months of editing. The production team included Albert Maysles on camera and brother David as soundman and supervising editor. Charlotte Zwerin worked in the editing and completion of the film.

Of "Salesman," noted playwright Arthur Miller commented: "It is an adventure into the American dream where hope is a sale and a sale is confirmation of existence itself." And Norman Mailer said: "I can't think of many movies which have had as much to say about American life and have said it so well."

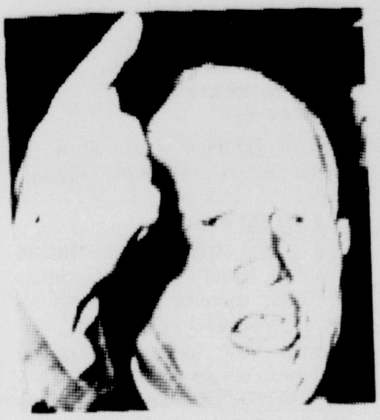
Khrushchev's Wife



Khrushchev's first wife, we are told by John Nobel, a prisoner of 13 years in Communist prison camps, spent 8 years in the concentration camp of Potma, Russia. She was placed in prison by her own husband.

John Nobel adds that his wife was a Christian and was praying for Khrushchev. Khrushchev was touring the United States shaking hands and exchanging smiles with Americans. His own first wife, though, and thousands and thousands of Christians were tortured to death in Communist prisons.

A moving account of their courageous faith and stand for the Lord is contained in the book TORTURED FOR CHRIST, by Rev. Richard Wurmbrand, a best-seller in 27 languages.

Be interested in the plight of our persecuted brethren behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains. You can help! Mail coupon for the book, "Tortured for Christ" by Rev. Richard Wurmbrand.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

There is a new motion picture due to be released soon that is so exciting and well done it will undoubtedly bring an Academy nomination, if not another Award itself, to Ernest Borgnine. The title: EMPEROR OF THE NORTH POLE; and Borgnine's co-stars are Lee Marvin and Keith Carradine. The film is the classic story of conflict —free man versus the establishment—and Borgnine's role is that of a man more brutal and vicious than the role he played in 1953 in FROM HERE TO ETERNITY. I'm certain anyone who saw that film will remember Fatso. Ernest Borgnine became the first contemporary "character superstar" with his role of MARTY in 1955. That film gave him his Academy Award. His film credits are too numerous to list here.

Borgnine didn't begin his acting career until he was 28 years old. He spent ten years in the Navy and decided to get out, even though another ten years would have given him the necessary twenty for retirement and he would have been only 38 years old. But the war and military life had begun to bother him and he wanted out. After he had been out for several months and had not found a job that suited him, he almost decided to re-enlist. It was his mother who accidentally put him on to acting. One day when he was standing around complaining about not knowing what to do, she said casually, "Why don't you be an actor? You like making a fool of yourself in front of people."

He took her seriously and studied acting at a Hartford, Connecticut acting school for four months on the G.I. Bill, then hitchhiked to the famed Barter Theatre, Virginia's state theatre in Abingdon, which he credits with teaching him his craft between 1946 and 1950. Borgnine started at the bottom, painting flats, doing odd backstage jobs, moving into bit parts and leads until he could "carry as many as 14 shows in my head at the same time." In 1949, Brock Pemberton, who produced HARVEY on Broadway, attended Barter's production in which Borgnine played the hospital attendant. Pemberton offered Borgnine that role in the road company, but had to wait two years until this serious actor felt he was ready.

Borgnine's first professional acting job was as a detective in a radio drama. He made his film debut in a supporting role in WHISTLE AT EATON FALLS, returned to the road company of HARVEY as the hospital attendant, then went overseas to play Guilderstern in HAMLET with a troupe entertaining U.S. servicemen in Europe. Wherever he travels, Ernie is usually greeted as MARTY or McHALE. Four years' worth of McHALE'S NAVY, plus the continuous re-runs, guarantees him perpetual TV fans, particularly among the younger set.

A performer who is always working, Borgnine cheerfully discusses his career goofs. As in the motion picture WILLARD, for which he was offered either straight salary or a percentage of the profits. "I exercised my usual fine judgment," he says ruefully, "and took the salary. Who'd ever want to see a cast of rats?" The film was one of the top box-office hits of 1971.

The general consensus is that almost every star who has played Las Vegas, Reno, or Lake Tahoe has lost considerable money at the gaming tables. In some cases those fabulous $50,000 a week and up salaries have gone back entirely to the house, with additional coin following. I've lost my share in the past, so naturally I was anxious to talk to Stanley Roberts, whose new book, HOW TO WIN AT BLACKJACK, is presently available.

Roberts is president of the California-based Scientific Research Services. He says he has devised an unbeatable system to leave the blackjack table with a profit. "My book," he says, "is the inside story of just what goes on in the gambling casino. It tells you about the pit bosses, the dealers, and the shills. It also points out how to spot and avoid cheating, which is on the rise at many places. But, most of all, it tells you how you can get the casino to play your game, instead of your playing their game."

Roberts is a licensed architect, real estate broker, and city planning consultant who, with the help of a computer, figured out how to beat the blackjack tables in Las Vegas in order to build his own buildings. Now successfully engaged in three businesses, he has released his secrets for the general public's use. He has been barred from several casinos and casino owners have refused to let him play when challenged to a $3000 match game.

Whether or not it really works I can't say. I've read the book carefully and some day I'll try the system. The only time I ever beat the casino, however, was in Reno. I had been riding a bus from Pullman, Washington to Los Angeles. The bus had a fifteen-minute stop in Reno and I started playing a dime slot machine. When I ran out of dimes I jerked on the handle out of annoyance. To my astonishment the wheels started turning. I tried again and it worked again. When I won it paid off, but I didn't have to put in any dimes. I pleaded with the bus driver to give me more time but he wouldn't. As it turned out, I still pulled $23 out of the machine.

So, if you buy Stanley Roberts' book and it works, or doesn't, write to him c/o Scientific Research Service, 1541 North Laurel Avenue, #306, Los Angeles, California 90046. If you find a broken slot machine that pays off, write to me c/o this paper.

Quiz: What Gives You "Blues"? What Chases Them Away?

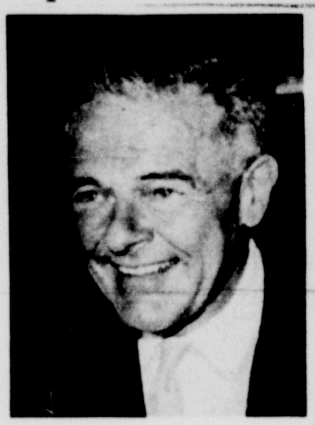
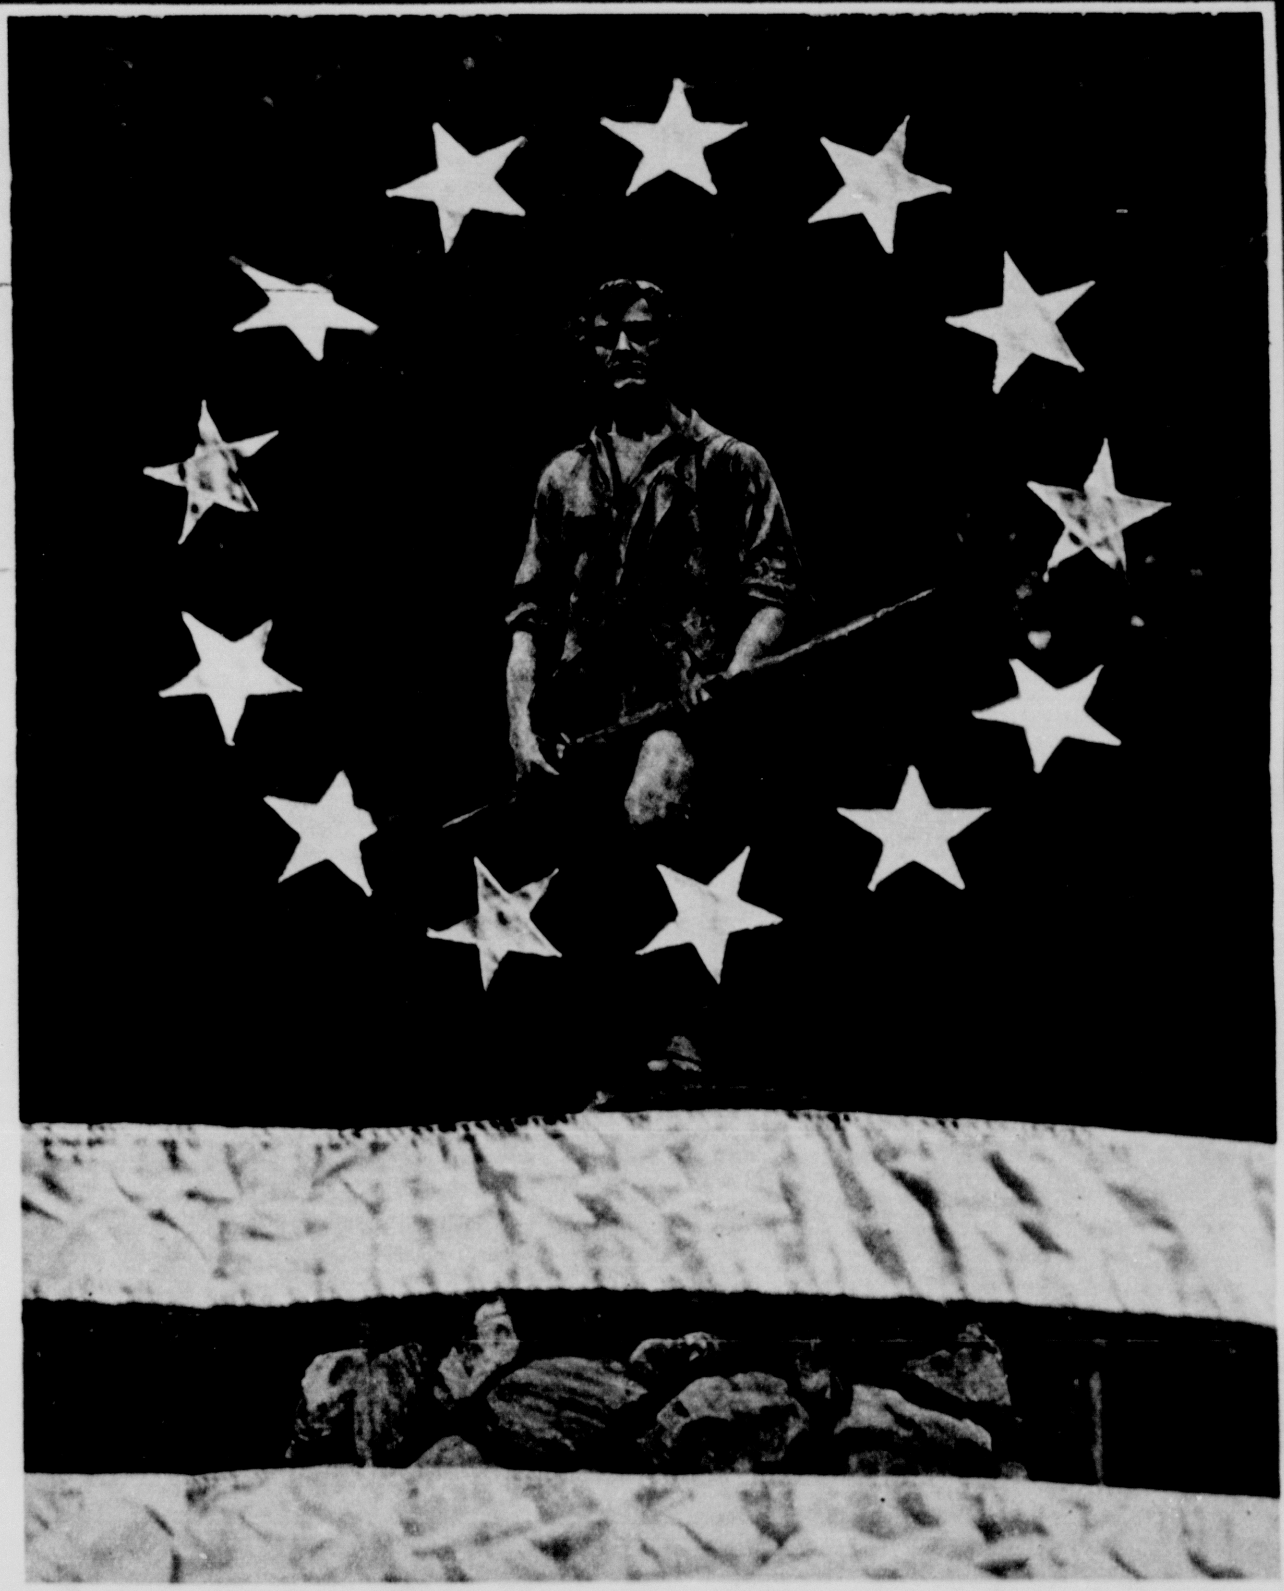
Try Frankfurters On a Skewer— Shish Kebab Style!

"Our ideals are as noble as when first written into the Declaration of Independence.... But there must be enthusiasm for these ideals. Otherwise, enthusiasm for what is bad will surely triumph over lack of enthusiasm for what is good. Without enthusiasm—without human sympathy—words are pretty dry. In all candor, have we this enthusiasm today? This utterly basic enthusiasm must come from the feelings of the people. It cannot be done by leaders. In the last analysis, it is up to each one of us to make our nation practice what it preaches and live up to its ideals."



—Henry Cabot Lodge

(who gives his blueprint for a changing America on page 6).



Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ

Why is it that your Charlie Brown TV specials never include adults?—Brian Fisk, Homer, Mich.

● The adults, such as Linus' beloved teacher Mrs. Othmar, are only seen through the eyes—and words—of the Peanuts characters. They are a lot like the inside of Snoopy's doghouse, which boasts a pool table, Van Gogh and Wyeth paintings, and a library of classics. I'm sure everyone would be a little disappointed if I attempted to draw all that. You can imagine what the adults look like much better than I can draw them.

FOR BEATRICE ARTHUR, star of "Maude"

You said in FAMILY WEEKLY that you dress in the style you prefer on "Maude" because the character is based somewhat on you. Are you really as domineering to your husband as Maude is?—Rita Bachman, West Lafayette, Ohio

● That part isn't me! Maude's domineering quality is exaggerated because people find it funny.

FOR JOEY HEATHERTON

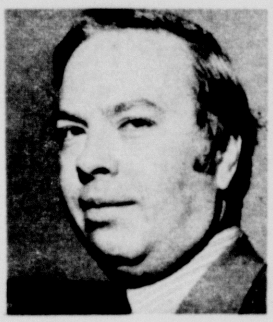
● Yes, but I didn't finish. I loathed school. The teachers were always intimidating me and putting me down. That's one of the reasons I quit after one year of college.

FOR PIERRE RINFRET, economist

The $600 personal-income-tax exemption was instituted years ago. What would the exemption have to be in 1973 dollars to equal the original $600 in buying power?—Wayne Witzke, Seaford, Del.

● The $600 personal-tax exemption was first allowed in 1948. From 1948 to 1972, consumer prices went up 74 percent. So the 1972 exemption would have had to be $1,043 to equal the purchasing power that $600 had in 1948. The 1972 personal-tax deduction of $750 leaves the average taxpayer a good deal worse off than he was in 1948.



FOR MARGARET HAMILTON, actress

I've heard you love children. Don't you regret bringing terror to them as the Wicked Witch in "Wizard of Oz"?—B. A., Allentown, Pa.

● I deeply regret that it has terrified some children. I wish parents wouldn't let them see it until they're at least five years old. But they do get over it. A man about 35 stopped me the other day and said, "You scared me when I was a little boy." I apologized, and he said, "Don't be sorry, I loved it!"

FOR REDD FOXX, star of "Sanford and Son"

I read in the newspaper that your real name is John Elroy Sanford—a most dignified name. How in the world did you get tagged Redd Foxx?—Mary Calley, Maybrook, N.Y.

● In black society, men with light skin are often called "Red." I was nicknamed "Chicago Red." For performing purposes I added a "d"; and with the word "foxy" in mind, as well as the famous baseball player Jimmy Foxx, I decided on Redd Foxx.

FOR ALLEN FUNT

What's the most difficult kind of situation in filming "Candid Camera"?—D. Liston, Detroit, Mich.

● In our current movie, "Money Talks," we were filming a sequence in a restaurant about how silly tipping can be. The first guy we photographed was having lunch with someone he didn't want the world to know about. This happens maybe three times out of a thousand—and it's embarrassing!

You had to become steeped in the forties so you could play the roles you've played. Do you feel you would have liked living in that era?—A. S. N., Redding, Calif.

● The only things I can truthfully say that I prefer about that era are the style and class: the cars, the clothes. We seem to have gotten away from that: Quality has ceased to be the prime consideration. But I think the forties and fifties were very suppressed, and it pleases me to believe that we're living in a freer atmosphere now.

FOR JOAN CRAWFORD

When Ann-Margret made her movie debut in "Bye Bye Birdie," you were asked if she was a new star. You said, "Give her ten years, then ask me." Well, ten years are up. What's your verdict?—Robert T. Irvin, Clarksville, Tenn.

● I believe Ann-Margret has proved herself to be an extremely fine actress. Yes, she's a star. She is, as we all know, a magnificent singer and dancer. But she also has a very sensitive dramatic quality that I believe makes her an even greater performer.

Ford ...has a better idea (we listen better)

IN THIS GRIND-EM-OUT WORLD, IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A QUALITY CIGARETTE?

If the cigarette is Kent there is.

Kent is probably the most quality-tested cigarette made.

We try to get rid of any taste-robbing imperfections before a Kent ever sees the light of a match. (Over 200 different quality checks in the manufacturing end, alone.)

But Kent quality goes beyond that.

We go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find the right kind of tobaccos for the milder Kent blend.

To complement this blend, we even invented our own filter, the famous Micronite filter—to smooth the flavor of Kent.

Why are we such sticklers about how Kent is made?

Because, that way we can give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

King Size or Deluxe 100's.

Micronite filter.
Mild, smooth taste.
America's quality cigarette.

By HENRY CABOT LODGE:

To Rebuild Our Faith in America: Ten

"I am convinced that the old political formula of left, right and center is largely inapplicable to important issues in this country. The urgent need is for government that is efficient, trustworthy, farsighted and free from selfish influences."

In 1976 we will celebrate our 200th anniversary as a nation. Now is a good time to look back to see how well we have carried out our stated purposes as set forth in the Declaration of Independence and the Preamble to the Constitution. When we look, we plainly see that the "inalienable rights" of "all men" have not been assured, and that the constitutional mandate to "establish justice" has not been carried out.

And yet there are pluses as well as minuses:

During the past 50 years, for example, life expectancy has increased about 50 percent, the working day has been cut one-third, and per capita output has more than doubled. The advances in medical science have made ours a healthier world. Higher education has become a possibility for millions of youths, whereas 50 years ago it was largely confined to a wealthy few. Much social legislation has been enacted. Hitler's attempts at conquest were defeated in a terrible war. And after that war, billions of dollars were spent to help our former enemies rebuild. There was the wisdom to begin the United Nations, to construct NATO, and to carry out the Marshall Plan, which saved Europe from being overwhelmed. Television, radio and aviation have revolutionized life. Our gross national product astounds us. We have gone to the moon. The list goes on and on.

Our country has thus shown itself to be strong in many ways, able to solve many problems, and tough enough to take much punishment.

One thing, however, that could be disastrous would be the condition described by W. B. Yeats, in which "the best lack all conviction while the worst are full of passionate intensity."

Why do I suggest this dismal possibility? Surely not because there is anything wrong—or even inadequate – about our ideals. They are as noble as when first written into the Declaration of Independence: that "all men are created equal" and have a right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

But there must be enthusiasm for these ideals. Otherwise, enthusiasm for what is bad will surely triumph over lack of enthusiasm for what is good. Without enthusiasm – without human sympathy – words are pretty dry. In all candor, have we this enthusiasm today?

In many ways, I fear the answer is "No." There is today a lack of trust in government and a cynical belief that government is a tool of special interests. This cynicism stems mostly from the way the system itself has developed: Measures to restore public confidence in government are urgently needed. The following are some of my suggestions to this end:

● To begin with, we should reform our system for electing the President and the Vice President so as to eliminate the very real present possibility that the candidate who gets the most popular votes might also lose the election—an event that has occurred in the past and which, were it to happen again, would further shake public confidence in our system. I believe that the best way to do this is to abolish the Electoral College and count the electoral vote in proportion to the popular vote.

● The nomination of the President and Vice President also raises many questions: Should we continue the convention system, or should we abolish it and elect our candidates via a nationwide primary? The irritation caused by occasional crudities at some conventions should not blur the fact that the convention is a device that has served us well. It provides a forum—and a well-understood procedure—for settling the major-party nominations in time for the election, so that a change in the office of chief executive (always a tricky business in any country) can take place in an orderly way. When one man has an overwhelming lead for the nomination—as Franklin D. Roosevelt did in 1936—the convention is the place where this fact can be registered and acted on. When there is a contest – as between Eisenhower and Taft in 1952, for example – the convention provides the place for settling the contest. When there is a deadlock, the convention becomes a true "college," where the party's leading men can meet, talk and evolve a compromise.

● Closely connected with the election of the President is the election of U.S. senators and members of the House of Representatives. Should we, as has been suggested, increase the terms of members of the House from two to four years—the same as the President's term? If so, should we limit the number of terms a member could serve, say, to two terms—that is, to eight years—thus ending a member's service in the House and, of course, ending his seniority? Would this change not bring government closer to the people? And should similar changes be considered for the tenure of senators?

● These questions are all closely interrelated. Each one has its complications and each one is fundamental. They have brought me to the conclusion that there is a pressing need for hearings to be held by appropriate congressional committees soon. The purpose of these hearings should be to inform and alert public opinion to alternate methods of choosing Presidents, Vice Presidents, senators and representatives. The hearings should be as public, as dramatic and as interesting as possible. The list of witnesses should include political scientists, campaign managers and officeholders. Such hearings, if conducted with imagination, would have a stimulating effect on public opinion. Without public support, attempts to solve problems as fundamental as these will surely fail.

● There should be periodic surveys of the Federal Government for the promotion of economy and efficiency—to get the snarls out of the machinery—similar to the work of the two Hoover Commissions.

● An eye should also be kept on the quality of coordination existing between Federal agencies: between the White House, the State Department, the Defense Department, the CIA and the Disarmament Agency, so that, for example, while State is on the verge of reaching an international settlement, Defense, without this knowledge, will not undertake some new military operation.

● The President should also be authorized to veto specific items in appropriation bills. This authority exists in virtually every modern government. In the U.S., however, the President must either veto the whole appropriation bill, if there is only one feature that is clearly objectionable, or he must let the objectionable portion also become law.

● The Constitution should be amended so that appointments made by the President in the Executive Branch would stand unless rejected by a two-thirds vote. This would give the President power and responsibility, while still retaining enough congressional check.

● The major costs of campaigning for President should be paid for by the Government, so that public officials will not be under obligation to private persons. This, more than anything else, is what gives rise to the allegations that government is the tool of special interests.

● We must put the nation on the road to abolishing poverty—and not just depend on something trickling down from the economic activity at the top of the heap. Enactment of some form of guaranteed income would benefit the whole community because it would make society as a whole more contented and thus more stable. The goal would be for the employables to have work, for the unemployables to be treated decently, and for all to have proper housing and medical care—without bankrupting the rest of us.

I am convinced that the old political formula of left, right and center is largely inapplicable to important issues in this country. The urgent need is for government that is efficient, trustworthy, farsighted and free from selfish influences. Without such government, no policy—whatever its ideological hue—can succeed.

If, prizing our ideals, we move with feeling, we will find the strength of mind and will to make the needed governmental changes, to decide what our priorities should be and to unify the country once again. Then we will find that, invigorated, our ideals have an unlimited potential with which we can, God willing, solve our problems.

This utterly basic enthusiasm must come from the feelings of the people. It cannot be done by leaders. "We the people," to use the phrase in the Preamble to the Constitution, are crucial. In the last analysis, it is up to each one of us to make our nation practice what it preaches and live up to its ideals.

Mr. Lodge Recalls His Childhood

My father died when I was seven. I remember him as a big, handsome man with white teeth, blue eyes, thick light-brown hair, and a deep tan. He would draw me pictures of men on stiff filing cards, making the heads out of red and blue sealing wax. He would take me to Rock Creek Park in Washington and make little sailboats out of scraps of wood, equip them with paper sails, and launch them into the creek.

His great interest in life was writing poetry, but he also worked in my grandfather's office in the Senate. At first we lived in a beautiful old house with a big garden at 1925 F Street, which is now the "1925 F Street Club." My parents then built a house on Massachusetts Avenue, near Sheridan Circle, backing on Rock Creek Park.

Washington in those days was a sleepy Southern town. The streets were quiet. The street cars on their rails made little noise and the sound of their bells was pleasant. The clip-clop of the horse-drawn taxis (known as herdics) and the almost inaudible hum of the "electrics"—the automobiles moved by storage batteries in which ladies traveled about the town—would never even drown a whisper. Gasoline autos were infrequent, and the air under all the leafy archways lining the streets was clean. There were many large private houses, mostly of red-brick Federalist style, with white columns and trim. But there was also plenty of room, many vacant lots and parks—and many fewer people.

As a child I was surrounded by some remarkable people, to whom the statement of the French philosopher Montaigne applied: "It is an absolute perfection, and as it were divine, to know how, in all sincerity, to get the very most out of one's own individuality." The adults in my childhood certainly knew how to do that. Of how many can that be said today in our compressed and bureaucratic society? Has work on the production line or in great offices had a standardizing effect on human beings? Is the shrinkage of individualism the result of putting 14 million men through the military services in World War II or of putting millions through colleges? Or was it simply because my parents knew remarkable people, who were, in Archibald MacLeish's words, the "untouched, uncoached, undoctored, untinted human self, the self itself, the man, the woman"?

Arizona Kabobs*
Mustard
Southwest Grits Casserole*
Mixed Green Salad
Rolls Butter or Margarine
Beer Coffee Milk
Red, White & Blue Dessert Mold

*Recipe given

ARIZONA KABOBS

1 can (13½ ozs.) pineapple chunks, undrained
¼ cup firmly packed brown sugar
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
1 lb. skinless frankfurters, quartered
1 large green pepper, cut in 1 inch squares
1 can (1 lb.) whole onions, drained
1 pt. cherry tomatoes

1. Drain pineapple, reserving liquid. Combine pineapple liquid, brown sugar and mustard in small saucepan. Bring to boiling, beating with wire whisk. Boil uncovered 5 minutes.

2. Thread frankfurter pieces on skewers alternately with pineapple chunks, green pepper, onions and cherry tomatoes. Brush kabobs with sauce.

3. Grill over hot coals 5-10 minutes, turning and basting often. Slide kabobs onto plates to serve.

Makes 6-8 servings

Note: If desired, fresh or canned mushroom caps, apple wedges, orange sections or parboiled zucchini, cut in 1 inch pieces, can be substituted for the above vegetables.

SOUTHWEST GRITS CASSEROLE

5 cups cooked grits*
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
4 cups sour cream
3 cans (3½-oz. size) peeled mild Jalapeño peppers, drained and chopped
1 lb. Monterrey Jack or mozzarella cheese, cut in thin strips
¾ cup grated Cheddar cheese

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease a 3-qt. casserole.

2. Season grits with salt and pepper. Blend sour cream with Jalapeño peppers.

3. In prepared casserole layer the grits, sour cream-peppers mixture and Jack cheese. Repeat layers, finishing with grits on top.

4. Bake for 35-45 minutes, until bubbly throughout. Just before serving, sprinkle with grated Cheddar cheese and broil 4-6 inches from source of heat, until cheese melts.

Makes 8-10 servings

*To prepare 5 cups cooked grits: Bring 5 cups water and 1 teaspoon salt to boiling in medium saucepan. Slowly add 4¼ cups quick-cooking grits. Return to boiling; reduce heat. Cook 3-5 minutes, uncovered, stirring occasionally.

Now, medical science has the power to say to you:

Follow these 3 simple steps, and

BEGIN YOUR "MIDDLE YEARS" AT 70, 80, EVEN 90!

Announcing — an incredibly simple, medically proven, overwhelmingly documented ANTI-AGING program that is designed to:

retain the strength and grace and power of a trained athlete in your body beyond your seventies . . .

and keep you in vibrant good health till ninety or more . . . even if you feel "rotten" today . . . even if your mother or father died far too young of diseases that are STILL carried in your bloodstream!

Yes, This Medical "Youth-Building Program" is so Strong That It Can Even Overcome Poor Heredity!

It is so strong, in fact, that it may actually make you look twenty or more years younger than your parents did at the same age . . . at the same exact time that it enables you to live thirty or forty years longer than they did!

We realize, of course, that these facts may seem virtually impossible to you at this moment . . . until you are shown the new medical techniques by which these goals are attained! They are:

1. The most powerful "age-reversing mechanism" known to man . . . which takes exactly six minutes per day . . . may be done by any man or woman, no matter how poor their health today . . . and which is bluntly recognized by one of the leading physicians in this book to give far better "youthifying" results — far faster — than even "cell therapy" treatments costing hundreds of dollars apiece!

2. A direct attack on the stored-up emotional poisons in your body that eat away strength and youth like internal acid, and replace them with never-flagging fatigue! This incredibly simple technique drains out those poisons, and that deadly fatigue, in approximately ten of the most revivifying minutes you have ever spent!

And, finally —

3. A new way to lose weight — not a diet — designed to change your present suicidal eating habits in exactly 48 hours! And, to break at last the vicious fat-multiplying cycle inside your body, that causes you to put on more weight, from less food, than your thin friends.

Let Us Repeat Again: These Medical Techniques Are So Powerful That They Actually REVERSE THE AGING PROCESS — WITHOUT DRUGS!

They cause you, quite simply, to grow stronger and not weaker, as you grow older! And here is the medical documentation to prove it:

In tests conducted at a leading University and Medical School in Southern California, it was discovered that life-prolongation, accomplished this way, not only added decades to potential human life spans, but — even more important — also produced vastly increased vitality and vigor, as well as startlingly heightened resistance to dread "senile decline!" (Reported on page 129 of this thrilling new book.)

As a result of scientific observations and experiments conducted in several different locations in the United States (as well as in Europe and Soviet Russia), it was definitely established that these techniques will enable almost any individual to live beyond 90 . . . and even beyond 100 healthy, productive, thoroughly enjoyable years — even if he or she had tragically short-lived parents or grandparents! In other words, disastrous heredity can now be overcome! (See page 36.)

At a leading Gerontology Research Center on the Pacific Coast, its' president bluntly stated that a single one of the techniques given to you here had (in essence): ". . . reversed the aging process and over a period of time restored the characteristics of youth to the bodies of middle-aged men!" (See Page 129.)

And one of his colleagues, discussing the same simple procedure, went so far as to state that it: ". . . relieves joint stiffness, lowers the blood pressure, and reduces the amount of fat in the body tissues. It acts like a miracle drug, and it's free for the doing!" (Italics ours — see page 130.)

But All This Research Documentation Is Only The PROLOGUE To The Real Meat Of This Revolutionary New Book! FOR NOW THE YOUTH-RESTORING PRINCIPLES LEARNED ALL OVER THE WORLD ARE PUT TO WORK — INSTANTLY — FOR YOU!

How to lose weight without counting calories — by harnessing the same exact forces which made you overweight in the first place! (It is not unusual, with these methods, to lose 15 and more pounds the first week — up to 10 pounds the second week — and a good hundred pounds or more, in as little as 15 weeks. And the weight stays off — for decades!)

How to add 10 . . . 20 . . . perhaps even 30 glowing years to your life, simply by avoiding the everyday "Life-Traps" that make you grow old too fast!

How a careful examination of your eye can tell you, with unerring accuracy, if you've eaten the wrong foods that night for dinner . . . and therefore have to give them up for a few days till your body's digestive powers restore themselves to the correct balance!

Little-known-stress-on-the-heart Number 1 . . . that kills unwary thousands every year . . . and can be prevented simply by reading a single sentence on page 70!

When you must eat . . . and eat . . . and eat if you really want to lose weight!

"Hungry enzymes" that now infest your body! They are the real reason all past attempts to peel off ugly fat have been such torture for you! And you can "command" your body to destroy them — for good — as simply as this! (See page 82.)

Why most people's muscles simply "melt away" as they grow older! (No wonder "old age" to them means ever-growing weakness!) And how you can stop that muscle-melting process overnight . . . and replace it with vibrant new strength!

And More! And More! And More! Like This —

What really causes vigor to drain out of the "aging" body! A simple fluid that if the body gives up too much of, it then dies of old age! And how you can "pump that vital cell-nourishing fluid" right back into your body . . . actually increase your body capacity to utilize by as much as 133% . . . in just a few thrilling minutes every day!

How to exercise your heart! Anyone — no matter what age— can do it! And prevent the greatest tragedy of all — premature heart attack!

Read the line in the middle of page 144 as though your life depended upon it! Because, if you've ever worried about killing your own heart through the worst possible error you can make — this one line will show you how to avoid it . . . forever!

World's easiest exercise program — for men and women who are pitifully out of shape!

How to avoid the man-made diseases! And save your body, and your nerves, at exactly the same time!

What your sleep, or lack of it, is really telling you! And how to ease yourself into a good night's rest again!

What your fingers tell you that can save your life! Listen to them . . . obey their command . . . and you may be able to out-run your own youngster!

If your blood pressure is soaring, you must do this, right now!

World's most effective weapon against demolished nerves! Gets you back to loving life, instead of hating it, in just about ten blessed minutes!

No more nervous breakdowns! And no more un-necessary heart attacks (or strokes!) The technique shown to you on page 197 may banish them from your life — for good!

How to add ten years to your life, by avoiding one little fatal mistake — at night! Before you go to sleep!

How to laugh at old age — at least till you're ninety! A simple program so effective that it may actually cause strangers to think that you are your best friends' grown children!

And Yours To Prove — In Its Entirety — For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

The choice is yours. This is a book for people who mean business. It costs you nothing! We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon — TODAY!

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS SECTION

How to survive a heart attack! Why so many heart attacks are the "silent" type, that kill without the victim even being aware he has been seriously ill before! The one warning signal you simply CAN'T ignore! Why HALF of all heart attack victims ACTUALLY KILL THEMSELVES because they just don't know what to do!

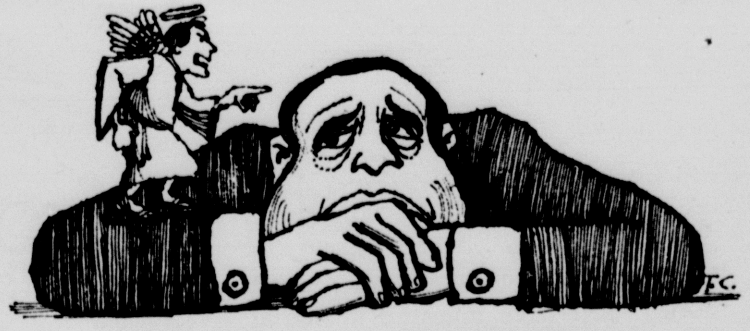
What Makes You Feel Blue– And What Can You Do About It?



By John E. Gibson

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It is easy to tell the difference between the ordinary, garden-variety case of the "blues" that everyone is subject to now and then and the deeper, more serious and harder to shake form of depression.

2. When you've got the blues you should avoid excitement –it's likely to produce inner conflicts that will make you feel worse.

3. Feeling down can make your blood pressure go up.

4. Even tiny babies get the blues.

5. Depression-prone people differ personality-wise from those who seldom feel down-in-the-dumps.

6. The frustration and disappointment that cause the bluest kind of blues result from outside circumstances that you cannot control.

7. If you've got the blues and wonder why, an overactive conscience could be the villain.

ANSWERS

1. True. Studies sponsored by the National Institutes of Health show that in most cases, the common garden-variety form of depression tends to have purely psychological symptoms, while more serious forms are likely to be characterized by physical symptoms as well – such as sleeplessness, loss of appetite, weight loss, lack of interest in the opposite sex, etc.

2. False – according to findings of a university study, which show that depressed persons are benefited by getting more excitement into their lives. It is recommended that depression-prone people "facilitate an increasing experience of social excitement" by developing excitement-relevant skills. Examples would be skiing, mountain climbing, or various games and activities of the more exciting, action-packed variety.

3. True–particularly if "low" periods occur often and are accompanied by feelings of concern and apprehension. The findings of British medical research show that "repeated spells of depression, when characterized by anxiety and agitation, lead to a sustained rise in blood pressure."

4. True. Tiny infants are subject to depression just as adults are. As Dr. Adam J. Krakowski, president of the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine, points out in summing up his findings: "The symptoms of depression in early infancy consist of failure to thrive, crying, sleep disturbances, head banging and colic. Loss of appetite and weight are also pronounced." He also notes that continuous crying without any organic cause should always be suspect, as it may be caused by anxiety or depression.

5. True. A psychological study of depression-prone and non-depression-prone people has shown that those in the more - subject - to - the - blues category tended to differ from the others in that they had less self-esteem, less self-confidence, were more given to anxious self-doubt, more inclined to suppress feelings of aggressiveness and assertiveness. They were also inclined toward greater "dependence on other people's good opinion of themselves, and correspondingly more sensitive to criticism or rejection by others."

6. False. Studies show that people feel most depressed when there is nobody but themselves to blame for a lamentable situation – when, as one psychologist observes, "the self must bear the responsibility for the frustration generated." (It's a lot less hard on the ego, a lot less damaging to the self-esteem, when we can find somebody else or some outside condition to hang the blame on.)

7. True. Studies show that in many cases depression is triggered by an overactive conscience that disapproves of some of our acts and/or attitudes. It may even be disapproving of deeds or thoughts that we've consciously forgotten. As one leading authority has observed, depression is often the result of "an extreme form of self-punishing behavior."

True or False:
If you've got the blues and wonder why, an overactive conscience may be the villain.

How to collect from Social Security at any age!

by Jack Haslinger

Would you like to know how much money you have invested in Social Security right to the penny? Then would you like to know how to get the most from that investment including all the brand new Social Security benefits? Now you can do both by using the short easy coupon at the bottom of this page. Here is the way it works. The left half of the coupon will be sent to the proper government office. They will run a check on your account and then send you a report in a confidential sealed envelope. This report will tell you how much of your earnings have been recorded in your Social Security account year by year. There is no charge for this service, not even postage.

The right half of the coupon will be used as a shipping label to send you a copy of a new book entitled, "How to collect from Social Security at any age." If you think that you have to wait until retirement age to start collecting your Social Security benefits, this book will really open your eyes. Here are some of the little-known facts about Social Security you will find out about in this book:

- How to increase the amount of your payment if you are already on Social Security.
- How to collect your share of the brand new Social Security benefits just passed by Congress.
- How to qualify for Social Security disability pensions at any age.
- How to increase your Social Security benefits.
- How to get Social Security benefits when you are pregnant.
- How to make your whole family eligible for Social Security benefits, even your youngest children.
- How to replace a lost Social Security card.
- How to replace a lost Social Security check.
- How to get a refund if you have overpaid your Social Security taxes. (Studies show that two out of three people overpay.)
- How to shop at different Social Security offices in order to get the best deal.
- Should you tatoo your Social Security number on your body?
- What papers do you need in order to file a Social Security claim?
- How ten million people who are only 30 years old, on the average, collect Social Security.
- Should you get a divorce in order to get more Social Security? (a lot of people already have.)
- Should you have two Social Security cards?
- How to get a huge lump sum Social Security payoff.
- How to make sure your employer is not cheating you on your Social Security.
- How you may be cheating yourself out of your Social Security benefits.
- When are the five times you should get in touch with your Social Security office?
- How to work and still get Social Security benefits.
- How to cash in on Social Security even if you've never paid a penny into it.
- How to get hospital and medical insurance for the aged.
- How students between the ages of 18 and 22 can get Social Security cash benefits.
- How to get the special Social Security benefits that are only for veterans.

Although this book can mean hundreds and perhaps thousands of dollars to you, it is priced at only $3.00. Remember, it is not enough to qualify for your Social Security benefits. To get your benefits you must know how to apply for them. The book tells you how to qualify, who to contact—including all necessary addresses, and what to say. This is a 100% no risk offer. If you do not like the book, return it and your $3.00 will be immediately refunded. You will still get the confidential report on your Social Security account.

If you do not take advantage of your new Social Security benefits, you are only cheating yourself, after all, you have already paid for them. It is easy to start getting your new Social Security benefits. Just fill out both parts of the coupon below. Mail the coupon and $3.00 in cash, check or money order to The Good News Publishing Co., 1818 Whipple Ave. N.W., Canton, Ohio, 44708. The book will be sent to you immediately by return mail. Your confidential Social Security report will be mailed to you separately as soon as the government has finished checking on your account. Checks and money orders should be made payable to The Good News Publishing Company.

Star Chat

By Peer J. Oppenheimer

Mae West:

"I Am Not Just a Star– I Am a Writer.... And a Thinker!"

FAMILY WEEKLY: What is your secret for staying so young?

MAE: I never had a face-lift, I never had anything surgical done to me. I just don't age. Of course, I don't drink and I don't smoke, and that may help. But I am sure those are not the only reasons. I eat only foods that are good for my system, and I exercise a lot. But even that's not the only reason. I am not just a star—I am a writer as well. And a thinker! I always keep busy. But that's not the only reason either. Maybe a little bit of everything.

FW: Do you think a woman should tell her age?

MAE: Age means nothing. It depends upon how a woman looks, how she feels. Everybody knows my age. [Editor's note: According to Information Please Almanac, Mae West was born on August 17, 1892.] Some people think I am 25 or 26. Some people think I am even younger than that. What do you think?

FW: I think you're an extremely good-looking woman for your age. I can't help noticing that everything, including your wardrobe, is all white. Why is that?

MAE: I never feel dressed unless I wear white. But if you look around [the Venetian blinds of her Hollywood apartment were half-shut, so it wasn't that light in the room], you'll see that not everything is stark white, but sort of pale, blended colors. White with gold. Off-white.

MAE: I think they are both beautiful—in different ways. A man should be masculine, a woman should be feminine. I don't like men who look effeminate. I've always had a beautiful figure. See that sculpture over there? [She pointed to a white nude statue on the piano.] That's me. [Then she pointed to a picture behind me of a nude woman lying on a bed.] That's me too. It was painted without my knowing it.

FW: How did the artist do that?

MAE: Can't you see my head is turned away?

FW: I noticed at the dinner party the other day that you had a bodyguard with you. Why do you have a bodyguard?

MAE: Whenever I go out, there are so many people around that I can't move. So I don't go out any more. I exercise on my ranch, or at the beach. I also have a walking machine in my apartment. I never go any place without a bodyguard, not even down the corridor to the elevator, because there are always so many people who want autographs. Also, these days it is not too safe to be on the streets.

FW: Do you have any women friends?

MAE: I like women, but I really have no time to be pally. You see, I work too much, and mostly with men.

FW: Stories have it that when you worked with W. C. Fields in "My Little Chickadee," you didn't get along too well together. Is that true?

MAE: Well, I had heard that he drank a lot, and I had a clause put in my contract that if he drank, he'd be hustled off the set. I didn't want him off the picture, I just didn't want to be around him if he got drunk. And one day it happened. I had him taken off the set. After that, he didn't drink any more while we were working together.

FW: Was that the only point of contention?

MAE: I wrote "Little Chickadee," and I wrote a terrific part for him. A friend told him this was the best picture he'd ever had, so he got a little envious and asked if he could insert a few lines of his own. I said okay. So he put in a three-minute scene, and then held up the company for more money for having written it—and wanted co-billing with me!

"Some people think I am 25 or 26. Some people think I am even younger than that. What do you think?"

FW: Did he get it?

MAE: There was no choice but to give it to him. My scenes with him had been completed, but there were a lot of scenes still to be done, and he made it impossible for the company to shoot. He drank again. He had many ways of holding up production. Finally he got the money and the writing credit with me. And, as a result of it, he never made another picture for Universal.

FW: Or with you?

MAE: One was enough!

MAE: Raquel is okay, although she was a bit envious of what I wore. When I wore a black gown, she wanted to wear black. One day, at the last moment, I put on a white dress with black, and there wasn't enough time for her to run off and change into something white as well.

FW: Who do you think is the sexiest actor today?

MAE: Elvis Presley.

FW: If you had a second choice?

MAE: Tom Jones – when he sings. Chevalier had it too, in a high-class sort of way.

FW: In World War II, fliers' life jackets were called Mae Wests. How did that name originate?

MAE: When I first came to Paramount, the studio was on the rocks. They were ready to sell the studio and turn their 1,700 theaters into offices. But I came with a big public of my own. People had paid more to see me in the theater than any other star. And when I made my first two pictures for Paramount, "She Done Me Wrong" and "I'm No Angel," they saved the studio. So the people in the industry called me the "lifesaver." That's how the jackets got their names. [There are those who would argue with this explanation—but let that pass.]

FW: Will you do any more pictures?

MAE: People always talk about it, and they always send me stories, but I don't like any of them. I'd like to make another picture, because I'm interested in keeping my fans and making more fans. That's why I recently recorded a new album for MGM.

FW: How does it feel to be a living legend?

MAE: I don't feel any different. I've been on stage since I was eight. It has been my entire life. I've never known myself to feel any way but the way I do now.

ACUPUNCTURE BIRTH ON TV
Modern mother, ancient method

The birth of a baby: While the old Chinese method of acupuncture eased her pain, Danish TV journalist Hanne Risgaard had her baby as cameras filmed the event for later telecast in Denmark. Did all go well? Yes indeed. A healthy little girl was born, the cameramen got their films, and Hanne, 29, was spared much pain but was left alert enough to "help" the doctors. The acupuncture needles were wielded by Dr. Stefan Kosic, especially flown in from Stockholm by Hanne's husband, photographer Dieter Betz.

PROFESSOR AND THE ANGEL

How would you like the problem of finding an angel? Italian professor Fiorello Tosoni found himself in that spot. He needed a model for a life-size figure he was to paint in a church fresco. He was sitting in an English hotel lounge pondering his problem when in walked 22-year-old Helena Wynne, definitely an angelface. Did she take him seriously when he introduced himself, explained his mission, and told her that her face "had the glow of a real angel, an inner purity of being"? Well, Helena's just returned to Britain after modeling in Prato, Italy, for the angel's head, and will return shortly to model the full figure. So you see, the solution was devilishly simple.

QUOTE: Janet Leigh remembers with some misgivings what she now feels was the biggest mistake of her life, although at the time she didn't think so. "In the early 1960's, I made quite a number of trips to South America for the State Department's People to People Program. As a result, when Carl Rowan gave up his ambassadorship to Finland, President Johnson offered it to me. I was very tempted to take it. My daughters were young enough to be taken out of school and put in a school there. It would have been a fascinating job, and once you are an ambassador, you're called ambassador for the rest of your life. But I'd been married to Bob Brandt, who's a stockbroker, for only a couple of years, and he would have found it difficult to operate his business from Finland. Also, my being an ambassador would have made him—what? I didn't think it was fair to him or our marriage. Now that I look back, I feel it was the kind of opportunity that happens only once in a lifetime, and I wish I had accepted it." UNQUOTE.

GLASSY STARE

I wear my glasses more now
Than in my early years,
And this is not entirely
A cause for anxious tears.

Time was when ten times daily
My glasses I'd misplace,
But now I'm spared the trouble:
They're always on my face.

JULIET LOWELL'S CELEBRITY LETTERS

Juliet Lowell, author of the all-time best-seller "Dear Sir," collects unintentionally humorous letters to and from people in all walks of life.

Dear Dr. Helpern:

I read about your wonderful work at the time of the Coppolino Trial, so I'm sending you my Husband's suit, the one he wears to his office. I told him that I was sending it to the cleaner, so he wouldn't miss it. The reason is that my Husband has a new secretary and he has been coming home late from work all this past week. Could you please check the suit for women's fingerprints and lipstick?

Worried Wife

The handsome young man dining alone in a restaurant fancied himself quite a lady-killer. He flirted with the waitress throughout the meal, but she remained unimpressed. Frustrated, he looked into her eyes and said: "Aren't there three little words you'd like to have me whisper in your pretty pink ear?"

"Yes," she said, handing him the check. " 'Keep the change.' "

AN EXPERT ANSWERS YOUR QUESTIONS ABOUT MUSCLES

Our files show that thousands of readers like yourself want to build bulging muscles and achieve real physical power like their favorite athletic champions. How to go about it? We decided to ask an expert, Dave Prowse, 3-times British Weightlifting champion and leading fitness expert. Here are his answers.

Q. What does it take to build muscles?

A. Basically, it takes exercise. Almost any exercise will help to develop at least some of your muscles if you keep at it long enough and hard enough.

Q. Isn't there an easier way?

A. Yes. There is one outstandingly effective training method that is also fast and easy—the one I use and recommend—the new Bullworker system.

Q. What's that?

A. The Bullworker is a revolutionary new muscle-building exerciser based on Isometrics, the science that increases strength up to four times faster than conventional methods. In my opinion, it's the most advanced training system in the world today. Many leading athletes use it: World-famous Heavyweight Boxer Muhammad Ali, World Heavyweight Judo Champion Wim Ruska, and Cycling Champion Eddy Merckx, to name only a few.

Q. How long does Bullworker training take?

A. Bullworker provides absolutely the fastest kind of exercise possible. In fact, an introduction training program takes only 70 seconds a day. No other system—weightlifting, pulleys, or strenuous calisthenics—can give you results so quickly and easily. On the contrary, many old-fashioned methods take hours of sweaty, boring work each day... and it's often months before you begin to see improvements. Busy professional athletes and champions don't have time for that. Nobody does.

Q. How long does it take before you begin getting results?

Dave Prowse, 3-time British Weightlifting champion, demonstrates a super-effective 7-second exercise for building powerful biceps... using the new Bullworker with built-in powermeter.

A. With the Bullworker, you can actually begin to see and measure the positive results right from the very first day! Thanks to a built-in measuring device called the Powermeter. After every exercise you just check the reading to see exactly how much your strength has increased from the day before. There's no guesswork involved. Isometric Bullworker training can increase your power at the amazing rate of up to 4% per week! That means a 50% increase in strength in the first three months alone. And I've known many young men who have gone on to double and even triple their strength.

Q. What do those figures mean in visual terms?

A. They mean that in as little as 14 days you can actually begin to see muscle growth in a mirror and verify it with a tape measure. Every week thereafter brings ever faster growth.

Q. But to get such impressive results, don't you have to work very hard?

A. Absolutely not. That's the outstanding advantage of Isometric training... it's so amazingly easy! Each "Static-power" Isometric exercise takes only 7 seconds, and you barely have to move. It's not even necessary to disrobe. The Bullworker is so light and compact, it can be used at home, in the office, anywhere... even while watching TV! It's a great improvement over bulky, expensive weights, bicycle machines, pulleys, etc.

Q. Can Bullworker training even develop bodies which are weak and skinny, or fat and flabby?

A. Definitely! It's been proven by thousands of men of every shape, size and age all over the world. Bullworker training helps transform weak, thin arms into rippling, muscular pillars of strength, build broad, powerful shoulders, turn flat, shallow chests into deep, manly ones, forge loose stomach flab into steel-hard, well-defined muscle... build that "V" shape of a real athlete, develop sturdy, contoured thighs and calves.... And all this in record time!

What's more, I've known skinny, shy fellows who, after just a few short weeks with Bullworker, turned into real go-getters... every inch a man... bowling girls over with their dynamism, confidence, and new found power! You really have to see the remarkable effects of Bullworker for yourself to believe them!

Q. "How can I find out . . ." more about the Bullworker, perhaps actually try it?

A. I understand that the Bullworker distributor in the USA is now making it available—free—on a two week home-trial basis in order to introduce it to the general public. If your readers are interested in developing their bodies, in building muscles and strength faster than ever before possible, I suggest that they contact the US distributor for full details.

...AND GUARANTEED FOREVER—THE AMAZING VANADIUM MOLYBDENUM CARVING SET

Revolutionary new technological advance combines [illegible] Vanadium and Molybdenum into superb Total Edge Knives. So unique, so superior, they're guaranteed to stay sharp forever or we'll refund your money—anytime.

THE TOTAL EDGE KNIVES

Forget what you know about knives. This is the age of the fantastic Total Edge Cutlery Set, a revolutionary, unique set of knives with blades that always remain sharp and even. It became possible to design the Total Edge Knife only after our research technicians discovered a way to combine two rare and expensive metals, Vanadium and Molybdenum, into a tough, everlasting cutting tool that won't rust, bend or dull. American Consumer, Inc. stands proudly behind every knife we sell. We unconditionally guarantee them forever. No matter what happens, we'll replace the knife or your money, a month from now, a year, 20 years, anytime.

FOR EVERY CUTTING CHORE

These exciting products of man's imagination and scientific know-how are lightweight, thin and flexible. They can be used for every purpose, chopping, dicing, filleting, mincing, paring, carving . . . you name it. The permanently razor sharp Total Edge Knives cut cleanly and swiftly. They cut as thin a slice as you could possibly desire—meat, poultry, fruit, vegetables, bread—even onion slices so thin you can see right through them. And, they're uniquely engineered to protect fingers with handles safety-bonded to the blade.

SENSATIONAL LOW PRICE

Best of all—the low, low price—only $9.98 for the set of 4. Yet, the Total Edge set out-performs any knives you've ever seen, even sets selling for up to $24.98. How can we make the best for less? We feel our knives are so good, so unique, we've made an unusual commitment. We've gambled that this spectacular set of knives at the spectacularly low price of $9.98 will sell by the hundreds of thousands. That's a lot of knives. This volume permits us to pass on the unusual savings to you. Now, every household can have the finest cutlery set in the world. Take advantage of this unheard of offer now.

SET OF 4 FOR THE UNBELIEVABLE PRICE OF

On ordinary knife, edge is just a fraction of total surface. On the Total Edge Knives, the entire blade is the cutting edge.
